Central Softball League Organized

The annual meeting of the Central Softball League was held at the Orange Hall on Friday evening. Judging by the large crowd that attended there is considerable interest taken in games in this locality. Arthur Wilson was chairman of the meeting and Lorne Wilson was Secretary. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Following this there were lengthy discussions on rules and regulations to govern the games this year. Messrs Elmer Wood and Earl Holland were present representing White Lake and they reported that they had a team organized and wished to join the league. After some serious discussion it was decided that White Lake be added to the League. The league now has five teams, namely: White Lake, Elmer Wood, Manager; Ivanhoe, Harold Henderson, Manager; Minto, Geo. Gibson, Manager; Evergreen, Orval Casement, Manager; West Huntingdon, Lester Fraser, Manager. Messrs Goldie McInroy and Lester Fraser were appointed umpires for the season and Harry Loviband and Arthur Wilson were appointed to make pen sketches of the games for the local papers. The newly elected officers for the year were appointed as follows: Honorary President, Hon. J. R. Cooke, M.P.P.; President, Arthur Wilson; Secretary, Harold Henderson. The managers of various teams met at the conclusion of the meeting to draft the schedule of games.

A single schedule will be played. The team with the lowest number of points at the end of the season will be automatically eliminated. Sudden death games will be played by the remaining teams and the first and second teams will play three games to decide the winners. The schedule is as follows:

Monday, May 22nd, West Huntingdon at Minto.

Tuesday, May 23rd, White Lake at Ivanhoe.

Thursday, May 25th, Evergreen at West Huntingdon.

Friday, May 26th, Minto at White Lake.

Monday, May 29th, West Huntingdon at Evergreen.

Tuesday, May 30th, Ivanhoe at Minto.

Thursday, June 1st, Evergreen at White Lake.

Friday, June 2nd, Ivanhoe at West Huntingdon.

Monday, May 5th, Minto at Evergreen.

Tuesday, June 6th, Ivanhoe at W. Lake.

Friday, June 9th, West Huntingdon at White Lake.

Monday, June 12th, Minto at West Huntingdon.

LEAVE FOR FRANCE

Mr. and Mrs. John Villetorte and baby, Jeanne, left this morning for Montreal, and will sail from there tomorrow for Salles, France, where they will reside. Dr. and Mrs. Alger accompanied them as far as Montreal. Mr. Villetorte has been engaged by the Ontario Dept. of Highways, as engineer and surveyor for the past five years, and the highway between Stirling and Foxboro was constructed under his supervision. Both Mr. and Mrs. Villetorte's many friends will be sorry to learn of their departure from Canada, but join with the News-Argus in wishing them every happiness and success in their new home in France.

SHOE PITCHING POPULAR

With the ideal weather which has prevailed lately, horseshoe pitching has already developed into a popular sport. Daily the ring of shoes can be heard and pitchers of the "caulked toys" assemble on the courts, at the rear of Jeffrey's chopping mill and throw out challenges and "rings" are frequent. If this popular sport appeals to you—we refer to the men, but no doubt the ladies would be welcome too—you no doubt will be given an opportunity to display your skill any afternoon, weather permitting, on these courts. Last fall a Club was organized, with the courts in the arena, and at that time horseshoe pitching was the sport of the day.

MUST HAVE GUN PERMIT

On and after June 1, 1933, all persons hunting must have a gun permit other than a farmer on his own land. The Act reads as follows: "Every resident, who uses any firearm or air gun for the purpose of hunting or shooting any bird or animal except under authority of a license, shall be guilty of an offence against this Act, but this sub-section will not apply to farmers residing and hunting on their own lands, and in all actions and prosecutions under this sub-section, possession of any firearm or air gun shall be prima facie evidence that the person in possession thereof was hunting or shooting such birds or animals without a license."

PAYS VISIT TO U. S. A.

Miss Myrtle Reid, teacher at Centenary, Sidney Township, motored to Detroit and spent Easter week with cousins. Her mother, Mrs. Baldwin Reid, of Ivanhoe, returned home with her after spending the winter across the border. She spent several weeks with a niece and cousins in Detroit, after which she proceeded to Champaign, Illinois, via Chicago, where she made an extended visit with her brother, G. H. Minchin and family and reports a very pleasant visit in both cities. Mr. Minchin is an old Stirling boy, having graduated from the High School here in 1901, after which he taught for one year in the Ridge Road school. In 1902 he went West as far as Denver Colorado, where he secured a position with the Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Co. He has climbed step by step in the employment of that Company until now for a number of years, he has been Superintendent of the Illinois Division of that road, a division extending from Fort Madison to Chicago, and considered the banner division of that railway. He has kept in touch with his old home by frequent visits, when visiting his sister at Ivanhoe, and by an unbroken subscription to the News-Argus. Mrs. Reid said it was like meeting an old friend to greet the News-Argus there every Saturday morning during her visit.

Transients Meals are Discontinued by Council

The regular meeting of the Village Council was held on Monday night with Reeve W. C. West and Councillors Harper Rollins, Thos. Cranston, D. A. Burkitt and A. E. Dobbie present.

Mrs. Henry Tulloch and Miss Gena Spry, representing the local Women's Institute presented the Council with the final $200.00 payment toward the Community Hall. This makes a total of $1000.00 which this worthwhile organization has donated since the hall was erected. They also requested that they be given written authority for the free use of the hall, as was agreed to by former Councils.

A vote of thanks to the W. I. was passed by the Council in appreciation of the splendid assistance given by this Society and the W. I. was granted free use of the Community Hall for 1933.

Mr. Murney Hagerman was present and again raised the question regarding the re-opening of St. James' Street, running east and west, south of Mr. D. Utman's property. The Street Committee, Councillors Thos. Cranston and H. Rollins, had been instructed to investigate this street. They reported that Mr. Utman, when interviewed, was quite willing to remove the fence erected at the end, and clean up street — but desired to have a culvert and a roadway to his barn on that street. Councillor Cranston stated that he was not in favour of opening the street, owing to the expense, while Councillor Rollins, the other member of the Committee, felt it should be opened. After considerable discussion Councillor Dobbie moved, seconded by Councillor Rollins, that the street be ordered opened. Councillor Cranston moved an amendment, seconded by Councillor Burkitt, that the street remain as it is. The amendment was lost and the motion carried.

As a result of this action other streets in the village, that are now being used as private property, may be opened and fenced off.

Mr. F. G. Kent addressed the Council and requested the Council to inspect the ditch in front of his property. He also desired a proper approach to his house. The ditch was in a bad condition at present, due to the flushing out of the culvert. This matter was left in the hands of the Street Committee.

Mr. H. C. Martin, on behalf of the Board of Education, interviewed the Council and asked for free use of the Theatre for one afternoon, for a temperance lecture on the scientific use of alcohol, to be delivered to the students, under the auspices of the Board. Slides will be used, and as the assembly hall in the High School is not large enough, or suitable, hence the request for the Theatre. The lecture will be in no way political, and has been approved by the Ontario Department of Education. There will be no admission charge.

The Board of Education was granted free use of the Theatre for the lecture.

Treas. R. A. Patterson was present and asked that the Council pass a resolution authorizing the Royal Bank to pay waterworks debenture coupons and principal out of waterworks accounts. This necessary motion was passed. He also requested that a building in the cemetery be moved to another site, as its present location effected a plot. This matter was referred to the Cemetery Committee with power to act.

It was decided to install a summer water service in the cemetery.

The question of feeding transients arose after a bill for same had been presented. A resolution was passed to the effect that on and after May 2nd no transients will be fed at the expense of the corporation and this Constable will be notified of this action.

A letter was received from Mr. Beatty, Frankford road, thanking the Council for granting him a permanent water service so promptly. He asked permission to cut three or four trees in front of his property, as he contemplated opening a gas station, and also desired to know what the business tax would be.

Before any decision is made regarding the cutting of the trees the whole Council will investigate same. The business tax could not be set until the station is opened.

The Balance Sheet and Operating Report of the local Hydro Electric Commission was received and filed. It showed a surplus of $818.04 in last year's, and the sinking fund equity now amounts to $2277.14.

The cow by-law, which was passed years ago by the Council prohibiting cattle from pasturing on streets in the village is likely to be enforced more forcibly than in the past.

Mr. Morley Richardson, through Reeve West, desired to purchase wheels of old fire hand-pumper. No action was taken.

A resolution was passed instructing Mr. J. R. West, representative of the Routley Construction Co., contractors for installation of the Permanent Waterworks to repair the ditch and culvert in front of Mr. Er-

HAS TRIP ON ROYAL SCOT

Mr. John M. Black, of the Montreal Standard, a native of this village, was the only journalist in Canada who was privileged to travel on the famous Royal Scot train on its first inter-city run on the American Continent. This run was made over the C.P.R. short line between Montreal and Ottawa on Tuesday. During the run, speeds of 63, 65, 68, 70 and 72½ miles an hour were attained on various sections of the road — the maximum being reached between mileage 81 and 82, about 24 miles north of Vankleek Hill.

It is interesting to note, in view of that fact that Stirling, Ontario, was named after the famous castle town of Stirling, Scotland, that the Royal Highlander, another crack train of the London, Midland and Scottish Railway, passes through the Scottish town on its way from London to Perth and Aberdeen. The Royal Scot runs from London to Glasgow and to Edinburgh.

BANK INTEREST CHANGED

Official announcement of the reduction of bank interest on savings deposits, from three to 2½ per cent. has been made, and became effective from May 1. This brings the rate to the lowest point yet recorded in the relatively short history of Canadian banking.

No change is being made in 1½ per cent. rate on certain demand accounts. It is understood.

There is little possibility of substantial change in commercial loan rates of chartered banks at present, due to the cut in savings interest. Bankers point out that they are making no change in the rate paid on commercial deposits. The bulk saving on the cost of deposits to the banks, they say, does not allow of much adjustment in loan rates. The Toronto Financial Post has estimated this bulk annual saving at $5,000,000 per annum under the 2½ per cent. rate, as compared with the former three per cent. rate. Good municipal and government borrowers will be the only class of bank debtors to receive early adjustment of interest rates on loans, it is understood. Bankers appear to feel that by the time such rates have been adjusted there will be little, if any, cut in their costs of money which they could pass on to commercial and industrial borrowers.

DOWN TWO

Assessor Harry Wickett has completed the assessment for the village for this year. According to his figures, Stirling has a population of 949. When the last Dominion census was taken there were 930 residents, while last year the returns showed 951.

BUYS SUMMER HOME

Mr. Earl Tice, of the Paisley House has purchased the summer home of the late Dr. F. Zwick, on the shores of Trent River, near Glen Ross, and has taken possession. It is reported that Mr. Tice intends renovating the building into a summer hotel. It would also make an ideal rendezvous for fishermen as that section of the river is noted for its fish production.

TROUT SEASON HERE

Open season for speckled trout and brown trout in Ontario began on Monday and will continue until Sept. 14. There are no changes in the season or regulations over last year. Twenty speckled trout may be taken each day, but the total weight of the daily catch must not be more than 10 pounds, nor shall a fish be less than 7 inches in length. Five brown trout may be taken and the 7-inch length regulation also applies. The season for rainbow trout does not open until June 2, but closes on Sept. 14.

CASE DISMISSED

In a county court action held before His Honour Judge Lavell, of Kingston, on Thursday, an action for breach of contract, entered by Ira Whitton, of Stirling, against Floyd Armstrong was dismissed with costs at the termination of the trial. The case arose out of an alleged contract for the mason work on the Sidner School, which Whitton alleged in the court Armstrong had tendered him. Armstrong flatly denied the statement and after a number of witnesses had been heard the case was dismissed.

NEW CHEQUE TAX NOW IN FORCE

Starting last Monday all cheques, postal notes and documents of title are subject to an excise tax of three cents. Under the terms of the next tax laws announced March 21 the increased rates on "commercial paper" were to be imposed May 1. Prior to Monday the tax on cheques started at a three cents rate and applied only to cheques for more than $5.00. From now on all cheques will have to have the excise stamp and the basic rate will be three cents. Postal notes are subject to the same tax as well as "documents or other instruments of title capable of being sold, transferred or assigned, including mineral deeds, oil royalties and fixed investment trust shares."

ANNOUNCEMENT

Any Gaynor-Farrell picture is an event in screen circles, and the management of Stirling Theatre takes pleasure in announcing that this famous team's latest vehicle, "Tess of the Storm Country" will be shown tomorrow (Friday) night and Saturday matinee and night. Seldom has the titian-haired star had a picture so well adapted to her talents as "Tess" and her portrayal of the fiery-tempered daughter of the old sea-captain will long be remembered by her admirers. The plot deals with her tempestuous love affair with a millionaire's son, and, laid in picturesque settings along the New England Coast, affords exceptional entertainment for screen fans.

With a brilliant supporting cast headed by Dudley Digges, Claude Gillingwater, June Clyde, George Meeker and DeWitt Jennings, and the deft direction of Alfred Santell, who made the star's earlier success, "Daddy Long Legs," this new offering captures all the charm and romance of the original story. Don't miss it.

W. Institute Elects Officers

The annual meeting of Stirling Women's Institute was held in the Community Hall on Wednesday night, with a third of the membership present. Meeting opened with the president, Mrs. H. Tulloch, in the chair. First was the Opening Ode and the Lord's Prayer. Minutes of the last annual meeting were read. Mrs. Tulloch then gave the president's report on the year's work and Gena Spry, Sec. Treas., gave a report. Mrs. Hammond moved a vote of thanks to the officers and the adoption of their reports was seconded by Mrs. Cranston. Mrs. Mary Vandervoort, District Secretary, took the chair for election of officers and Mrs. T. Cranston acted as Secretary. Nominations were by ballot and voted on by ballot. The officers elected: President, Mrs. C. Belshaw; 1st vice pres., Gena Spry; 2nd vice pres., Mrs. L. Rodgers; Sec. Treas., Mrs. T. Cranston; Directors, Mrs. M. W. Sine, Mrs. J. M. McGee, Mrs. Hammond, Mrs. M. Ward, Mrs. Robinson. District Representative, Mrs. Hammond. Auditors, Mrs. Walt and Gena Spry. Property Committee, President and Secretary. Flower Committee, Mrs. Sine, Mrs. Spry. Pianist Mrs. Williams.

The new president took the chair and conducted the closing of the meeting. Program committee for June all members present at that meeting to have some item towards a program. A vote of thanks was given Mrs. Vandervoort for her assistance, and the meeting was closed with the National Anthem.

An Englishman, an Irishman, a Frenchman and a Scotsman were standing at the bar. The Englishman stood a whiskey-and-soda around, the Frenchman stood a quart of champagne, the Irishman stood a bottle of brandy, and the Scotsman stood six feet three.

CURRENT COMMENT

Yesterday afternoon was quiet in the village, when the first half-holiday was observed.

Daylight saving time is now in vogue in many centres throughout the country. Don't forget your special radio program is now an hour earlier.

It is a good idea, folks, to prepare for a rainy day, but don't make your preparations so thorough that you will not enjoy today's sunshine.

Local dog-owners are reminded that it is now compulsory for all dogs running at large in the village to wear tags — otherwise they will be destroyed.

We have concluded that it isn't hard for a woman to make up her mind to marry a man; the hard part is making him believe he thought up the idea.

Crop conditions are nearly ideal in Hastings county. If price conditions were as good, it would be a prosperous year for the farmers, and the village people as well.

Madoc Review — Business will come back to the merchant who didn't allow it to go too far away by failing to advertise at the proper time, which, by the way, is all the time.

Bank interest on savings accounts has been reduced one-half per cent. Wonder if there will be a reduction in the money-borrowing rate of interest at the banks. There should be.

It is reported that the most popular age in Great Britain for marriage is when both sexes reach the age of twenty-five. In Canada, it is when the woman "grabs" the man — even though she may be a cradle-snatcher.

Amateur gardeners are working in and talking about Mother Earth these days. However, they should remember "She" is all right in her place — but must not be tracked into the living room — or trouble will develop.

A Belleville "Wag", in talking with the Editor recently, in his clarified air, said: "You don't get to see much when you live in a small town like Stirling." Perhaps not, Dude, but what we don't see won't hurt us, and what we probably hear makes up for it.

A notice appears elsewhere in this issue, published by authority of the Board of Health, ordering that all back yards, etc., must be cleaned up by May 15th. Citizens should govern themselves accordingly as a fine may be imposed for failing to obey the order.

Greta Garbo, the former Swedish film star, has returned to the United States amid great secrecy. Nobody was permitted to learn of her arrival except the newspaper camera men, newsreel and movie men, 500 New York reporters and 122 million Yanks.

Local radio fans will be pleased to learn that they can now tune in on a Canadian radio station without so much interference by United States broadcasts. CFRB, the Toronto station, has improved its equipment, and is now the most powerful station in Canada.

No longer will bank clerks be annoyed by cheque writers querying them as to how large a cheque must be to require a stamp. Under the terms of the new budget provisions, on and after May 1st all cheques, no matter how small, must have at least a three-cent excise stamp affixed.

We feel that if the churches would sing at least one of the old-time hymns—that mother and dad used to sing—at every service, the congregation would perhaps enjoy the service all the more. We are not condemning new hymns, but when some of them are sung it seems more like an anthem by the choir, as the voices of the members of the congregation seem stifled.

An amendment to the High Schools Act provides that a fee may be charged to pupils who remain in high schools longer than six years. The fee shall not be higher than the average cost per pupil for education in the high school where he or she is attending. Another clause definitely fixes the two school terms of the year: From January 3 to June 23, and from September 1 to December 22. An exception allows schools to resume on the following Tuesday if September 1 falls on Friday.

THE TAXATION OF OUTSIDE BUSINESS HOUSES

(Whitby Gazette & Chronicle)

Citizens who are of the opinion that the Town Council has power to impose a tax on mail order houses doing business in town should take heed to the advice given to the Council by the Town Solicitor last week. This official advised that there is no legal machinery whereby taxes of any kind can be collected from these stores or from bread concerns unless they establish places of business in town. Other towns have tried to get at these concerns through the medium of taxation, but have failed. Legislation is necessary and advisable but it is not yet available.

The Council is making an effort, however, to collect a butchers' license from two large Toronto concerns who sell fresh meat in town, and may be successful.

In the case of bread concerns, they have the protection given them by the statute which allows a manufacturer, either by himself or through his bonafide agents, to sell his wares in the province of Ontario without a license.

Mahatma Gandhi, the "rebel" against Britain, in India, has been appointed editor of a weekly newspaper and probably hopes that this sheet will attract as much attention as the one he wears. Mahatma has been most successful in exploiting the news columns in the world's newspapers.

Financial Post.—When Britain went off gold, American economists said it was inexcusable for any country to abandon gold without raising bank rates to protect its currency. And now that the United States has gone off gold British economists say no nation has any right to abandon the gold standard without using some of its surplus gold to protect its position. Tilt for tilt!

Halifax Chronicle — Who wants war? The men who do the fighting don't want it. The mothers of sons who must face the guns don't want it. The fathers of the boys who must face the bayonets of the enemy don't want it. The sisters of brothers whose blood must go to swell the crimson tide don't want it. The wives and sweethearts of men who must leave their bones to bleach on the battlefields don't want it. Then who does want it?

Here is a little advice for the "dashing heroes" who are being chased by Dan Cupid. A judge who has had considerable experience in domestic relations court, advises young men in selecting a wife to look for: first health; second, a kindly disposition. To scold may seem thrilling at twenty, but at forty it may be fatal to happiness. Other considerations should be: age, race, religion and education. One should remember that he is choosing a partner for life and the more nearly they see things alike, and enjoy the same pleasures, the happier they will be together.

A careful automobile driver is worth encouraging. That is the view of the Automobile Insurance Underwriters' Association, which has provided for substantial bonuses on automobile insurance premiums for drivers who have had a clean record for the last few years. Motorists become careful by habit. Once they have acquired that habit, it is hard to break them from it and motorists of that kind who have respect for the privileges and the safety of others are deserving of special consideration. The bonus on automobile insurance premiums represents real money to the careful driver, and makes it all the more worth while for motorists to strive to enter that privileged class, the door to which is a clean record of freedom from accidents.

Alliston Herald — So much propaganda comes from Germany, and so much that isn't propaganda is held back by an ironclad censorship, the Canadian Press did a fine service in sending Mr. George Hambleton to Germany to make an independent report. Mr. Hambleton took the additional precaution of not writing his despatches until his return to London; hence there is guarantee that what he says is based upon first hand, independent study, neither coloured by prejudiced nor dictated or interfered with by censorship. What did he find? Briefly, that Germany is under the iron heel of Hitler's Nazis; that the republic has disappeared; that Germany today has neither free assembly, free speech nor a free press; that the States are being welded by force into a single, centralized German entity; that Jews are being persecuted relentlessly.

Religion and Hypocrisy

The Huntington (Que.) Gleaner, one of Canada's finer weekly newspapers, raises a very interesting point in its last issue. It refers to the fact that on Easter Day in Huntington, as in Stirling, the Protestant churches were crowded with people for the services. Continuing, the Gleaner sagely asks the question:

"Was it the fashion show parade of Happy Hooligan hats for ladies that induced so many people to start to church on this particular Sunday, after being so negligent for a year? Was it because it was 'Easter' that so many turned out to church? Was it because the day was not a perfect day for diversion that so many attended church? We don't think so, but believe it was a perfect piece of hypocrisy on the part of many. Too many people are inclined to the old belief that if you turn out to church on Easter Sunday, that that will square you off with your Maker and the world until the next prescribed date for Easter."

"Our churches do much towards moulding the opinion of a sane law-abiding people, but if we become careless we will become a disorganized population, and ruin will follow the Church and State."

"If this disastrous end is to be avoided it is essential that everyone who identifies himself as belonging to one particular congregation or another that they attend its church services more often than Easter Sunday, or merely on other Communion Sundays throughout the year. If this editorial hits you, it means it is up to you to do your part towards your church, for you claim to be a part of it, and if you do not claim such identification you must certainly find it a hard proposition to find your proper classification as a Canadian, for this is a Christian country."

"This editorial is intended for the Protestant population in particular, for we must concede that our Roman Catholic friends are attentive to their church and religious duties and they are to be commended."

In Stirling a religious census was recently taken, revealing the membership of the various churches, and we all know that only a portion of the membership of these churches ever turn out to a service. We agree with the Gleaner when it says, "If it is convenient and essential that you attend your religious duties on Easter Sunday, it is equally as important that you do so every Sunday, and be Christianlike every day of the week."

MAKING FRIENDS

(Deseronto Post)

The old theory of the way to make friends in a place, was to ask them to come and call on you. Then if they did that, you thought you would call on them, and you would get acquainted and make friends. But people are tired of this formal calling. They are also busy, so they do not run into each other's homes as they did.

Acquaintances made through organization work create friendship now. It can be lonely and wasteful friends in Deseronto join some local organization. Tell the officers that you are interested in it, and would like to take hold and do some work in it. They will nail down that offer before you can say Jack Robinson. Before you know it, you will be running some committee and be quite a hero in that society, and everybody will want to know you. You can make all the friends you want in such ways.

POSTAGE STAMP ANNIVERSARY

(Quinte Loyalist)

May 1st is the 83rd anniversary of the sale of the first postage stamp in Canada, which was sold on May 1st, 1840, and bore the well-known Victoria head. Six years before this, James Chalmers, of Dundee, Scotland, invented the first adhesive stamp, the forerunner of the postage stamp of today. Parliament, however, did not sanction the use of stamps until 1839, when the Uniform Postage Act was passed.

The first issue was produced through the combined efforts of Wyon the medal sculptor, Corbault, the artist, and Heath, the engraver, under the direction of Sir Henry Cole, who was chairman of the committee appointed to investigate the best methods of using stamps.

Campbellford — Ten-year-old Betty Johnson of Perth, and formerly of Toronto, a visitor to Campbellford, lost her life in the Trent River here last Thursday afternoon when slipping into the river above the dam south of town she was drawn by the current into the sluiceway and washed over the dam into the rapids which at this time of the year is very high and treacherous. The body was recovered three hours later after an extensive search of the river by many volunteers, one mile from the scene of the tragedy. The remains were taken to Toronto for burial and the funeral was held on Saturday. Her father is the manager of the Bank of Montreal in Perth.

BATEMAN — In loving memory of Albert Bateman, who crossed the Great Divide, May 9th, 1932.

If the gate would only keep ajar While loving eyes look through— But it so swiftly closes up And hides loved ones from view: That we can only dream and guess What they are doing there, Within that land of mystery Which yet we know is fair; For there no kindred ties are broken There no cherished forms decay; There no sad farewells are spoken— God shall wipe our tears away.

Sadly missed by his Wife and Son.

REPRESENTING THE CANADIAN FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY

Static by the Editor

The office door of the business department of this newspaper flew open on Friday morning and two small boys on roller skates and skooters rushed in like twin cyclones and left a "house for rent" classified ad which contained the statement that "no children will be allowed unless they are well trained." Then after running into and dislocating most of the office furniture the youngsters roller skated and scooted out again leaving the door wide open behind them. The advt. does not appear in this issue.

Why is it that when a man stands the middle of a room and happens to drop his collar button the blamed thing will roll across the room in order to hide under the dresser?

The following amusing incident is vouched for by a prominent shoe man:

"An unusually interesting thing was witnessed by a customer in a shoe store not so far from Stirling the other day. A lady of stupendous dimensions, stylishly attired, entered the shoe store and seated herself to be waited upon. Soon a bald-headed clerk came up to serve her. After rejecting this pair of shoes, she decided on some brown oxfords. The clerk knelt down to lace them, and she looked down and saw his bald head. Thinking it was her rolled topped knee, she modestly drew her skirt over it.

The young insurance agent had gone out with a prospective client for a round of golf, and could do no better than an approximate 116.

Opponent — But you're not playing anything like your usual game?

Insurance Agent — Oh, yes, this is about my usual game.

Opponent — Well! Bring 'round that proposal tomorrow morning and I'll sign it. You may be no golfer, but you are at least an honest man.

Henderson — Thankful! What have I got to be thankful for? I can't pay my bills.

Anderson — Then, man alive, be thankful you aren't one of the creditors.

A Wee Bit of Scotch
Scotchmen who are angry at the many jokes being cracked "at their expense" will be infuriated by "Scotch", described as a "volume of the best Scotch jokes" just issued in England. There are nearly three hundred prime examples fra' Aberdeen and elsewhere.

They do say that a Scotchman married a half-witted girl because she was 50 per cent. off.

Sandy was feeling ill — very ill. He staggered off to find a doctor. At last a sign caught his eye — "J. M. Farroll, M.D.". And below it was the legend

"First visit, one guinea. Subsequent visits, 10c 6d."

Into the office went Sandy and with outstretched hand he moaned: "Well, well, Dr. Farroll — Here I am again."

Interesting News For Farmers

Heaves, the ailment common in horses, is frequently caused by repeated gorging with food or water, or both. Dusty grain or hay also predisposes to this trouble.

Early in spring is the best time to transplant most kinds of trees and shrubs, evergreens included. Evergreens may be transplanted in summer but greater precautions must be taken to do it successfully.

Although held back in some districts by wet, cold weather, spring farm work has become general throughout Ontario. In many counties cultivating has been general and in some cases spring wheat and oats sown. The reports indicate that fall wheat is looking decidedly good and that clovers, alfalfa and timothy have come through the winter in fairly good condition.

A tremendous increase in the export of farm products to the United States was noted for the year ending January 31st, 1933, as against the previous 12-month period, according to a recent statement by Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture. Citing some of the Canadian items which mounted in export trade, Colonel Kennedy referred to canned fruits, tobacco leaf, honey, cheese, condensed milk and canned meats. In the last-named item the increase was 2-443 per cent., there being 15,388 pounds exported in 1931, and 391,354 pounds in 1932.

Sow Good Seed
One of the best services rendered by the experimental farms is the testing of varieties of grain to determine their suitability to particular areas. That this work has been extensive and satisfactory is indicated by the general adoption of varieties that were first distributed from the farms. Outstanding examples are Marquis and Garnet wheat in the West and O.A.C. No. 44 and O.A.C. No. 72 oats in Ontario. In the face of all this, attempts are made at times to push the sale of seed from the United States of so-called new varieties at fancy prices on the claim that fabulous yields may be obtained. About a year ago a carload of an inferior sort was sold in central Ontario at $1.35 to $2.00 per bushel, even though it graded No. 3. This leads A. M. Martin, of the Crop and Markets Branch to state that not one variety ever introduced into the province by high pressure salesmen has ever been equal to the standard varieties already grown.

Another matter to be kept in mind at the seeding season is that quality counts, either in home grown or purchased seed. Experiments at the O.A.C. prove that large plump kernel yields 20 per cent more than light or shrunken seed. These experiments also show that an additional outlay for plump seed will increase the yield from 10 to 15 bushels per acre, which at the present price of 40 cents per bushel for feed oats means a cash increase of from $4.00 to $6 per acre.

Honey Market Improved
Two cents increase a pound in the price of honey since last fall, and an improved market outlook has placed the honey industry in the best position in which it has been for a number of years, according to Professor F. Eric Millen of the O.A.C.

Honey has received preference on the British market, and this combined with other factors, has helped the export trade in light honey considerably.

The Ontario Honey Export Exportation announces it has shipped to date some 875,000 pounds of honey to Great Britain and the Continental market. The quantity is made up as follows: 450,000 pounds of white and golden honey; 20,000 pounds of light amber; 6,000 pounds of comb honey, and 200,000 pounds of buckwheat.

Various processes have been adopted to give honey in different forms to suit the markets. Prof. Millen advocates selling as soon as possible after extraction so that the best flavour may be preserved.

Back-To-Farm Movement
The present increased employment of men on farms is a definite step toward minimizing the unemployment situation, declared Dr. Christie, president of O.A.C. in a recent address. He referred to the fact that more boys and more men as farm managers on salaries had been placed on farms this spring than in any like period for the past ten years. "These boys and men are being welcomed back to the farms and they are looking forward to a good home, healthy living, and a small but steady wage. More farmers are taking on help this year than usual. Throughout the rural communities there is generally a feeling of faith, a feeling that things are going ahead." In his opinion, it is the rural people who are saving the situation today and it is the farm which is leading the way to stabilizing conditions throughout the country.

Better Cows and Higher Milk Production Needed

"We do not need more cows in Ontario — we need better cows," declared George H. Barr, director, dairy Branch, of the Department.

"Without doubt," he continued, "one of the greatest opportunities in the dairy industry to increase profits on a dairy farm is to increase the production of the individual cow.

"We have information which is reliable that in some of our so-called dairy districts or counties, the production of milk per cow for six months is less than 3,000 pounds, and less than 80 pounds of butter fat. Estimating the fat at 22 cents per pound, the revenue is $17.00. Just how can there be any profit in keeping such a cow?

"In the same neighborhood there are herds which average 6,000 pounds of milk and over 200 pounds of fat per cow for the same period. Fat at that same price gives a revenue of $40.00 per cow.

In order to encourage an increase in the production of milk and fat on Ontario dairy farms the different dairy associations in the province have offered quite liberal prizes for the past two or three years.

"The Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association have led the way in this good work. In their 1932 competition for the largest production of fat per acre among cheese factory patrons in Central Ontario they offered $450 in cash, a silver shield and other special prizes. The winner of the sweepstakes prize in 1931 was Mr. H. Arnold, of Campbellford, with 37.94 pounds of fat per acre on a 65 acre farm. He was against the winner of the sweepstakes prize in 1932 with 45.02 pounds of fat per acre, an increase of 7.08 pounds. Had we more patrons of this type there would be less trouble paying taxes.

"Just multiply that increase by 25,000 (the number of cheese factory patrons in Ontario) and then multiply the result by 20 cents per pound of fat and there would have been $35,400 extra money in the pockets of the cheese factory patrons in 1932."

Home Owners must make application for survey of premises to secure Free Electric Flat Rate Water Heaters

IN ORDER to secure early installation of free electric flat rate water heaters it is necessary for house-owners, landlords and tenants to send in their application now, by means of the coupon shown below. The method is simple and direct. Simply write your name and address in the space provided, and mail it to your own local Hydro or apply at your local Hydro offices or municipality and a preliminary survey will be made of your home to determine conditions of wiring, the existing system of hot water heating and your hot water requirements. From that the type and capacity of the flat rate water heater is decided and, also, whether a "Booster" heater is required in addition. Then installation proceeds.

This absence of elaborate detail and unnecessary red tape in applying for free installation of water heaters is one of three direct advantages conferred on the people of Ontario by the Ontario Hydro Free Installation Plan. The other advantages are:

1. The installation of flat rate electric water heaters will be absolutely free of cost to the house-owner, landlord, or tenant. Cost of heater element, tank insulation, thermostat and necessary wiring will be borne by the Commission. All the consumer will do is to pay a new low rate for the service he receives.
2. In any home where the new low flat rate electric water heater is installed a higher standard of comfort, convenience and economy will immediately be created. The fact that electric water heating is the best and most economical means known; that the new equipment will be trouble-free, automatic in action and requiring no attention from the householder, and that Ontario power rates are among the lowest in the world, indicates how much this free heater plan means to the citizens of Ontario.

If you desire any additional information on any point, your local Hydro officials or municipality will gladly furnish it.

TAXPAYERS ASSOCIATION MEETS IN BELLEVILLE

Representatives from the taxpayers' organizations in the municipalities in the south part of Hastings County met in the City Hall, Belleville on Saturday afternoon. A large number of ratepayers from the local townships attended the meeting. Harry Ketcheson of Sidney Township presided and introduced to the meeting the representatives of each township. Mr. Bruce Martin representing Thurlow Township; Mr. Thrasher of Sidney Township; Mr. J. V. Hanley, of Tyendinaga; Mr. Tucker, of Huxford; Mr. Carl, of Rawdon; Mr. Woods, of Madoc. Each presented the views of the feelings of the ratepayers in their respective municipalities in an able manner. They stated, that it was their wish to co-operate in every way possible with the members of the County Council in an endeavour to reduce taxes and to adjust and curtail expenditures so that they would more closely correspond with the taxpayers ability to pay. Only a few of the municipalities were in the County were able to pay 1932 County tax a large amount of the money borrowed by the County to finance the expenditure for that year is still unpaid and tax collectors through out the County are finding it very difficult to make collections. Municipal Councils are very reluctant to force collections as they are aware that by doing so they would put many farmers out of business completely.

They were not in favour of issuing debentures for the purpose of overdrafts or deficits and were of the opinion that by practising strict economy and making only what expenditures were absolutely necessary for at least two years by reducing salaries and all special grants it would encourage the ratepayer to greater effort to pay their arrears in taxes and would eventually pay off any deficits. Other speakers to address the meeting were A. L. Burke, Reeve of Sidney; E. Denyes, Deputy Reeve of Thurlow; Colonel Vandewater; B. Lott and G. Sills. H. J. Clarke, school inspector for South Hastings, gave a very instructive talk on Legislative school grants, County school grants and other matters pertaining to school taxes. Owing to the fact that the representatives from three other municipalities were unable to attend, the meeting was adjourned to meet on Saturday, the 13th day of May, at two o'clock in the afternoon at the City Hall, Belleville, when resolutions representing the opinions and wishes of the taxpayers would be framed and submitted to the members of the County Council at the June session.

The head office of Miller Bros. paper mill, at Glen Miller, which has been located in Montreal for years, has been transferred to Glen Miller, the change became effective on Monday.

AWAKENED WOMAN

ELINORE BARRY

SYNOPSIS

The Story so far: Joyce Ashton, poor stenographer, in a skidding taxi-cab accident in Chicago, suffered loss of memory. Two years later she woke one morning after a fall from her horse to find herself under the name of Frills, married to Neil Packard, rich California fruit packer. From letters in her desk she learned something about her life in the two-year interval, and realized that she had been a heartless, reckless young woman and that she is seriously involved in an affair with a man named Maitland. She decided that at all costs she would end it, but she found Maitland hard to manage. Her troubles were further complicated when she read a letter referring to a baby — was it hers? that the writer, Sophie, thought Frills ought to have with her. Much to the surprise of Sam, in her husband's employ, she asked for a dog and he got her one.

Now Go On With The Story

Before Joyce addressed and stamped the brown envelope, it occurred to her that she might write a few words to put in with it. Then, having come to this conclusion, she found herself dismayingly unable to decide what to say. What sort of letter would Frills write to Neil? "I don't see how she'd have the face to write to him at all, when all she cared about his absence was the chance it gave her to go off with Maitland and his crowd," she thought disgustedly, "but just the same, since Joyce Ashton isn't going off with Mait, I think she might send a few words." She ended by writing:

"Dear Neil: You can't hurt a solid ivory dome just by falling on it! But it seems to have knocked some of the pep out of Little Frills, and she's annoying the gang by cutting out some of the jazz. Laurine was here this morning with a lot of good advice, Ethel and Clarice this afternoon and while I was out, Paul and Dot came, and Tess Farnsworth. Don't know why I've never wanted a dog before nor just why I want one now, but I've just acquired a darling," she wrote hastily, "Sam got him for me from the Marches on the Dry Creek Canyon Road. They're going to China and can't take Dickie. He is quite adorable, and when did I ever care what anyone thinks? Frills."

Joyce was a little doubtful, when she finished, about whether she had not written more than was wise. She scaled up the letter, however, and then went downstairs to look for Sam to post it.

Sam listened with casual politeness to her explanation of her appearance.

"I had a telegram from Mr. Packard asking me to mail him some papers he left behind by mistake, and I wondered if you would get them to the post office for me? I'm sorry to disturb you this way but I think the papers are important and ought to leave right off. Would you mind?"

"Sure not!" replied Sam taking the envelope. "I'll hop into the bus and take it down."

"Are Roxie and Marcia out?"

"Yeah, gone to the movies with their steaks," Sam grinned good-naturedly.

"Oh, of course," she murmured, smiling back at him and then added curiously, "What were you doing, Sam when I interrupted you?"

"Oh, digging at the same old stuff," replied Sam, as if she knew what that meant. He ran his big brown hand through his hair. "Sometimes I think it's the bunk, getting educated by absent treatment. But I suppose I might as well do it as to play pool or take some Jane to the movies."

Joyce returned to the house full of thoughts of Sam, plugging away by himself out there alone, and she forgot for a moment the problems of her own situation.

Just as she entered the living-room a group of people came in with a burst of talking and laughing and took possession of the house.

the same age who was hailed as "Trace". Tracy Farnsworth was tanned like the rest. Everything about him was neat, well-creased and immaculate, and like his personality, insipid.

With the arrival of the cocktails the party took on a shiller air.

"Say, doc, did you write a prescription for Frills after she did her leap for life the other day?" demanded Clarice.

"I did not," retorted the doctor, "what does she need it for with Neil's supply still holding good?"

"And Mait's," added Kate with her loud laugh, "where's your sweet patootie tonight, dearie?"

Joyce, thus directly addressed, answered coldly, "How should I know?"

A second round of drinks followed close on the first. The whole evening took on a confused, kaleidoscopic quality that gave Joyce the feeling of being in a moisy, unreal nightmare. She did not like the spectacle of these uncultured men and women drunkenly in pursuit of a "good time".

Would they never go home? Her head throbbed and she felt inexpressibly weary and revolted. Finally, ed after a bit.

"Oh, Clarice and Ethel and Ross and ... Ed ... and Kate and Art and ... Charlie ... and Tess and Trace ... and ... and Doc," replied Joyce drowsily, almost too tired to finish the long list.

"Same old crew, all talking at once after they get a few drinks under their belts. Get damn sick of their drivel, don't you Frills?"

Suddenly the car swung abruptly to the left, drove in through the flick darkness of a narrow, tree-shadowed road, then came out to an open space and stopped quietly.

Maitland took his hand from hers and putting his arm around her shoulders bent over her.

Maitland drew her suddenly closer to him and began kissing her, with the same intensity of that first embrace in the living room.

His kisses were on her neck, her eyes, over her whole face. She could feel his heart hammering violently, and his breath coming short and hurried. She was frightened and repelled. She must keep her head and get him to take her back to the house as quickly as possible. Perhaps her very resistance was what inflamed him so; perhaps her safety lay in letting him kiss her.

She was so tired and it was so utterly futile to struggle against his superior strength...

Suddenly she relaxed her tense muscles and lay limp in his arms. The result of this, instead of cooling his ardor, seemed to fire him with new energy.

The touch of his cold fingers on her flesh sent a shock of flaming rage and humiliation through Joyce. She struck violently at him and pulled his hand away with desperate strength.

"If you ... cared ... at all about me," she cried, her voice quivering in spite of her efforts to control it. "you'd know I'm ... that I haven't felt well since the accident. You'd do what I want, not just what you want ... Please take me home right away ... now ..."

"Hell!" he exclaimed under his breath. "I don't get you at all, Frills. ... Well, all right, you're the boss." He released her, switched on the headlights and in a few moments had the engine running and the car turned ed toward home.

On the way back Joyce silently pondered what had happened. When they turned in at the Packard house they could hear the sounds of the party still in full swing.

Maitland stopped the machine and said, "Want me to come in with you, sweet?"

"I don't want to see them at all," she insisted, "why can't I go in by the kitchen?"

"All right," agreed Maitland, "you go up that way and I'll send the gang home for you."

Maitland helped her out of the car and went with her around the back of the house. At the foot of the back stairs, Maitland drew her to him, turned her face up and kissed her, but this time very gently. "Goodnight darling."

Joyce hurried up the stairs, through the hall and into the big bedroom, which she locked with a sigh of profound relief. It seemed to her as if she had left its cool privacy years before.

The noise and music downstairs which came up in a muffled confusion of sound, continued for about five minutes longer and then with a succession of sharp bangs of the front screen door closing she heard her guests depart. She listened to the cars drive off one after the other and then there was absolute quiet.

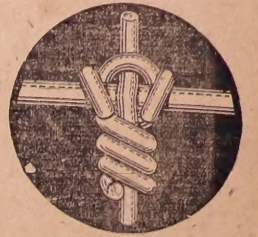

The next morning a brilliant idea occurred to Joyce. Why should she not pack a suitcase and run off alone to San Francisco for a week? She could stay at the Y.W.C.A., where she would be unlikely to meet any of the Manzanita crowd, and there under an assumed name, she could learn to run an automobile and to ride horseback.

She found about seventy-five dollars in bills and silver in the desk and in the handbag on the dressing table. With courage newly augmented by the excitement of her plan, she decided to cash a check in Manzanita.

"His kisses were on her neck, her eyes, her whole face."

"You're my hotsty, I'm your totsty, everything is hotsty-totsty now!" rang a tall man with a bald head and jovial pink face.

Joyce was seized in a rough embrace by this hearty gentleman and kissed several times before she could get away.

Behind a veil of smoke, Frills examined the separate members of the company. She was more relieved than otherwise, that the free-and-easy manner of Frills' set demanded so little effort. Apparently nothing very definite was expected of a hostess; everyone talked volubly and seemed entirely at home. Both Ethel and Clarice were present, now in dinner dresses and earrings.

There were two other women, who turned out to be Tess Farnsworth and Kate Belmain. Tess was about thirty years old, a non-descript brunette with a strained look back of her small brown eyes. Kate Belmain was the oldest woman in the party. Her white hair, bobbed and marcelled with such careful skill that it quite ruled the dignity of being called a coiffure, made a most becoming soft frame for her still excellent complexion.

The four men were commonplace enough. Charlie Bates was a bachelor, cheerful, unintelligent dissipated, addicted to the use of strong perfume. Ed Rawley, the "faithful Ed" of Clarice's sarcastic comment, looked unhappy in this gathering. Ross Emery, who had greeted Frills so vociferously on her entrance, proceeded to be the life and death of the party. The fourth man, strolling restlessly about the room and trying to draw somebody into a game of poker, was Art Belmain.

"Say, folks, I'm going to buy you all a drink," exclaimed Ed, jumping up, "who's with me? Frills is so roller-than-thou tonight it scares me. I know something that'll put a little original sin into her!"

"I'll come along and help you, Ed," offered Art. Then a diversion occurred in the form of the arrival of two more men. One of them was Dr. Ellison, and the other a man about watching her chance, she slipped out of the room just as a lively dance melody came in over the radio and several couples leaped up and began to revolve rather unsteadily.

Joyce escaped out of the front door to the quiet of the fragrant starlight. As she stumbled on the dark step she was suddenly caught in a strong embrace.

"Sweetheart, I had to come again to see how you were," whispered Maitland softly.

Joyce, overcome by her great weariness and disgust at the scene she had left, could not summon enough strength to struggle. She felt tired and terribly alone. All she was conscious of at the moment was that Maitland's cheek against hers was cool and sober, that his breath held no reek of liquor on it.

He did not try to take advantage of her yielding mood. He simply held her quietly, and Joyce, whose head had been spinning from the heat and the noise, leaned against him with her eyes shut and murmured:

"Oh, I can't stand them, they're all drunk ... I want some air ..."

"Get in my car and we'll take a run," said Maitland promptly. He led her to his machine which was only a few steps off. "Here put this on, you'll be cold if you don't." He held up a light overcoat and Joyce in a daze slid her arms into it and dropped back into the low seat without stopping to consider exactly what she was doing.

In another moment they were rolling down the drive and out into the road.

Maitland drove in silence, a tactful silence so welcome to Joyce in her lassitude that all her fear and abhorrence of him melted into gratefulness.

Finally, when they had driven about ten minutes, Maitland asked softly, "Feel better, dear?"

"Yes," said Joyce.

He took his hand from the wheel and felt for hers. When he had it in his warm clasp, she let it stay there, still too apathetic to care.

"Who was there tonight?" he asked

Trenton — On Friday afternoon Fred Deline, 32, formerly of Trenton, was sentenced to two years in Portsmouth Penitentiary for robbery with violence. Deline was arrested on attempting to escape by the window of his father's home on April 20th, after robbing his uncle, Mitchell Revoy, aged 89, a Fenian Raid veteran, of $5, after hiding under the bed of Revoy and later choking him and holding his head in a pillow. Deline had previously served in Guelph Reformatory, Burwash, and was released on February 8 last after doing two years at Kingston.

Emile Dion, of Tweed, was found guilty of manufacturing illicit liquor and also operating a still, when he appeared before Magistrate Casement last Thursday afternoon in police court held in Madoc. Dion was fined $200.00 and costs or in default of payment will be called upon to serve seven months in the Ontario Reformatory. Dion was arrested some time ago by the R.C.M.P. at his home during which time he was found manufacturing illicit liquor, while a large still was found in operation in his home. Owing to his inability to raise the fine Dion assured the court that he would have to "do time" as punishment.

Belleville — After a short illness, Mrs. Amy Sils, widow of Sylvester Sils, died at her home here on Friday, in her eighty-fourth year. Mrs. Sils had been a resident of the city for sixteen years. The late Sylvester Sils died six years ago. Her first husband, Allen Ashley, died eighteen years ago. Born in Rawdon Township, Mrs. Sils was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Eliza Reid. She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Herbert Gordon, Edmonton; three sons, Edward Ashley of Cleveland, Allan Ashley and Bertram Ashley of Antler, North Dakota. One sister also survives, Mrs. William Brown, this city; and one brother, Andrew, of Springbrook. Mrs. Sils had been an active member of Holloway Street United Church since she took up residence in this city.

Gerald O'Neill, Madoc, was re-arrested on a similar charge in the County Police Court, held before Magistrate Casement in Belleville last Wednesday after a charge of selling intoxicating liquors had been dismissed against him, and admitted to bail after being remanded on the second charge for one week. The O'Neill case, along with four others in the court arising from charges of various infractions of the L.C.A., took the better part of Wednesday in the court room. O'Neill was charged with selling beer to Albert Devolin and the latter testified in court that he had purchased beer from O'Neill in Madoc on April 1st last. O'Neill denied the charge and swore that Devolin had been consuming rubbing alcohol before he (Devolin) had been "treated" to some beer by O'Neill. Other witnesses corroborated O'Neill's statement and the case was dismissed. Immediately Provincial Constable Ted Hill of Madoc re-arrested O'Neill on a similar charge of selling. Joseph and David Shorkey, Madoc were found guilty on a charge of breach of the L.C.A. and fined $100 and costs or three months in the common jail. The fines were not forthcoming and the jail sentence was accepted. Two others from Madoc village, Albert Devolin and Clayton Ellis, both paid the minimum fines and pleaded guilty to charges of drunkenness when they appeared before Magistrate Casement.

The remains of Donald Bird, missing since November 21, 1932, were recovered from the Bay of Quinte Tuesday afternoon, last week. The body was floating just below the surface of the water at the foot of the high stone wall near the fish hatchery boat house. This is some four hundred feet from the dock where the freighter from whose deck Mr. Bird evidently fell, lay at the time of the accident.

The alarm was given shortly after one o'clock Tuesday by Mrs. Cutts of Glenora, who had been fishing from the top of the bank and noticed something floating a short distance off. A swift glance made her think that it might be a body and she rushed up to the fishery and notified the men there who at once investigated. The police and coroner were at once called and rushed to the scene.

Mr. Bird met his death on the night of November 21, when he fell from the deck of the Edmonton, C.S. L. freighter, as she was loading at Glenora docks. He was superintending the loading and it was freezing. He had partaken of a midnight lunch and was returning to the wharf, walking across planks on top of empty oil drums, when it is believed he slipped and fell into the bay and no trace of him was found until Tuesday.

The body of Donald Bird was taken to Stirling for burial on Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Bird's father, a Stirling magistrate, passed away a short time ago.

"Your wife needs a change," said the doctor. "Salt air will cure her." The next time the physician called he found Sandy sitting by the bedside fanning his wife with a herring.

"Give me a threepenny-worth of morphine," commanded the Scotchman of the drug clerk.

"What do you want it for?" asked the clerk, with proper caution.

"Tuppence!" was the instant reply.

The body was floating at the base of the wall, and it was impossible to raise it from the water at this point. A small punt was secured from the fish hatchery boat house. Douglas O'Neill manned the oars, while Keith Gilmore of the Gilbert Undertaking parlours made a rope fast around the drowned man's hand, towing the body alongside the ferry dock where it was lifted to the shore. The Gazette reporter accompanied Mr. O'Neill in the boat to obtain some clothing which was drifting near the body. Articles of clothing recovered were a grey topcoat, blue suit coat and a black and red sweater. Mr. Bert Burns later identified these as having been worn by Mr. Bird on the day of his death. One shoe was found on the body, while the other was floating nearby. Part of the deceased man's underclothing was clinging to the body at the time of its recovery. Identification of the body was made by several at the time of removal from the water.

The seventh annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference Branch of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada, was held in the Trinity Church, Cobourg, April 25, 26, 27, with an attendance of one hundred and thirty delegates and several visitors, which represented the seven Presbyteries comprising the Branch, namely: Belleville, 50 auxiliaries; Cobourg, 38 auxiliaries; Kingston, 39; Lindsay, 22; Oshawa, 25; Peterborough 22 and Renfrew, 44. The Branch has a total of 288 auxiliaries, 6 associate societies; 51 evening auxiliaries; 43 mission circles; 182 mission bands; 52 baby bands and 63 affiliated C.G.I.T. groups, making a total of 670 organizations, with a total of 13,324 annual members and 3,350 life members.

The program was planned around the theme of "Stewardship" and the meeting was pervaded with a spirit of re-consecration to the worthwhile things of life; also a spirit of optimism prevailed, as the reports of the year's work was most encouraging. The Convention hymn "Lead on, O King Eternal," was sung several times during the sessions and members of each Presbytery took charge of the worship services. Several lovely solos were rendered and the choir also assisted.

On Tuesday evening Mrs. J. H. Rush, Tillsonburg, Dominion Board Secretary of Young Women's Auxiliaries and Mission Circles spoke on "The Stewardship of Life" and feared we as a people were off the "God Standard". She referred to what the W.M.S. have done for the women of other lands and surely the raising of the status of womanhood has in itself been glory enough.

On Wednesday evening Miss Evelyn Crow, B.A., Girls' Work Secretary, Toronto, addressed the audience on the work and aims of the Canadian Girls in Training and especially stressed the very important need of this organization for she said "It is hard to grow up and be a teenage boy or girl" and the older people today have a great responsibility to the youth of our land. The C.G.I.T. group of Belleville were in charge of the worship service.

On Thursday evening Miss Margaret MacHarrie, home on furlough from Neenach, Central India, was the special speaker and said that the 81 missionaries are working among 70,000 people in that land. If anyone could not believe in Foreign Missions could see India's Christless people they would soon be convinced of the great work done by the W.M.S. Miss MacHarrie then took the delegates via lantern slides to visit her "Bible Home" in Neenach, and all enjoyed the lovely pictures.

The Treasurer, Miss E. L. Brown, of Belleville, reported $77,852.58, which was most gratifying, in a year such as has just passed.

Mrs. H. T. Thompson, speaking on Christian Stewardship and Finance, said, "Many Auxiliaries and Bands are determined to succeed."

Mrs. W. L. Smyth gave a spiritual meditation on "The Stewardship of Unconscious Influence" and said: "Prayer is the key that unlocks the door to the upper room."

Mrs. W. J. Garland, of Cobourg, welcomed the delegates and Mrs. Geo. Switzer, of Nanawee graciously replied. Dr. T. E. Holling, of Lindsay, brought greetings from the Men's conference.

Mrs. A. C. Denike of Havelock gave the details of the three meetings of branch executive held last year instead of a Branch Conference.

Mrs. J. G. Sils, Foxboro, reported 14 new mission bands, 8 baby bands, 5 mission circles and one evening auxiliary newly organized.

Miss V. B. Spargo, of Bowmanville said there were 31 Y.W.A.'s and 48 Mission Circles, and told of the vast work being done in the different Presbyteries.

Mrs. E. W. Rowland, Stirling, reporting for Mission and Baby Bands said: "Might our slogan for this year be a Baby Band and a Mission Band in every W.M.S. in this Branch."

Mrs. T. H. P. Anderson, of Newburgh conducted a solemn memorial service for the one hundred and seven members who have answered the final roll call. At the close she dropped a single vivid rose for each Presbyterial in a vase in honour of the departed ones.

Miss R. Templeton, Belleville, pled with the women to be more considerate of the C.G.I.T. girls and to catch the vision at home as well as abroad. Miss E. Dunoon, of Lindsay spoke on how to interest the uninterested woman by way of the Associate Helper Society. Mrs. J. T. Daly, of Port Hope, outlined the circulating Library, whereby any Society has the privilege of borrowing six or eight books to read by paying the postage.

Miss A. F. Henwood, of Port Hope, said "The Literature Dept. stands behind and serves all other departments and provides equipment to carry on." Mrs. George Hardy, Oakwood, speaking on our Magazine, "The Missionary Monthly" and the children's paper "World Friends" urged all to think twice before they discontinued their subscription. Mrs. S. T. Chown, Renfrew, outlined the wonderful acts of kindness which the various Strangers' Secretaries have done throughout the year. Miss Mary T. Haig, home on furlough from Tokyo, Japan, was in charge of the re-consecration period. Mrs. James Glazier, Brockville, said 1,149 lbs. of clothing had been sent out to the needy and that department is Christianity applied.

Mrs. S. E. Revelle, Kingston, told of the wonderful work being done by the press and the great value of this department. Mrs. R. O. Jolliffe, Kingston told of the various vacancies in the missionary staff. Mrs. R. G. ST. ANDREW'S GUILD

The meeting of the Guild on Monday evening was of a literary character. Lenora Ward presided over the program and Alex Nathan read the Scripture Lesson. Miss J. Moffatt arranged several musical numbers for the evening. A girl's chorus was greatly enjoyed. Mary Tulloch, Shirley Ormiston, Barbara Bolte and Helen McTaggart showed the senior choir that there is to be a real choir in the future. Barbara Bolte, with her smile and her music won her way into the hearts of everyone present. The members of the Guild cannot fail to be immensely interested in the progress of this juvenile artist as she continues to develop her musical talents. Gena Spry gave a talk on the life and works of L. M. Montgomery. Those familiar with Miss Montgomery's work as a novelist are not surprised that she has also written a volume of poetry. One with her joyous outlook on life, vivid imagination, instinct for words and facility in expression, could not help being a poet. Her verse is quite as perfect as her prose though without its human touch, and her lyrics, especially those dealing with the smiling aspects of her native province, Prince Edward Island, its fragrant fields of red earth and the blue sea coming up on every side are of rare quality, delicate, lilting and full of music. Jack Tulloch, Thomas Foster, Cameron Foster and Donald McIntosh sang "Jesus Loves Me". Helen Ward read one of L. M. Montgomery's poems entitled "The Seeker". Phyllis Mitchell read "The Joy of Little Things", and Marguerite Rosebush read "One of the Shepherds", by the same author. The meeting closed by all repeating in unison the Mizpah Benediction.

ST. PAUL'S Y. P. S.

The Christian Endeavour Department took charge of St. Paul's Y. P. S. on Monday evening with an attendance of 83. The president was in charge of the devotional period. Miss Ruby Stapley read the Scripture lesson, sixth chapter of Romans. Mrs. E. W. Rowland led in prayer. Mrs. Roy Tomlinson, 1st vice-president, was in charge of the remaining program. The first speaker on the program, Miss Helen Jones, spoke on Sir John Franklin and his text, "Fear not when thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee". On a snow-bound coast of a large but inhospitable island, "Sir Francis McClintock and his party found after ten years of long search — all that remained of John Franklin and his men — a heap of bones and bones. The bones principally interested their discoverers. But it is the books that must principally interest us. A dauntless explorer and a brilliant discoverer was Franklin. In 1820, on his first expedition to the ice-bound north, and in charge of the overland section of this expedition, he was compelled to winter at Fort Enterprise, a desolate spot halfway between the Great Bear Lake and the Great Slave Lake. It was a wild experience. In a letter to his sister, written while at this solitude, he speaks of the astonishing way in which, during the intense Arctic silence, his Bible breaks with new beauty upon him. In all the blunt sailor sermons that he preached to his officers and men amidst the ice, this same thought was always uppermost and the Bible with the leaf turned down at this text, when found shows that Franklin's confidence held out to the last. Misses Genevieve and Grace Wright delighted the audience with a vocal duet entitled "Lay my head beneath a rose". The second speaker on the program was Miss Donald Richardson who chose for her subject, John Wesley and his text "Thou art not very far from the Kingdom of God". John Wesley made history wholesale. You cannot cut him out of our national life", writes an English journalist. The conversion of John Wesley, formed one of the grand epochs of English history. The religious resolution begun in England by the preaching of Wesley is of greater historic importance than all the splendid victories won on land and sea. No single figure influenced so many minds. No single voice touched so many hearts. No other man did such a life's work for England. The eighteenth century cried out for deliverance and light and God prepared John Wesley to show the world the might and the blessing of His salvation. Miss Pansy Lansing gave a splendid reading entitled "No sects in Heaven". Miss Dorothy Eggleton put on a Bible contest, the red side gaining the honours. The Mizpah benediction closed this very helpful evening.

A. Y. P. A.

The A.Y.P.A. met in the vestry on Monday evening with a goodly number in attendance. Meeting opened with hymn 619 after which Mr. Byers led in prayer. The business was then conducted and it was moved by Arthur Gould and seconded by Reginald Coombs that all bills be paid. After this Jerry Craven, gave three short addresses on the Bible and Prayer Book and the hymn book, dealing with each separately from their origin up to their latest editions. Arthur Gould and Jerry Craven then showed slides on Horticultural Work in Canada, depicting scenes of buildings surrounded by flowers, shrubbery and trees between Prince Edward Island and Vancouver Island. These pictures were very beautiful and homelike. The president then moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Wilson and Arthur Gould for securing the pictures. Short replies concerning horticulture work were given by Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bershaw. The lucky number ticket on the prize donated by Mr. Gould was won by Reginald Coombs. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

ST. PAUL'S W. A.

The regular meeting of the Women's Association of St. Paul's Church was held in the Church parlors on Tuesday with the president, Mrs. C. Wright in the chair. The meeting was opened by the use of hymn 146, which was followed by the 119th Psalm read in unison. Mrs. White then led in prayer. The Treasurer's and Secretary's report were read and adopted. Appreciation for flowers sent different ones was conveyed by Mrs. Rowland to the Association. After the business part of the meeting was finished a letter was read concerning the first convention of the Ladies Aid Association for Hastings and Prince Edward Associations and Aids. This convention is to be held at the Tabernacle Church, Belleville, the latter part of June. Three delegates, namely Mrs. Linn, Mrs. E. Bailey and Mrs. C. Wright were appointed to attend. A very interesting reading was given by Mildred White, "The Ladies' Aid". Mrs. Dr. Pedley then favoured the audience with a pleasing solo "Thanks be to God," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Rowland. Hymn 239 was sung and then all repeated the Mizpah Benediction, which closed this very helpful meeting.

COMMENDS MODERN HAIRDRESSING IDEAS

The following article appeared in a recent issue of the "Modern Hairdressing and Beauty Culture" magazine published in the interests of Beauty and Barber Parlours.

"Another Canadian hairdresser has taken up and made use of the 'Guard Your Beauty' slogan given to the industry by your trade paper — Modern Hairdressing and Beauty Culture. This time it is Lamb's Beauty Parlor, Mill Street, Stirling, Ontario. D. Lamb sends his letterhead containing 'Guard Your Beauty' at the top, saying: 'Just to show you that I have adopted your new slogan 'Guard Your Beauty' as advocated by Modern Hairdressing. I think the idea is fine and this is not the first time I have adopted the suggestions in your magazine.

"I thought you would like to know that your splendid ideas are not lost on progressive hairdressers."

FIRST ELECTRICAL STORM

The first electrical storm of the season passed over this district on Monday night, followed by a second one on Tuesday afternoon. No damage has been reported from the lightning bolts.

Two children, Robt. Somerville and Ellen Grills, were killed while returning from Hilton school about twelve miles from Warkworth on Tuesday afternoon, when hit by lightning. Some years ago a man had been killed, under similar circumstances about half a mile from the fatal spot. The country in that district is flat, and there were no trees nearby. It is believed the wire fence along the road acted as a conductor for the electrical volts.

CHEESE FACTORY NEWS

Practically all the cheese factories in this section opened for the season on Monday. With the recent rains, the pasture is ideal and the milk production should be increased over the first part of last season.

Thermometers floating in milk vats while the milk or curd is being heated up are always in danger of being broken, and it appears that last year some were broken, for three complaints from overseas were received by the directors of dairying of glass being found in Ontario cheese. To eliminate this complaint the dairy supply houses are offering this year a wooden cylinder in which the thermometer is placed and so constructed as to hold the thermometer in place, and with an opening in the cylinder opposite the scale on the thermometer.

The following changes are likely to be embodied in the new dairy regulations:

1—To obtain a first-class certificate, a maker must have 95 per cent. of his cheese in first grade and an average of 95 points for workmanship.

2—Beginners' permits will be granted to assistants who are recommended by a first-class cheesemaker and a dairy instructor.

3—Milk accepted at a cheese factory must not exceed .22 per cent. in acidity.

4—Makers who have not been in charge of a factory for a period of years and who wish to again employ as chief makers, must spend another season as assistant before they will be granted a permit.

5. In case of a dispute in reading of test or sampling of milk, the inspector's decision shall be final.

BUY NOW!

There is for those Canadians whose financial position makes it possible for them to act upon it a very vivid challenge in the slogan "Buy Now". A statement frequently heard is that prices may never again be as low as they are at the present time, and there is undoubtedly a great deal of truth in that sizing up of the situation. The evidence all points to a rise in commodity prices; this, as a matter of fact has already begun, and there is every reason to believe that the movement will gain in momentum. To postpone buying now is to lose a certain amount of purchasing power; the wise citizen is the one who is taking advantage of the fact that his dollar will go further today than it is likely to do six months from now. He realizes that if he refrains from buying now the things he requires he is not saving anything, but on the contrary, he is depriving himself of a considerable amount of buying power. Money, of course, is only worth what it brings, so that to go without needed articles now and buy them later on at increased prices is decidedly unsound economy. The wisdom of buying now should be responsible for a better tone in business before long.

Grand Supt. Visits Chapter

An important convocation was held by Keystone Chapter on Monday night, when Rt. Ex. Comp. (Dr.) F. M. Dure, of Brighton, Grand Superintendent of Prince Edward District No. 11, paid his official visit. The M.E.M. Degree was conferred, and upon its completion the Grand Superintendent was high in his praise for the manner in which the work was performed and congratulated First Prin. J. F. Baker and his officers.

At the conclusion of the Chapter Work the companions adjourned to the banquet hall below to enjoy a "Fourth Degree". The tables were well laden with good things to eat, tastefully arranged by Mrs. (Dr.) E. A. Carleton, Mrs. Walter Wright, Mrs. Fred Mallory and Mrs. A. E. Dobbie.

During the banquet community singing was enjoyed led by Ex. Comp. R. A. Patterson.

When the inner man had been satisfied Ex. Comp. Baker, toastmaster, called the assembly to order with the toast to "The King", which was responded to in the usual loyal manner.

The toast to "Grand Chapter" was proposed by Rt. Ex. Comp. Thos. W. Solmes, in a most capable manner. The Grand Superintendent was called upon to respond. In his remarks he emphasized that during these present times of depression we as Masons have a great opportunity to emphasize the true spirit of Masonry. He claimed that if civilization falls it is because our moral qualities are unequal to our scientific sphere in life. In referring to the life of brotherhood Rt. Ex. Comp. Dure emphasized that we should be endeavouring to extend the true brotherly love in place of chasing after pleasure and the almighty dollar. His inspiring and well received remarks were concluded by one of Edgar Guest's poems.

The toast to the Visitors was proposed by Ex. Comp. (Dr.) E. A. Carleton and responded to by Ex. Comp. R. A. Rieger, First Prin. of Presque Isle Chapter, Brighton; Comps M. Fritz and Wellington Hare, also of Brighton, the latter being the oldest companion in Brighton chapter.

A vote of thanks was extended to the ladies for their work in preparing the banquet.

Rt. Ex. Comp. Dure proposed the toast to "Keystone Chapter", which was responded to by Ex. Comp. J. F. Baker, after which the profitable and enjoyable evening was brought to a close.

CADET INSPECTION

The annual inspection of the local High School Cadets will be held on the campus next Tuesday afternoon, May 16th, commencing at 2.30 o'clock. All citizens of the district are invited to attend this important event in the life of the boy students.

ANCIENT MONEY

Mr. Charles Nix, of Belleville, was a caller at the News-Argus on Friday. Mr. Nix has in his possession an United States ship plaster of three cent denomination, which is one of the smallest paper currency notes, and it was dated 1863. He also had an Irish penny dated 1820.

A NEW FEATURE

A new feature starts in this week's issue under the heading of "Seen Through the Office Window" and is written by the Office Owl, a member of the staff. In this column will appear crisp comment on "world affairs", which we feel confident will prove of interest to our readers.

A budget of news from a new correspondent at Sidney Crossing, also appears in this week's issue, which will no doubt be appreciated in that district.

CUTS HEAD IN DIVE

Mr. John Munro, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Munro, met with a painful accident on Sunday afternoon, while swimming in Oak Lake. Along with the members of the local Boy Scout Troup, led by S. M. Tom Ward, a hike was made to this popular summer rendezvous. The boys arrived at the Lake, near Walter Wright's cottage, and proceeded to take a dip. John, in making a dive, hit his head upon a stone and received a nasty cut. Through the efforts of Fred Joblin, who along with the other Scouts has been given first aid lessons by Dr. W. H. Pedley, the bleeding was checked and the injured lad was brought to Dr. Pedley's office, where the wound was dressed. Fortunately no stitches were required.

THE MUNICIPAL DUMP

For several years Stirling's Municipal garbage dump south of the Fair Grounds has been a bone of contention to the village Council—and this year is no exception. On Monday morning the Property Committee made a tour of inspection of this spot and found it in a most disgraceful condition. Three years ago the dump was cleaned up and a road built so that anyone dumping refuse could make a complete turn. Apparently this was not appreciated as some citizens unloaded their garbage in the roadway at the back and in several cases, were apparently in such a hurry that they left the filth, etc., in the lane, where no refuse was to have been deposited. Not only that but someone, presumably kids, threw a quantity of bottles and broken glass into an adjoining field, belonging to Mr. Ed. Palmer. Mr. Palmer has raised a complaint, and rightly so, and the party guilty of such tomfoolery should be punished. Please to keep the laneway into the dump clean and passable have been absolutely ignored. The Property Committee, however, has had the lane cleaned and yards of gravel spread over the roadway and it is to be hoped the citizens will appreciate this expense by driving all the way to the dump before unloading the garbage. From the appearance of some of the refuse deposited on the roadway, it looks as if some citizens, reputed to have more intelligence, were guilty of the infraction. Now that the approach to the dump has been repaired and cleaned, it is to be hoped the citizens will be honourable enough to keep it in that condition.

Oddfellows Attend Church

The one hundred and fourteenth anniversary of Oddfellowship was observed in Stirling on Sunday, when about one hundred members and visitors of Stirling Lodge No. 239, Stirling Encampment No. 80, and Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 211, I.O.O.F., attended Divine Service in St. John's Anglican Church at 2.30 p.m.

Rev. B. F. Byers preached an appropriate and inspiring sermon, taking his text from Luke 10, verse 33, and in the course of his remarks emphasized God's compassion on humanity and the great institution of work of love, such as hospitals, etc. "Mankind", he said, "needs affection which is shown when they come to the realization of the beauty of Christianity, which is Jesus Christ. He who does not love his neighbour cannot love God." Rev. Byers spoke of the splendid work done by Oddfellowship for the benefit of humanity and the furthering of Christianity.

During the service Mr. Fred Houchin sang a solo, which was much enjoyed by the congregation.

The brethren paraded to the service, headed by P.D.D.G.M. Ernest Carlsle. Several veterans were present from the local and district lodges and there was a splendid representation from Frankford.

Teachers of Both Schools Remain

A special meeting of the Stirling Board of Education was held on Monday evening with all the members present. The Chairman, Mr. J. B. Belshaw, announced that it was called to receive the report of the Committee on Teachers, and any necessary general business. Dr. C. F. Walt, who recently had represented the Board at the annual meeting, in Toronto, of the Associated High School Boards of Ontario, reported briefly concerning matters under consideration at that gathering. On that occasion an attempt had been made to memorialize the Minister of Education in favour of making a very radical change in the program of Secondary Education, the proposal being to substitute, very generally, vocational in the place of cultural studies. Very strong support in favour of retaining the present course resulted, it being stressed that the Commercial and Agricultural courses now possible, afforded to any High School a fair amount of vocational training without in any way impairing the privilege of all students to receive the benefits of the study of purely cultural subjects.

Representations were also made to the Department of Education, through Mr. Geo. F. Rodgers, Director of Education, in favour of more liberal financial support to academic High Schools. Conditions under which Boards are providing for Secondary Education through the High Schools and Collegiate Institutes of the Province were closely studied, with a view to arriving at lower costs to the taxpayer without impairing the efficiency of the Schools. Before the adjournment the delegates decided that this organization, now only one year of age, had fully justified its existence by results already obtained, and a plan was accepted whereby during the present year, the co-operation of all the High School Boards throughout the Province might be enlisted in this Special Study of Secondary Education.

The report of the Committee on Teachers being favourable to the re-engagement of the present staff, both Public and High School, a motion was adopted, unanimously, that the Sec. Treas. notify each teacher of his or her re-engagement, accompanied by the expression of this Board's high appreciation of the services they are rendering to the youth of this community.

The Chairman informed the Board as to the progress made by Mr. H. B. Disbrows and himself in the selection and preparation of the ground for experimental plot to be used by the students taking agriculture as a course of study, and no doubt, for the remainder of May and June the hoe will rank equal with the text book in claiming their closest attention.

FRENCH CLUB MEETS

The association of French teachers of the Cobourg-Kingston district, held its final meeting for the year in the Stirling High School on Saturday, May 6, under the direction of the Wellington and Stirling members. The members then retired to the laboratory, where Professor Teral of Queen's University, delivered in French a very interesting illustrated lecture on French chateaux. After the lecture, tea was served, the Stirling Girl Guides assisting. The following members were present: Miss Saunders and Miss Wallen, Belleville; Miss Farley and Miss Hermiston, of Trenton; Miss Magee, Wellington; Miss Stiver, Brighton and Miss Simile, Markworth. The guests of the club were Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Lawlor, Miss B. Burch, Miss A. Calow and Miss Margaret Walt.

JOIN HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY NOW!

The following is a timely message from the President, Mr. J. B. Belshaw, and who is a director for District No. 3 of the Ontario Horticultural Society.

The first President of Stirling Horticultural Society was Mrs. Jas. Boldrick, now living in Toronto, at the age of 92, under her management and its officers at that time have established a Society that is a credit to Stirling and Community. It has made wonderful progress in Civic beautification and home surroundings. Hundreds of people have become interested in the work of the Society. One driving through the village will see banks of white blossoms of Spirea, and at the tulip season, magnificent beds of tulips and many other flowers either purchased through the Society or premiums given by the Society.

The time of the year has arrived when our thoughts are turned towards garden and flowers, and it will be a pleasure and privilege to meet you in Belleville on June 7th at St. Thomas Parish Hall and hear addresses given by Horticulturists and talk and plan for the growing of our flowers. The Horticultural Societies are making a drive to make Canada more beautiful. Some years ago we thought a rose was a rose, and no more, but now, when roses and other flowers are in bloom they fill us with peace and contentment. They make us forget our worries and cares in these days of stress and anxiety. If we could go back to a few years ago, there were no flowers at schools, no shrubs. Cemeteries were neglected. Church lawns neglected. Very few shrubs in our villages—no flower shows, and for the past few years, through the liberal grants from the governments and municipal Councils and by lectures given by the Horticulturists.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

The regular meeting of the 1st Stirling Boy Scouts was held on May 4. Fred Joblin called the meeting at 7.30. Dues were collected and the roll called. This was immediately followed by patrol instruction on the Tenderpad tests. The following are now Tenderfoot Scouts—Wellington Snowden, Douglas Richardson, Don Francis, Bob Leury, Bill Long. Others have passed in some of the tests. Dr. Pedley was present to complete his series of lectures on First aid work. He dealt with bleeding, position of the arteries and veins, and fractures. He demonstrated several different kinds of bandages and splints. By special request he showed how to handle a fractured thigh. The Boy Scouts wish to thank Dr. Pedley, who has spent a great deal of time in this work. The good he has done will be seen at some future time. S. M. Tom Ward took the Scoutmaster's five minutes. The duty patrol was named and T. L. Reg. Clarke dismissed the meeting. This was followed by games.

Patrol competition now stands: Eagles, 147; Foxes, 140; Wolves, 139; Beavers 136.

The Hike

About twenty Scouts met on Sunday last, and hiked to Oak Lake. On the way Scouts were to observe as many different animals as possible, and remember them. Different kinds of wood were collected and a twig alphabet started. Under the supervision of S. M. Tom Ward there were no dull moments and the boys thoroughly enjoyed the outing. Another hike will be held in the near future.

CURRENT COMMENT

Next Sunday is Mother's Day. Don't forget to honour the best friend you ever had by wearing a flower. A white flower designates that dear old mother has passed to eternal rest.

According to reports crop prospects in Hastings County are excellent — although during the past week there has been little growth owing to the cold weather. However, it is a long time before harvest.

Stirling's municipal garbage dump is in one deplorable condition. Why? Because some residents have not appreciated this accommodation, furnished by the Council — and certainly have been guilty of gross untidiness. The dump will be cleaned up and some set rule should be adopted with a fine imposed for anyone guilty of breaking same.

Wheat was 65 cents in Winnipeg last week. In Chicago December wheat scored the biggest advance on the opening and sold at 76½ cents, and dollar wheat is freely predicted, which will do more to bring times back to normal than by any other means. In Stirling and district fourteen cent cheese and seven cent hogs would be a boon to farmers and help them to retain the assurance that their labour is not for nil.

We noticed where the annual spring "drop" in the price of U.S.A. anthracite coal has been announced. No doubt if the mine operators would decrease the prices in the fall or coal-burning season, they would not be considered such robbers by the coal customers throughout our country. The decrease in the coal price now reminds us of the man who loaned his umbrella when the sun was shining, but wanted it returned when it rained.

Alliston Herald — Retrenchment by governments is possible if they would retrench. The Ottawa government could effect an immense saving if it were to uproot, destroy and disband the whole industrial census branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. An industrial census year after year is very nice to have for comparisons, but it is not absolutely essential to anything and a time such as the present would be better not functioning.

Someone has said that "the modern girl is like the modern bungalow — painted in front, shingled behind, and no upstairs". But we agree with a prominent church leader, that such is not so. The modern girl and boy are just as fine today as they ever were. In every generation you hear that of the generation which has gone before us. We have the utmost confidence in the young people of today, who will have to bear the responsibilities of the country to-morrow.

Bowmanville Statesman — The Court of Appeal has given judgment in favour of the town of Southampton, which is of interest to municipalities generally. In an action for damages, said to have been sustained by a fall on a sidewalk, a resident was awarded $1000 damages. The Council appealed the decision and has been given judgment in its favour. More such reversals would have a tendency to check rushes on the courts in the hope of collecting from the municipality.

The Russian Soviet is now suffering from a shortage in the learned professions and so a campaign has been inaugurated to provide doctors, teachers, scientists and writers. The authorities are now assuring the youth of the country that "it is respectable to be intellectual". They sadly need some of the intellectuals whom they not long ago so remorselessly destroyed. The present social condition in this Red country emphatically emphasizes what occurs when the heads of a country are possessed with "nothing" between the ears.

Women's organizations are playing a most important part in the country's welfare today. They have passed from the stage of devotion to "self-culture" to an era of active service in more than a hundred activities. Some fear that literature and the arts may be swamped by the numerous "causes" which now claim the attention of women — but how noble and appropriate it is for the fortunate and influential Institute women to strive to better the condition of the unfortunate and to use her influence in cultivating a worthy public opinion.

From time to time this paper has strongly and sincerely advocated buying in Stirling — to such an extent was a plea carried that some of our rural subscribers objected and gave their reasons, which in some cases were quite logical. Nevertheless we would urge, particularly in those times, to keep your cash in your home community as much as possible. Trading at home is always good business, but right now it is better business than ever to trade at home. Adopt this policy and no doubt, eventually, some of the money you spend will come back to you again.

Goodwill Day will be observed a week from today, May 18th. Good Will Day commemorates the opening of the conference at The Hague on May 18th, 1889, when, for the first time in the world's history, the nations met together to consider some means by which international disputes might be settled without resort to war. Men and women had dreamed of such a court for many years and meetings were held all over the world to celebrate the fact that a court had actually been formed. But the peace movement did not prove strong enough in 1914 to prevent the World War and while it lasted the spirit of goodwill was crushed and no one celebrated Goodwill Day. Since then, the peace movement has become stronger and more people are working together to find a way to keep peace. Special programs have been issued by the Dept. of Education to be used in the schools on Goodwill Day this year.

Are Sporting Days Gone?

Up in Pickering the editor of the News is longing for eth days when sports flourished like a green bay tree. He sees these various sporting organizations, once familiar in the village park and anywhere that games could be played, replaced by bridge clubs, and asks why the young people of today do not organize for sports as they did in the days of yore.

Well, here is what Editor Murkar has to say, and we believe that his views might well be taken seriously by the people of Whitby, where love for amateur sport seems to be at a very low ebb:

"Years ago Pickering was quite a sporty town. At one time they had one of the best cricket teams in the province. They also had a strong lacrosse club and football club, and for several years our young people got rid of their surplus energy on the tennis courts and baseball fields. But now about the only clubs that can be discovered are bridge clubs. Why is it that our young people do not organize for some kind of sport? We have a good park convenient to the village and quite a number of young people. Is it because their time is all taken up with business, or is it because our various sports require too much exercise that they do not organize? We would like to see our young people get busy at some kind of sport in order that they do not get too fat and have to resort to methods of reducing."

Honouring Dear Old Mother

Next Sunday is Mother's Day! It seems in these days that children are so busy growing up and being educated, and falling in love and marrying and setting up housekeeping and starting their own careers, that it is often many years before they have time to hark back and get really acquainted with their own parents — whom they used to know so well and rely on and have fun with, in the old days before ever they left home at all.

Your parents may be charming persons, and not old fogies; not narrow, not "old-timers" — but real, living individuals who you would like to know, if once you became actually acquainted with them and knew what they were thinking and doing and living and being. Why not make "Mothers' Day" the occasion for a visit to the home of your childhood. Do not make just a hurried call, for overnight and a big reunion dinner, but go quietly and naturally back to Mother's and linger awhile.

You will find her love unfeigned, her interest in all your doings inexhaustible. You will find her more sympathetic and comprehending of your view-points than you realized. You will gain new respect for yourself, new poise, new philosophy of life and a great refreshing, if you linger around with Mother for a few days and have a heart-to-heart visit, and see how she is meeting life.

Remember, Mothers' Day is the second Sunday in May, next Sunday. Do not let it pass without observance. It was Emerson who said: "Make much of it while you have yet that most precious of all gifts — a loving mother."

It is Miss Ann Jarvis, of Philadelphia, who is reputed to have first thought of "Mothers' Day", celebrated in the United States, in 1910, and later made a national day, by resolution of Congress. A red carnation is to be worn on that day, in honour of a Mother living; and a white one for a Mother gone.

"Hundreds of Stars in the pretty sky,
Hundreds of shells on the shore together;
Hundreds of birds that go singing by,
Hundreds of bees in the sunny weather,
Hundreds of dew drops to meet the dawn;
Hundreds of lambs in the purple clover;
Hundreds of butterflies on the lawn;
But only one MOTHER, the wide world over."

What Others Say

CASE OF TWO MEN

(Forest Free Press)

Take the case of two men, John and James. They do the same kind of work and get the same pay: When one has a job the other has a job. When one is idle the other is idle. Last summer they had a fair amount of work. James saved $150 and put it in the bank. John bought a radio and some new furniture. In the winter both are out of work. As James had $150.00 in the bank he was not eligible for Relief. As John had no money he was put on relief. In the Spring, John and James are both without money. But John has the radio and furniture, while James has nothing.

NO SECRET VOTING IN COUNCIL

(Municipal World)

The Provincial Legislature and a municipal Council are representative bodies administering the affairs of their province or municipality, and their constituents are entitled to know how their representatives vote on all questions. Some years ago "The Municipal Act" provided for the election of a Warden by ballot, and the legality of such action in the County of Oxford was questioned and it was found that such provision was ultra vires of the Legislature. At the first session thereafter, and on the first day, a Bill was passed repealing the section providing for vote by ballot. Councils have no authority to appoint officials or decide any question by ballot or any method of secret voting.

IT WILL BEAR WATCHING

(Oshawa Times)

Much as the two great political parties try to pour ridicule on the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation they are going to have to look to their fences when the time comes around for another election. Since it was launched last fall, the C.C.F. has gained considerable ground and it is now becoming fairly well established in every province in the Dominion.

The reason for this interest in the C.C.F. is not far to seek. In times like those through which Canada has been passing, any panacea which promises a change is eagerly received. Even if only because it is different from the established political parties the C.C.F. will catch the eye of many who have no fixed political affection, just because they see in it a movement towards change. And they feel that any change would be for the better in the present state of things. The C.C.F. has passed the stage when it can be met with ridicule and abuse. It will have to be reckoned with as a political force and met on an even basis by the other parties in the next election campaign.

A BACK-TO-THE-LAND MOVEMENT

Between Oct. 1st, 1930 and Jan. 31, 1933, the Canadian Government Department of Immigration and Colonization, the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific Railway, working together, have been instrumental in placing upon farms in Canada a total of 10,733 families. These were families already resident in the Dominion. On a basis of five to a family, this means 53,665 persons. This family settlement was confined to those who had sufficient capital to establish themselves on the land. In the same period 23,253 single men were placed in farm employment. Adding these to the families, the impressive total of 76,918 persons actually placed on the land is reached. Simultaneously with this movement land settlement activities were being carried on by the Provincial Governments. In one year—1931—the Government of the Province of Quebec placed 5,694 families in farm settlement, and in three years, 1930, 1931 and 1932 the Government of Alberta granted 19,223 homesteads to residents of that Province. Similar activities were carried on by other Provinces. In addition, there was a large landward movement entirely on the initiative of the individual settlers themselves. This effort went a long way to ameliorate unemployment conditions throughout the Dominion.

GO-TO-SUNDAY-SCHOOL DAY

"Go-to-Sunday-School Day" has become an institution in most of the Canadian provinces. The day chosen for this year is May 14th, which is also Mother's Day, and special efforts are being made to secure the attendance of all the people of the community at the Sunday schools of their own churches. A program featuring the Mother's Day theme has been prepared and is furnished on request by the Provincial Religious Education Councils, who ask for their annual offering for maintenance on this occasion. Upon the response to this appeal will depend very largely the continuance of the services rendered by these Councils.

Interesting News For Farmers

Seeding has been general throughout the province, although held back in some districts by cold weather. Orchard have also been retarded for the same reason.

Dehorn Now, Says Duncan

"On the basis of approximately 700,000 beef cattle slaughtered annually in Canada, more than $175,000 is lost to the industry through horn bruising," said Garnet H. Duncan, Ontario Marketing Board.

Plan Production Now

E. D. Bonnyman, chief poultry inspector at Ottawa, advises producers that now is the time to make plans for producing poultry, with the aim in view to regulate the production so that there will be a more even supply coming on the market the year round.

During the summer months there is always a scarcity of high quality poultry, particularly chickens, and those that are marketed at that time are seldom the quality that commands the highest price.

Poultry is mostly handled today on Government grades, and price differentials have been fairly well established with the premium always on the higher grades, and the market for fresh chickens is generally at its best during the summer months.

It is within the reach of every producer to grow some poultry that will qualify for A Grade, which is the grade most in demand, and which commands the highest price.

Poultry to qualify for this grade must be well fattened and fleshed, and only birds that have been crate-fattened for two or three weeks are likely to acquire this finish.

If part of the poultry crop is properly finished and marketed, gradually through the summer months, it will help to relieve the congestion in the Fall, and stabilize the market.

A very satisfactory home mixed mash for brooder chicks may be composed of the following:—one part each of shorts, middlings, yellow corn meal and ground oat groats with one half part of animal feeds made up of meat meal, fish meal, buttermilk powder and bone meal in equal proportions. These ingredients may be varied in proportion according to cost and availability of the different feeds, the bone meal, however, remaining at the same level. In addition to these ingredients, one half per cent of salt and two per cent of crude cod liver oil should be incorporated into the mixture. When the birds are on free range in the sunlight, the oil may be reduced to one per cent, or eliminated entirely. If milk in any form is available, the animal feeds of the mash may be cut down accordingly.

Radio "Mothers' Meeting"

The first radio "Mothers' Meeting" will be presented through the courtesy of Hon. Thos. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, by the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario on Monday, May 15th, between two and three in the afternoon, as their contribution to Mothers' Day.

Mrs. R. B. Colloton, President, will open the meeting. Colonel Kennedy will express greetings to the mothers of Ontario, followed by Mr. Geo. A. Putnam, Superintendent of Institutions.

A complete discussion of each phase of Maternal Welfare will be presented by Hon. Dr. J. M. Robb, Ontario Minister of Health, in his address on "Ontario Motherhood," and by Dr. Bell, Deputy Minister of Health, by Miss E. Moore, Director of Public Health Nurses of Ontario, on "Education for Motherhood," and by Dr. Phair, Ontario Director Maternal and Child Hygiene on "Safety and Motherhood."

That Canadian cheese enjoys a distinct preference on the British market is proved, according to latest advice to the Ontario Marketing Board, by the fact that the Canadian product is receiving, at the present time, a premium of approximately 50 per cent. over the New Zealand product.

Prices for New Zealand cheese, as of the beginning of April, were 40¢ per long cwt. for the white, and 47¢ per long cwt. for the colored, or 7.3¢ and 8.5¢ cents per pound respectively. These prices covered new cheese. Canadian cheese was selling at 60 to 66¢ per long cwt., or 11.04 to 12.14 cents per pound.

This does not mean that New Zealand producers are getting less money for their cheese than are Canadian patrons. New Zealand products sell at a premium of about twenty per cent. in relation to the pound sterling. Canadian products, on the other hand, sell at a discount of approximately 16 per cent, due to exchange. In this way, returns to cheese patrons in both countries are about the same.

It should be pointed out that the prices for Canadian cheese are for mature cheese. There is practically no new Canadian cheese on the British market at present, therefore the benefits of this extreme premium are going to the trade, for cheese acquired last fall or earlier, rather than to cheese factories in Ontario and Quebec at this time.

"Corn crop failure can be eliminated largely by purchasing only No. 1 seed of a standard variety from a reliable dealer and making a germination test before planting," declares Arthur H. Martin, assistant director of the Crops Branch. "In the opinion of corn growers of Southwestern Ontario, corn dealers and officials of the Federal Seed Branch, the supply of Ontario-grown selected corn of high quality and germination, is sufficient to take care of the present season's demand." With a supply of No. 1 Ontario corn thus available at reasonable prices, Mr. Martin warns against the temptation of buying low-priced ungraded or low-grade corn from doubtful sources. The difference in price between the so-called cheap seed, and the best seed is only a few cents a bushel, yet the result of sowing low-grade seed may be absolute crop-failure, due to poor germination. According to the Canada Seeds Act, corn eligible for grade No. 1 must be clean, well-graded, true to variety and germinate at least 80 per cent.

When to Apply Fertilizer

The opportune time at which fertilizer applications should be made will be determined to some extent by the nature of the crop, of the climate and of the fertilizer materials employed. Speaking generally, most of the phosphatic and potassic fertilizers should be applied during the final cultivation of the land preparatory to seeding. The nitrogenous fertilizer may be applied at the same time, or when seeding, though some prefer to reserve a portion (assuming it to be in immediately available form) for application as a top-dressing later on. Phosphatic fertilizers, intended for fall wheat, should be applied in the fall, but soluble nitrogenous fertilizers, like nitrate of soda, should be applied to the wheat in the spring. Immediately after their application to the thoroughly prepared land, the fertilizers should be incorporated with the surface soil by means of harrowing or light cultivating.

In the treatment of pasture and hay lands, the phosphatic and potassic fertilizers may be sown before spring growth followed by one or more dressings of a nitrogenous fertilizer during the early part of the growing season. Basic slag, when used for this purpose, should preferably be applied in the fall.

It seems desirable to emphasize the fact that fertilizers cannot play fully their part in crop nutrition unless the soil is in good tilth. It should be mellow, warm, moist and well aerated, and these favourable conditions will be promoted by furnishing humus-forming material (as in barnyard manure), drainage, if necessary, and a thorough frequent working of the surface soil. The mechanical condition or "drillability" of fertilizer materials and fertilizer mixtures is an important property towards their uniform distribution.

Buck Lambs and Heavy Lambs

The markets will continue this year to pay more for ewe and wether lambs and lambs of suitable weights. Even early in the season before buck lambs take on their most objectionable features they are of poorer quality than ewes and wethers, being bonier and having slack backs or loins.

Therefore, like all lambs of poorer quality, they will be culled out and bought at their value in the early part of the season, and after July 3rd 1933, two cents per pound more will be paid for ewes and wethers than for bucks. The markets will pay a cent a pound more for lambs of good quality up to 90 lbs. at the stockyard, and plants, than for lambs from 90 to 110 lbs., and up to two cents per pound more than for lambs over 110 lbs.

Farmers are urged to meet the simple requirements of the market in order to secure top prices.

1. Castrated all male lambs.
2. Finish and market all lambs within the desired weights.

Hon. J. R. Cooke Defends Abitibi Purchase

Campbellford — Taking for his subject "The Abitibi Project", Hon. J. R. Cooke addressed a large gathering of Royal Arch Masons, comprising visiting companions representing the Eastern Ontario Division of the Hydro staff, from Whitby to Kingston, here Tuesday night. The speaker was introduced by J. F. McArthur, M.P., who spoke of Mr. Cooke's record of twenty-two years in the House, ten with the Government and the past two years Chairman of the Hydro Commission.

Mr. Cooke explained that the acquisition of the Abitibi Power plant was a step looking forward toward the future which would come with the development of the northern part of the Province.

Starting fifteen years ago with the building of eighty miles of line to the Port Arthur district, several of these projects had been constructed into the North, and, although at first not paying their way, with the opening up of the country, industries had started, with the result that today, all projects had on hand substantial surpluses.

The Commission, he said, was anxious to see what could be done with low-grade ores, and entered into an agreement with the Abitibi Canyon at a very low figure. A line was built from Sudbury to Hunter, covering 250 miles, supplying power at the rate of $20 per h.p., a much lower figure than most of the power supplied from Queenston to the municipalities in the Niagara district, which average was in the vicinity of $25 per h.p.

This agreement proved very satisfactory, calling for 100,000 horsepower by October, 1932. Of this 60,000 was contracted for, but the difficulty arose, not because the Commission could not supply the power, but for the reason that the Abitibi Company could not deliver it.

This was due to financial conditions, causing the failure of the Abitibi plant. Then when the Government saw that the company, with the Ontario Power Service Corporation, was likely to go into liquidation, it thought it wise to purchase the interests for the Crown, and ordered the Hydro Commission to buy their bonds. The entire bond issue of $20,000,000 was bought for $18,000,000, thus saving $2,000,000 and an actual saving in the area of $7,000,000.

Another incident in connection with this deal was that all bonds and issue interests of the O.P.S.C. were payable in New York, while those of the Commission were payable in Canada.

The Government had $160,000,000 invested in Northern Ontario, the speaker said, $40,000,000 of which was in the old T. & N. O. Railway and $50,000,000 had been spent by the Northern Development Board each year on colonization amounting to $60,000,000. He declared this policy to be sound, but thought it justified only if the natural resources of this part of the Province were made available to Old Ontario. The one bright spot in the consideration was the development of the mining industry. Under these conditions the Province could not let the Abitibi drift into private hands. The Province realized that if the North was to be developed in full, power at a low rate was absolutely essential, and so they purchased the plant. He was convinced, he said, that the Abitibi power deal would be looked upon in the future as one of the greatest power achievements of the North.

A large number of the people from Peterick's Corners were present and enjoyed hearing the play a second time.

Rev. F. G. Joblin welcomed the guests and thanked the folks of Zion for coming down to entertain us. Rev. F. G. McTavish, of Seymour Circuit, replied to the greetings and introduced the characters as follows: Lena, a young girl of 16, Cora Petherick; Granny, an old lady of 70, Jennie Anderson; Caroline, a girl of 20, Laura Watson; Nancy, a down-East spinster of 50, Bessie McKeljohn; Mrs. Graham, about 45, Freda Petherick; Joel Slocum, a Country Boy, Lindsay Anderson; Uncle Billy, a coloured servant, Arthur Petherick; Durward Belmont, Roy Fry; John Junior Livingston, Fred Fry; Henry Graham, about 50 years old, Aymer Petherick; John Livingstone, George Brunton.

The first scene was set in the country and the other three scenes were staged in the city. III. — Durward comes home from Australia, and still loves Lena. Mrs. Graham finds a picture of Lena's mother in Mr. Graham's possession and thinks it is the present Lena. Durward arrives at a critical moment and asks for an explanation, but Mr. Graham refuses to tell the truth.

Act. IV. — The coloured servant explains some of Cora's underhand work. Mr. Graham confesses his first marriage. John Junior is gay as ever. Belmont and Lena are lovers once more and the play ends happily with all things righted.

Even Back in the Stone Age

The knowledge of Bread's great nourishing powers is not new, but as old as man himself. Even back in the stone age, thousands of years ago, men depended on flour and Bread.

Not Bread as you have it today, made tender, light and nutritious by every device known to the baker's art, but cakes made from wheat and barley, coarsely ground on stones.

The calcined remains of such cakes have been found among the relics of the Swiss Lake dwellings, dating back to the stone age.

Pretty poor stuff you would think it today, by contrast with your loaf of

SYNOPSIS

The story so far: Joyce Ashton, poor stenographer, in a skidding taxi-cab accident in Chicago, suffered loss of memory. Two years later she woke one morning after a fall from her horse to find herself under the name of Frills Packard, married to Neil Packard, rich California fruit packer. From letters in her desk she learned something about her life in the two-year interval, and realized that she had been a heartless, reckless young woman and that she is seriously involved in an affair with a man named Maitland. She decided that at all costs she would end it, but she found Maitland hard to manage. Her troubles were further complicated when she read a letter referring to a baby—was it hers?—that the writer, Sophie, thought Frills ought to have with her. Much to the surprise of Sam, in her husband's employ, she asked for a dog and he got her one.

Shortly after ten o'clock Sam brought the car to the front door and stowed away her two suitcases.

The bank teller at the bank greeted her with a friendly smile. "Good morning, Mrs. Packard. Say, that was some little tumble you took. How do you feel after it?"

"Oh, I'm all right," replied Joyce hastily. She pushed her check in at him and stood on tiptoe with breathless impatience while he deliberately counted out the money. Then she seized it, thanked him abruptly and almost ran out to the car again.

When they were well out of the town, humming swiftly along the smooth roads, Joyce felt her nervous fear evaporate under the stimulus of an irresistibly mounting spirit of adventure. This was going to be fun, she reflected happily.

They reached San Francisco about noon and Joyce parted from Sam with mingled feelings of relief and regret. As soon as she was installed in her clean little room at the big Y. W. C. A. building she proceeded immediately to carry out her plan of action.

The days passed rapidly. In the mornings Joyce went out for her instructions in driving a car. In these drives, much to her surprise, she had little trouble in learning to handle a machine.

She spent the afternoons riding in beautiful Golden Gate park. Her first timidity vanishing very quickly, she made gratifying progress and every day looked forward to her ride with greater pleasure.

One day she overheard some girls in the Y. W. cafeteria talking about the Chinese restaurants, and, her interest aroused, she set out to explore these exotic places.

One evening she went there for dinner, pleasantly weary after a day of riding and driving the car.

Dreamy and contented she presented ly wandered out of the restaurant, to realize a moment later that she had left her book on the table. She retraced her steps.

A man was sitting at the table she had occupied, and she was disconcerted to find that he had picked up her book.

"I say, is this yours?" He was on his feet in an instant. "Please sit down. I want to talk to you about it. This is really very extraordinary."

Joyce sat down, her embarrassment vanishing. She felt at home with this man, as if she already knew him well enough to be casual about the meeting. Why should she feel that with a man she'd never seen before? He grinned at her with such informal friendliness that Joyce thought he must, surely, be a friend of Frills Packard. And yet—and yet—he was so unlike the Manzanita men! She stared at him, frankly curious.

He was much taller and looked almost as young as Neil. She guessed his age as about thirty-one or two. A splendid physique undoubtedly, with wide shoulders and strong arms. As for his face, the details of it impressed themselves on Joyce so strongly in the first few minutes of

He raised his hat and was gone. Joyce was frankly disappointed.

"He might have said he'd like to see me again," she thought, then added, "But oh dear, I've no right to go about being charmed by strange men! Why, oh why, did I have to meet so vital and intelligent a man—it'll only make life harder for me."

She opened the book, too upset in her thoughts at first to grasp what she saw.

Beneath the sketch was written, in an exceedingly beautiful handwriting, "Robert Ainsworth!"

It was inevitable that Joyce should think a great deal about Robert Ainsworth in the days that followed. She was an emotional girl, of warm, staunch enthusiasms and Robert Ainsworth won her unbounded admiration.

That she should ever have met him had not entered her wildest dreams. In fact, had she been introduced to him, she would have been tongue-tied covered with the confusion of awe. Even looking back on their conversation, she blushed to think how boldly she had advanced her opinions before him! At the same time, she their meeting that she felt she would never lose the picture.

"I'm afraid I'm not altruistic enough to give the book to you," laughed Joyce. "Robert Ainsworth is one of my favourite authors, and I've wanted to get hold of this book for years, but never could. It's out of print, you know."

The little Chinese waitress, subtly smiling, approached. "Some tea?" she asked.

Joyce rose hastily. "No, no, I must go."

"Then I'll go with you," he said at once, thrusting a bill in the hand of the little Chinese girl, and following Joyce, who was a little bewildered, but glowing with pleasure.

They walked for over an hour, and Joyce discovered that her new friend had really read nearly every book that had been written, and that his enthusiasms were largely hers. He agreed eagerly with her opinions of Robert Ainsworth, whom, he said, he "revered above all other moderns." He praised Ainsworth so lavishly in fact that Joyce had a sudden sense that he was making fun of her, and for the first time she felt a slight hostility toward him. She could not bear her admiration for Ainsworth, whom she considered so gifted a writer to be made fun of.

Hastily getting her bearings, she discovered that they had gone in a circle and were again near the Y. W. C. A., and she therefore led their steps in that direction.

"Good-bye," she said, "and it's been great fun talking with you, I'm only sorry you don't quite feel as I do about Robert Ainsworth. Under the circumstances, I shall have no compunctions about claiming my book."

"Oh, but I do share your enthusiasm!" He bowed somewhat mockingly, and held up the book. "But will you let me sign the little sketch?" He pounced the book up on his knees and wrote in it, slowly, meticulously, waved it about with maddening deliberation to blot the ink; then handed it to her, closed.

"Good-bye, Miss—?"

"Joyce Ashton," she said without thought.

glowed with the realization that she had been absolutely herself, and that he had regarded her at least intelligently enough to talk to.

It had been such a relief to shed the mantle of Frills Packard and discuss with frankness the things that she, Joyce Ashton, was interested in, that she knew she had been unusually vivacious and lacking in shyness. Apparently, however, Ainsworth had been no more than casually interested. He had left her without protest, and he had made no effort to see her again. He had not despised her intelligence, but he had been indifferent to her femininity! All at once Joyce found this somewhat bitter.

Days went by and Joyce drifted on until one day she drew her thoughts up sharply. She had allowed herself to grow forgetful of her situation, to visualize Frills Packard as a separate person, and to consider herself as detached from Neil and Mait and the whole life in Manzanita. Little as she had grown used to it, Frills was herself! Frills' husband was her husband.

Neil Packard: her husband. Neil whom she had no more than barely spoken to, but on whose bounty she had been so lavishly living: here was problem enough to occupy her. More and more the subject of his return grew on her as a formidable reality.

Joyce had time during these two weeks to wonder about the friends she had left in the East. Did they ever think about her? She had been secretary to one of the members of the Lyman-Warde firm of advertising agents. Mr. John K. Lyman was an elderly, impersonal gentleman who had never appeared to recognize the fact that she might have a life outside the office. At the end of three years of this sort of existence Joyce was deathly sick of the city and the monotonous routine of her days, from the early morning scramble for her train in the bathroom to the evening crush in the crowded, stuffed trolley cars.

Joyce had made a sudden desperate decision to get out of it all and try some other part of the country. Recklessly she gave up her position, sold her few Liberty Bonds, bought a ticket for San Francisco with stop-over privileges at Chicago and Denver, said good-bye to her friends and started out for the West of which she had, to be frank, only the vaguest general knowledge.

As she lay in her bed in the Y. W. C. A., Joyce smiled and frowned alternately at the thought of how her plan had turned out.

Thirteen days after she had left Manzanita, Joyce received the word that ended her solitary campaign to fit herself for taking the position of Frills Packard again. The morning mail enclosed a laconic telegram from Neil: "Arrive Manzanita Monday evening." This was Monday morning. Joyce immediately got Sam on long distance and asked him to drive to the city for her.

On the way home she questioned him with forced interest about all that had happened in her absence. Sam obligingly imparted what news he could think up; Dickie had won the love of both Roxie and Marcia; Rosita was in fine condition; Sam had exercised her a little every day, but she was "raring to go" and Mrs. Packard would find her full of pep; there had been a small fire in the packing plant but almost no damage had been done! and so on, a list of trivial items to which Joyce listened with an interest that grew in spite of herself.

Dickie was at the gate to meet them and his joyous welcome filled Joyce with a quite disproportionate sense of the pleasure of coming home. But when she entered the big luxurious bedroom she was struck for the first time by the disarming realization that soon she would be unable to flee to it for refuge and escape.

She unpacked hurriedly and had a bath, careful to take a negligee in with her and to lock the bathroom door. It was horrible to feel that at any moment a strange man might enter the bedroom and that she could not order him out! Suppose he came before she finished dressing! In a panic she jumped out of the bathtub and dried herself hastily.

She dressed in the huge closet, thankful that its size made this possible and was completely ready before seven-thirty.

Dickie followed her downstairs and they went through the front door together. Just as they stepped outside a big blue touring car came up the driveway. Joyce felt a curious tightening in her throat as she recognized Neil Packard.

"Hullo there, darling, how've you been?" cried Packard, jumping out of the car. "I was hoping you'd write again. It was great to get that letter from you." He came up with a broad eager smile on his face and bent over her. Joyce forced herself to lift her face obediently for his kiss, but moved away hastily to prevent a second.

"You were lucky to get even one," she said lightly, but her heart thumped so hard it made her breath come short. "Look, who's here! Dickie, speak to the gent!"

"So that's your new dog, is it? Hullo feller, you're a cute cuss, all right. Come here, boy!" Dickie was quite ready to make friends, for he appeared to regard every man in the light of a potential playmate. He began now a little eager whining interspersed with short barks.

"That means he wants you to throw a stick for him," she explained, "he has one great passion in life, and that is to be given something to worry and run away and play tug-of-war with."

Her voice faltered a little at the puzzled expression on Packard's face.

"Dinner's almost ready," she went on hastily, abandoning Dickie as a topic of conversation. "You haven't had any, have you?"

"No, and I'm hungry as a bear. Hope Marcia got something good for us. Who's here tonight?"

On Wednesday afternoon, April 26, a quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at West Huntingdon United Parsonage by Rev. C. A. Sales, when Miss Marjorie, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Cooke, of West Huntingdon, was united in marriage to Mr. Samuel Bruce Stapley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stapley, of Stirling. The bride looked charming in a gown of beige crepe with hat and shoes to match, and carried a small bouquet of roses, fern and lily-of-the-valley. The groom's gift to the bride was a white gold bracelet. The couple were attended by Mr. Art. Leavens, of Belleville, and Miss Gladys Cooke, sister of the bride. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a sterling silver bracelet and to the best man a mother-of-pearl fountain pen. After the ceremony the young couple returned to their home where

St. John's A. Y. P. A. met in the vestry on Monday evening. Meeting opened with hymn 410 after which Mr. Byers led in prayer. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted, followed by roll call. Arthur Gould acted as chairman and as there was no business to be conducted, musical selections were given by Fred Houchin and Margaret Bateman. The guest speaker for the evening was Rev. Mr. Joblin, who was called upon and welcomed. He cordially replied, then gave a short address on "The value of seeing through to the finish." He illustrated this point by the lines of great men like Francis Bacon and the Statesman, Ramsay MacDonald. He stressed the point that courage and friendship were the main factors to keep your sails blowing. His address was appreciated by all and Mr. Byers replied. Glen Morrow then gave selections on his guitar and mouth-organ, which were well received. The prize donated by Reginald Coombs was won by Margaret Bateman. Meeting closed with the National Anthem.

ST. PAUL'S Y. P. S.

The regular meeting of St. Paul's Y.P.S. was held on Monday evening under the direction of the Missionary department, the President presiding over the devotional period. Mrs. E. W. Rowland read the Scripture Lesson, Psalm nineteen, giving a splendid exposition of this Psalm. The Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison. Rev. E. W. Rowland presided over the remaining program. The Sunday School orchestra, assisted by Miss Jean McCubbin, pianist, gave two splendid numbers, "Rosebuds" and "Flag Day." Rev. H. Mellow, of Ivanhoe, gave a very timely address to the Y.P.S. speaking on the subject of "World Citizenship." The speaker stated the first essential of good citizenship is the ability to live happily with one's self; unless one is able to sit down and spend quiet moments alone with one's own thoughts he has not really learned to live. There is the danger of overdoing this. The family and community life must be developed, that is, the ability to live happily with others. But to fulfil God's purpose we must go further and live happily with the whole world. To live aright we must have a high and noble purpose. This can only be reached by having a passion for mankind which is shown in acts of kindness and mercy. The speaker related splendid incidents from the lives of men who were doing wonderful things for the world because they were driven on by a great purpose. This very inspiring address was closed by urging all to develop the four-fold life, which will enable one to live happily, not only with oneself, but with the whole world. Hilma Matheson put on the contest, white side gaining the honours. Colour count showed an attendance of eight-seven. The usual Mizpah Benediction closed this very impressive meeting.

ST. ANDREW'S GUILD

Resolved—"That the pioneer woman has done more for her home and community than does the modern one." This was the subject of a debate in St. Andrew's Church on Monday evening. The affirmative was taken by Mrs. T. Matthews and Mrs. R. Williams, while the virtues of the modern woman were upheld ably by Mrs. H. Rollins and Mrs. A. Murduff.

The meeting was led by Mrs. Jas. Montgomery. Mrs. J. M. McGee read the scripture lesson and Mrs. W. Anderson led in prayer. Mrs. R. Meiklejohn and Rev. J. A. Koffend sang a duet "Just a Vision of Mother." Following this the debaters were called to the platform. Mrs. T. Matthews, as leader of the affirmative, drew a vivid picture of the pioneer woman, her zeal, her courage, and spirit of sacrifice; how she cultivated a spirit of serenity amid the dangers and toils of life. She met the harder problems with wonderful resourcefulness. Her home was her castle. It was not merely a building conveniently near the garage. She was devoted, read her bible, attended divine service regularly. Did not spend her time in playing bridge. She looked after her children and saw to their upbringing. In those days a woman could, and did, make cheese, butter, rag carpets, maple sugar, look after a garden and attend the chickens. She ushered the new born babe into the world, cared for the sick, made a shroud for the dead. How would the motto "What is home without a mother" look on the walls of a modern woman's home today? Children arise at 3 o'clock to let her in more probably. The pioneer used no slang and sang no songs such as "Yes, she's my Baby," "A little love, a little kiss." No, they were of a higher type, such as "Silver Threads among the gold." Woman was placed on a pedestal. Mrs. H. Rollins, who upheld the negative side, at once questioned the advantage of a 1933 type of wife sitting beside the fire serenely knitting or piecing log-cabin quilts. Our up-to-date models have to step, or friend husband will get in his high powered car and select another companion for the evening. A modern woman would leave it to the man to walk twelve miles to marry her. She would not go to him. The pioneer woman toiled and laboured so hard that all instinct of self-expression was quelled. To-day a wife makes up her husband's mind for him. She does this by a secret process of scheming and contriving that he imagines the idea was his own. Mary Roberts Rhinehart, a great modern writer, has lived and contributed so to her home that her boys say of her, "She is a better mother than she is a writer." What a high tribute! In former days the husband or lord and master of the home treated his family as his property and did not allow them to express a view contrary to his own. The ideal mother of 1850 was gracefully delicate. She was pictured as gentle and docile lying on a couch thinking over her ailments and talking over her troubles with a neighbour. When study clubs, Women's Institutes and Lodges for women were organized these invalids dragged their frail bodies off the couches and began a new existence. The men of today love to dress their wives beautifully. They would not wish to see them in the awkward garments depicted in the old plush-covered albums. The pioneer woman didn't know there was such a thing as a community for her master (friend husband) demanded all her time.

The second speaker on the affirmative side, Mrs. R. Williams, drew a picture of the modern bridge-playing wife, playing with her pet dog, while hubby frantically prepared the meal. The pioneer woman was most industrious, the modern one hates work. She calls it a day after maid brings her breakfast tray to her bed-side. She listens to a jazz radio program—afternoon bridge—a theatre and a dance in the evening. Grandmother painted pictures of peaceful kine grazing in the meadows. The woman of today paints her face. She swaggers down street in a suit of her husband's, instead of garbing herself in modern attire. She calls up the nearest grocery store, and armed with a can opener she sets forth these most untempting viands before her husband. No wonder this depression has been sent. The women run bills on the men.

Mrs. A. Murduff, after refuting several points presented by the last speaker, as the second supporter of the negative side, spoke as follows: If our girls smoke cigarettes, their grandmothers smoked a clay pipe. The pioneer woman did not study the needs of her family as does the modern mother. Perhaps it was impossible with the number of children she had. No we are not satisfied with anything in our children but physical perfection. The mother today is a pal of her 15-year old daughter. She teaches her from experience, how to meet the problems of life unchaperoned. She is not evasive in her replies to her daughter's questions. If the modern girl has any undesirable tendencies she inherits them. She trains her husband to do right. Grandmother from her pedestal has occasionally to step down and assist grandfather in from the local tavern. The modern girl does not swoon or die of a broken heart. She does not require a sturdy oak, for she is no clinging vine.

The leader of the affirmative again spoke, emphasizing some of the points which had been challenged by the opposing side. The audience was most appreciative and showed the keenest interest in the pictures portrayed in contrast of the pioneer and the modern home. Short discussions took place afterward. Art Duncan and William Dermody sang "Give me the Open Road." Meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

ST. PAUL'S W. M. S.

The regular monthly meeting of St. Paul's W.M.S. was held on Tuesday, May 9th, at 2.30. The meeting was opened by singing hymn 83, followed by prayer by Mrs. Macklin. The minutes of last meeting were read and the reports of the secretaries given. Miss Christie gave a reading on Temperance. A very interesting paper on "The Stewardship of Kindness" was given by Mrs. H. C. Martin. The remaining part of the program was in charge of Mrs. Earl Bailey. All joined in singing Hymn 361. Mrs. W. S. Martin led in prayer. Mrs. G. W. Munro read the Scripture lesson, Romans 12. The fifth chapter of the Study Book, "The Dominion of Canada", prepared by Miss E. Doonan was very ably given by Mrs. J. B. Thompson. A vocal duet "God will take care of you" by Mrs. Westcott and Mrs. G. W. Jones was greatly enjoyed. Readings were given by Mrs. W. L. Fox, Mrs. C. Wright, Mrs. E. G. Bailey. After singing hymn 281 the Mizpah Benediction closed the meeting.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

The Women's Missionary Society met for their May meeting at Mrs. J. M. Magee's home. Meeting opened with a hymn "O Master let me walk with Thee". Mrs. B. Hoard led in prayer. Mrs. C. Baker read the Scripture lesson from the 12th Chapter of Romans. A second hymn was sung, "Go labour on, spend and be spent". Minutes and the reports of various officers were given. Roll call was answered with the word "Joy". Mrs. Joe Reid gave a reading "Not omitting the Fourth Stanza", which showed that to leave this particular verse out of the hymn, made it incomplete. Mrs. Murduff sang a pleasing solo, "Give me a Channel of Blessing." Mrs. Koffend, of Toronto, a worker in Evangel Hall, gave a most wonderful and inspiring address. The work of Evangel Hall was founded twenty years ago. The secret of their success was because it was missionary. A church without the missionary spirit is lost. The main thing is the preaching of Christ and the saving of souls and bringing them to love and to know Christ as their Saviour and friend—the saving grace of Jesus Christ. Many of the people are very poor and depend on someone for their next meal, yet when they get a few cents they do not forget to bring an offering to help along God's work so that others may know of the Saviour who saved them. Mrs. Koffend also spoke of the great work of Miss Helen Miller, a sister of Mrs. Alex Farsey, who died as a missionary in Africa. Her early work in Evangel Hall is still remembered by some of the older people who attend there. Through her great work, and others who have laboured and worked "Channels of blessing are opened through service. Meeting closed with hymn "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." Rev. Mr. Koffend closed the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Magee served a dainty lunch at the close.

SEEN THROUGH THE OFFICE WINDOW

(By The Office OWL)

The warbling of a lot of these Yankee crooners makes one feel about as uncomfortable as a Dutchman with a Mongolian mother, a Swedish father and a Jewish accent learning to play a Hawaiian guitar.

What about a village softball league. There is enough material around town for about four good teams if someone would get behind the idea of a Stirling League and give it the necessary push. It would give a lot of the older gentry a lot of satisfaction to get out and shake last winter's rheumatism out of those stiffened legs.

And speaking of "satisfaction", wouldn't it give some people a great deal of the same to see some man by the name of "Idle" Rubenstein give Adolph Hitler a kick in the pants?

We wish some political party would sponsor silencers for the bunch of robins that have built their nest just below our bedroom window.

We have often wondered why some men who could so well arrange the affairs of this country, haven't done better with the management of their own.

First it was cross-word puzzles, later jig-saw cut-outs, and now we learn that Hollywood has gone "bicycle crazy". Next we expect to see the Village Council out on the Danger Corners having a little friendly game of marbles.

The local tennis courts will soon be in ship-shape. Now watch the fellow who can't push a lawn mower on a hot day get out and "sweat buckets" in the hot sun.

While going around Morton's Corner the other morning we overheard two or three old timers talking about something they had "lost", and holding their hands out in front of them about eighteen inches apart. We don't know for sure, but we kind of figured one of them had been trout fishing.

"The meek shall inherit the earth" — That's just one of the thoughts that crosses father's mind while beating carpets during mother's house-cleaning "spree".

The best way to get rid of the house-to-house beggars with the "unemployment bed-time story" is to show them the wood-pile. Then watch them go to the house next door in hopes the occupants thereof burn coal or electricity.

"Si" Haskins, after hearing the boys talk about Babe Ruth knocking out so many "flies" says "It's too damned bad he don't kill 'em so's their young 'uns won't get in the butter".

We would suggest that a certain Stirling High School pupil take "deep sea diving" along with the rest of his studies. Evidently none of the local streams are of sufficient depth to satisfy his activities along that line.

Clarence Day, captain of the Maple Leaf Hockey Team which went through so many gruelling battles last winter, has gone and got himself married. Some men seem to love punishment.

Science tells us that women's teeth have longer roots than men's. The designer of the chassis probably figured they needed a firmer grip on account of the constant jiggling.

"Juggling and Balancing is an art," says a contemporary. It must be. Few of us claim to be able to fix up the government's annual budget.

H. S. Cadets Are Inspected

The Stirling High School Cadet Corps, No. 188, underwent its annual inspection on Tuesday afternoon and came through with flying colours. There were over fifty cadets in line and they presented a natty appearance in their neat khaki uniforms. The various evolutions, consisting of general salute, march past (line, column route and column platoons); platoon drill (Platoon Commanders); small arms drill (Sergeants); extended order; First Aid; and games, were gone through with a precision that would have done credit to a volunteer drill corps. A half holiday was observed and the weather was ideal for the event.

Captain Isbester, M.C., of district No. 3, headquarters staff, Kingston, was the inspecting officer. The inspector was particularly pleased with the diversity of program and commended the cadets for the efficiency in first aid. The officers in charge were as follows:

Major — A. Gould.
Company Commander—Lorne Bateman.

Second in Command—Kenneth Stapley.

No. 1 Platoon Commander — Burton Morton.

No. 2 Platoon Commander — Wm. Sutherland.

Sergeants — Clifford Holmes, Colin Fox, Aubrey Rodgers, Paul Stewart.

Drummers — John Munro and Fred Joblin.

Following the military exercises and manoeuvres, Prin. R. G. Lawlor put the boys through physical training exercises, which were well executed and enjoyed by the spectators, the singing of the National Anthem concluded the exercises and program, after which three cheers were given for His Majesty, the King; Capt. Isbester, and Prin. Lawlor. The entire Corps then paraded to the municipal park and saluted the cenotaph. The buglers and drummers supplied music enroute.

Two softball games were played on the campus between girls and boys' teams from Marmora H. S. and the locals. In the girls game the S.H.S. players defeated Marmora 55 to 13, while the Marmora boys won by a 4 to 4 score.

Lunch was served after the contests and the local students entertained the Marmora visitors in the Assembly Hall during the evening.

WRONG BUILDING

In last week's issue an article appeared stating that Mr. A. Hammond had purchased the refreshment booth of Mr. Bert Searles, Oak Lake, and would renovate same into a summer cottage. We were misinformed on the matter as it was a cottage Mr. Hammond had bought and not the booth.

RAINBOW AROUND SUN

On Monday residents of Stirling and district were baffled by what, in Northern Ontario, is so common an occurrence it is seldom mentioned. Concentric rainbows around the sun caused all the excitement. The rings according to weather bureau officials, were caused by ice crystals floating in the air. The circles of coloured light, red on the inside and blue on the outside, were about 22 degrees away from the sun. "If we got the crystals in all directions," claimed a weather man, "we would get white light." As they become more definite they take on the colours of the rainbow. And this is what causes them: Monday was warm and humid, the air was moist. A wave of cold air came in and froze the particles of moisture. The reason the rings were more plainly seen was because there were few clouds. Usually they are obscured. There really isn't any particular significance to the rings at all.

Mrs. Clifford Lansing, Oak Hills, spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Geo. Ross, Foxboro.

SUFFERS STROKE

Mr. Norman Langtry of Ingersoll, suffered a paralytic stroke recently, and has been in a critical condition. Mr. Langtry is well known in this district and is a son-in-law of Mr. W. S. Martin.

SOFTBALL MEETING

A meeting will be held in the Agricultural office tomorrow, (Friday) night, at 8 o'clock for the purpose of organizing a local softball league. It is expected that if a league is formed four teams will be entered. All interested are urged to attend the meeting.

NO CHANGE IN RIDINGS

The two ridings in Hastings County for the Dominion House of Parliament remain the same, according to the Redistribution Bill ratified by the Federal House yesterday. These will be Hastings South and Hastings-Peterboro, of which Front Street, Stirling is the dividing line.

PRINCIPAL'S APPEAL IS SUSTAINED

Judge H. A. Lavelle of Kingston, in a county court session at Marmora on Tuesday, sustained an appeal from a judgment by Magistrate Casement, who had found A. E. Smith, principal of the Marmora Continuation School, guilty of assault in connection with the punishment of a pupil, Tommy Smith, son of Mr. Wm. Smith of the village. Magistrate Casement had found the principal guilty, but suspended sentence, and imposed the court costs of $30.40. This case was heard at Marmora on Friday, March 24, and Mr. A. S. Smith's appeal from the Magistrate's decision was not tried until Tuesday.

RAWDON MAN IN WRONG

Charged with taking an automobile without the owner's consent, Charles Duquette, Springbrook, was arrested following a motor car accident in which he is alleged to have wrecked a car, the property of Patrick Tobin, 11th concession of Rawdon, early Wednesday morning, last week. Duquette was arraigned before Magistrate Casement in Madoc that afternoon and remanded in custody for one week. Duquette had previously been employed by Mr. Tobin and on Wednesday morning obtained the Tobin automobile without the knowledge of the owner. After driving about one mile from the Tobin home Duquette apparently lost control of the car and it crashed into a ditch. Provincial Constable Hill of Madoc was informed of the fact, that the car was missing and arrested Duquette near the scene of the accident. Duquette was lodged in the county jail by Constable Hill last Wednesday night after he had been remanded by Magistrate Casement.

RURAL DEANERY OF NORTH HASTINGS

On Wednesday, last week a meeting of the Rural Deanery of North Hastings was held in Madoc. Beginning at half-past ten in the morning with the celebration of Holy Communion at St. John's Anglican Church by the Lord Bishop Lyons of Ontario. A good attendance of the surpliced choir, and Miss Eleanor Aylesworth, presiding at the organ, assisted by the trained voices of the clergymen present, did much to make up for the small attendance of worshippers. The Epistle was read by Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell and the gospel by Rev. F. G. Beazer. The preacher for the day was the Rev. F. G. Beazer, who took for his text, Exodus 14:13; "Speak to the children of Israel that they go forward." The speaker gave a strong and urgent message to the clergy as leaders, emphasizing the need to "Go Forward".

The ministers attending the meeting of the chapter were Rev. E. N. Grant, Bancroft; Rev. A. E. Pepper, Bancroft; Canon W. G. Swayne, Bonarlaw; Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell, Marmora; Rev. F. G. Beazer, Roslin; Rev. W. G. Hope Swayne, Tweed; Rev. B. P. Byers, Stirling and Rev. C. C. Brazil, Bannockburn.

The chapter meeting was held in the afternoon, when the Lord Bishop spoke to the clergymen on various matters affecting the parishes of the Deanery, including the Restoration Fund appeal, which will be launched in June; and also dealt with statistical returns.

Following this the clergy met with the laymen from the different parishes, to discuss matters in common to both bodies. Here the Bishop's address touched on matters which had been previously taken up with the clergy.

A meeting of the laymen had been held earlier in the afternoon (Continued on Page Eight)

OBTAINS B. A.

Miss Margaret Walt has been successful in passing her first year exams and Mr. Ivan Martin his second year exams at Queen's University. Miss Irene Bailey, also of the same university, has obtained the B. A. degree. All are ex-members of Stirling H. S.

FLOWER THIEVES

There are some mean thieves in this vicinity. Mrs. W. J. Whitty had a beautiful tulip bed which she prized very much and had planned to pick a bouquet for Mother's Day. But sometime during Saturday night sneak thieves made a raid on the tulips and on Sunday morning every flower was missing. This is one of the meanest tricks, and it is too bad the guilty party could not be caught and punished.

BIKE ON SIDEWALK CAUSES ACCIDENT

It has finally happened! The News-Argus has been warning boys against riding bicycles on the sidewalk. Apparently the same went unheeded for yesterday a boy riding his "bike" on the walk hit a youngster, and the result was painful injuries to the latter. We would suggest that in future any boy found guilty of this practice, that the Constable take his bike away from him for a certain period, or that the boy be prohibited the use of the wheel. A fine may be the proper procedure, but the same comes out of the pocket of the father, which seems somewhat unfair. Confiscating the bicycle would be a penalty more effective to the boy.

POLICE SEARCH FOR IVANHOE BOY

The following appeared in Monday's Belleville Ontario-Intelligencer: The local police were asked to be on the lookout for Carl Wright of Ivanhoe, who ran away from his home in that village last Saturday. Young Wright, who is but 16 years of age, apparently got the wanderlust and left home to seek employment elsewhere. The lad was described as having blue eyes and wearing a blue suit when he disappeared from home. The local police received the information relating to his disappearance on Sunday after the lad had failed to return home the night previous. A close look-out is being taken by the police for the missing boy.

STIRLING LEGION NOTES

The regular meeting of Stirling Legion No. 221 was held in the Club Rooms on Monday evening last. After a short business meeting the guest speaker of the evening, Mr. Joseph Wilson, B.S.A. gave a very instructive address on agriculture. He told particularly of the great work the Department of Agriculture is doing for the farmer, showing particularly the scope of his work in Hastings County. Several slides were shown of various agricultural scenes in the County and were very interesting. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Wilson for this most instructive address. After lunch was served a social hour was spent and enjoyed by all.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

The Scouts met at the Boy Scout Headquarters last Thursday at 7.30. Fred Joblin called for the horseshoe and twenty-eight answered the roll call. The patrols then went to their corners to study first aid work. Ross Shore passed all the Tenderfoot Tests and is now a full-fledged Scout. At 8.15 S. M. Ward took the Scoutmaster's five minutes. He gave the boys several suggestions for Mother's Day urging each boy to give his mother something. A Scout ball team was organized and practice planned. T. L. Reg. Clarke dismissed the meeting and took charge of the games. Next Thursday, May 18, the first aid tests for 1st Class Scouts will be held. All Scouts are urged to attend and do their best. A church parade is being planned for the 1st Sunday in June to the Presbyterian Church.

MINISTERS MEET

Ministers and their wives of this district were entertained at the home of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Beazar, Roslin, on Monday afternoon. The gathering proved to be most interesting and enjoyable. The subject for discussion was Hitler and the Nazi party in Germany. Rev. Mr. Beazar gave a splendid paper on the situation in Germany and pointed out the cause or causes of the uprising against the Jews. Needless to say those present did not conclude as to who was in the wrong or the remedy, but the interchange of views on the theme was very profitable to all. Mrs. Beazar served an appetizing lunch, which all enjoyed and as the guests continued to chat over their cups of tea, one was heard to say "What an excellent host and hostess Mr. and Mrs. Beazar proved to be." Arrangements are being made for the June meeting being held at Oak Lake.

Mrs. Cynthia Rodgers will celebrate her 81st birthday on Sunday, May 21st, by going to church and spending the rest of the day with her family at her home in Rawdon.

CURRENT COMMENT

Next Wednesday is Victoria Day and will be celebrated as a public holiday throughout the Dominion.

A lot of pity is wasted on animals. There are many contented cows, but who ever heard of a contented farmer?

We believe that folks are drifting back to the old-fashioned games. Some thought they would play a game of dominoes, and found to their surprise they didn't know how.

Little boys, who don't obey their parents, grow up and then they have to obey the policeman and sometimes go to jail. Little boys and big boys, too, should be good boys all the time.

Will there be a provincial election this year? Ontario Liberals are organizing for a Provincial campaign this year, but indications show that the Henry Government will carry on until 1934.

We are told that a Stirling housewife has posted the following suggestive lines in a conspicuous place in the bathroom: "He is blest who takes his daily scrub, twice blest is he who scours out the tub."

There has been a great "hullabaloo" over making public the salaries of the Ontario Hydro officials. Now that the salaries have been divulged, what will those who raised such a cry to secure the figures do with them?

Cheese opened below ten cents at the first meeting of the Belleville Board on Saturday. When, how and where do the farmers get the bonus from the government? At this price it sure will be acceptable to milk producers.

Gananoque Reporter — The redistribution bill, now before parliament at Ottawa, will, it is said, so gerrymander Grey County that Miss Agnes McPhail, Canada's only woman member of Parliament, will lose her seat. Is chivalry totally dead at Ottawa?

Adolf Hitler, the leader of Germany, is certainly causing an uproar. Unless some sort of a miracle happens it looks as if a European war will be staged in the near future. We do not sanction assassination but we wonder if such were afflicted on him if it would be a blessing in disguise.

From many points in the United States comes word that thousands of men are returning to work, factory owners responding to the President's appeal. In one month unemployment has decreased in England by 80,000. These are the most encouraging signs of returning prosperity yet seen.

With a large attendance at all Stirling and District churches on Sunday, Mother's Day was well observed in the community, the majority of services at the morning hour of worship being participated in by the children of the Sunday Schools, who assisted in the service, special forms of service being followed.

Bancroft Times — Judging from comments we have overheard among the local sportsmen respecting the coming gun license, a more unpopular tax could not have been thought out. With so many taxes in vogue, is it any wonder the new tax is being resented? There is scarcely nothing left on which to impose a tax now.

If the women want to wear men's pants, and from all appearances they do, why should the men complain? After all, it is the logical conclusion to a long story of feminine plagiarism. The "dear things" already have men's cigarettes, barber shops, shirts, ties, sports clothes, and several other items out of the wardrobe, so why not his pants?

Some of the boys of the town who are specially well behaved in other respects have let the habit grow upon them of riding their bicycles on the streets, occasionally right in the business section. This is a practice the dangers of which we are sure they do not appreciate, and will not realize until some day some person suddenly steps out of a door in their path and there is an accident. Don't take the chance boys!

The annual inspection of the local H. S. Cadet Corps was held on Tuesday afternoon, which brings to our mind the controversy that has taken place throughout the Dominion on cadet training. Many people object to Cadet training because they think it is akin to militarism, which to our mind is not so. We are much in favour of such training because the object is to train and develop the best in the young men who enroll in its ranks. Cadet training aids in developing a clean mind and body and also obedience.

Premier Henry has announced that his government intends to make an intensive drive for the securing of greater markets for Ontario farm products, and to do it by means of advertising campaigns. For once, great stress is to be laid on the home market, in addition to that overseas, and the cooking school method will also be used to create wider markets for the products of the farms of the province. Any move which tends to increase the purchasing power of the farmers, and that is the reason behind this campaign, is worth while. If the farmer can secure a ready market for his produce, whether it be products of the field or the stable, is at once a potential purchaser of manufactured goods, and thus the wheel of prosperity will begin to move in the right direction. So we say—more power to this campaign. May it bring the same results which always follow intensive and intelligent advertising, and help the farmers out of the slough of despond in which they have been wallowing.

What is Education?

You hear a great deal about education. Here, briefly, is our opinion:

The truly educative process consists in learning to deal with reality, and that is to say with people and objects and events that are not the mere projection of one's own wishes. Education is a matter of putting away childish things, of discovering that events do not respond to words, of learning that the world is not in us, but that we are in the world. Most of us live in a world of "wishful thinking". We'd like to be rich, and we dream of what we would do if we were rich, but we aren't willing to take all the trouble and worry on ourselves that anyone must take if he is to attain riches. Education ought to teach youth that it must work for what it gets. Too many young people grow up these days with the idea that the world owes them a living. The world owes nobody anything for which he does not give a commensurate return in labour of one sort or another.

To School Students

This is the year when, if possible, it would be more than ever advisable to continue going to school; since one cannot earn much and the additional training now received would help to secure a better place in life when times become normal. In most cases the boy or girl who goes this year will have to make up his mind to go economically. When school is out, do not settle down to be indolent and rust out. If the job you want does not appear, tackle any work which you can do. Help mother with the house work or dad with the gardening; mow the lawn; wash, iron; sew, paint parts of the house and furnishings. If you cannot earn money, save it. Fix up the home and give dad and mother a treat. You will be glad you did this when they are helping you through school next year. During the years of school life, you have been the centre of effort and interest for your parents and teachers. It is now your turn to step out of the limelight and help somebody else. Do not carry a chip on your shoulder nor grow moody because everything is not now coming your way. Be a good citizen and take hold and push for your home and community welfare. A splendid occupation for trained high school and college young people is to lead in activities and sports and recreation for those less privileged in the community. One may not now get a salary for it, but it makes a worthy contribution to society, and furnishes a good outlet for one's spirit of adventure.

Sterilizing the Unfit

A resolution approving the sterilization of mental defectives and praising His Honor Dr. H. A. Bruce, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, for his campaign toward that goal was passed recently by the Ontario Branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. Hon. Dr. H. A. Bruce, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, has undertaken to give leadership in a campaign for the sterilization of the mentally unfit, so that they may be prevented from reproducing a future generation of their own kind. Medical opinion is strongly favourable to a step of this kind, since the medical men see, to a greater extent than any other class, the terrible results of reproduction of mental misfits.

While there are some who object to legislation permitting sterilization of mental defectives, largely on religious grounds, this is a subject which must be considered from many angles. In a humanitarian sense, it would be a kindness to prevent the bringing into the world of children doomed to lives of imbecility or mental unfitness. These children are a burden to themselves a reproach to their parents, and an encumbrance upon the state. They are the type which fills up mental institutions, and in many cases, the jails, and they, in turn, go on to reproduce their own kind and create an ever-growing problem.

The economic argument is also strong. This country is loaded down with expenditures for mental and penal institutions, built and maintained to take care of people such as these. It is a burden which, according to statistics, will keep on increasing unless some steps are taken to prevent future generations of mentally unfit people coming into the world.

The whole subject is one of great importance to the future of Canada. Race degeneration is a certainty if the present condition continues to increase as it has done. From that standpoint, it is worthy of being brought out into the open, discussed fully and frankly, and given the most serious consideration by our legislators.

schemes. Few, if any, of these organizations can get along without publicity. Publicity is their life blood. Without it, they might not last very long. The Chronicle has been more than kind to these organizations. It has "covered" every event of importance that they have ever pulled off. It has "front paged" them times without number, and in doing so has let out other matter which might have been more important to its readers. It has published free all their notices of meetings. And yet, in the face of all this, if they think they can save a nickel by getting their printing done elsewhere, they don't come here. Would you, or could you, blame us if in future we demanded payment for every notice they may wish inserted in this paper? Who are the people who deserve this most consideration from a newspaper anyway—those who help to keep it going by patronizing it without doubt? question, or the "price peddlers" who take everything but give nothing in return? Why should a newspaper be compelled to call attention in its columns to these things? Why should not people play fair, without having to be coaxed, to a newspaper that has always played fair with them?

PROBLEM OF MENTAL DEFICIENTS

(Bowmanville Statesman)

It is refreshing to note that His Honour Dr. Herbert A. Bruce, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, and a former Durham County boy, is the leader in a new and much needed campaign for sterilization of the mentally unfit. The problem of the mentally deficient has reached such a stage that unless something of a drastic nature is done, the nation will become one with a very large percentage of mentally unfit people. At the present time we see the hospital for the insane full to overflowing with little sign of abatement. Ontario is fortunate in having hospitals of this nature where much is accomplished for those who suffer from diseases of the mind, but Dr. Bruce's method of prevention rather than cure is certainly more timely than the erection of further hospitals to care for those unfortunately affected.

Dr. Bruce's campaign for sterilization of the unfit has met with approval throughout the province, not only from the medical profession which he himself represents, but also from business men and even the clergy. The prevention of the growth of a generation of illiterates is a worthy work and we are glad to see that it is being led by a worthy son of a pioneer Durham County family.

OUT OF STEP

(Oshawa Times)

It would appear as if the James Lyons is out of step with his Conservative colleagues in the Ontario legislature. His public statement, in which he disavowed the leadership of Premier Henry, and called for a party convention to select a new party leader, has not aroused any noticeable outburst of enthusiasm from members of the Conservative party. Perhaps his announcement was not unexpected, for he indicated on more than one occasion in the legislature that he was not in sympathy with the government's program. In spite of Mr. Lyons' denunciation of Premier Henry, we are inclined to think that the prime minister's position is quite safe. His unanimous endorsement by the legislature members, when the question of his ownership of Ontario Power Service Corporation bonds was before the legislature, gave him a new lease of life, as it were, and brought him out of a tight corner in a strong position.

Mr. Lyons' protest has come too late. The time for it was when the legislature was in session and the Conservative members were in caucus. Hard-boiled politicians will not pay much attention to it now, but will rather place their trust in the prime minister to keep the old party flag flying.

DAIRY NOTES

The Department of Agriculture is preparing to assist cow testing work in this way:

1 — The Agricultural Representatives for the different counties will give assistance in organizing and getting the work started.

2 — They will assist in securing equipment for herd owners, which comprises a sample bottle for each cow, a sampling dipper; and a set of scales which the herd owner will have to provide for at his own expense.

3 — The department supplies the necessary forms for recording the weights and tests of milk; preservation tablets for the samples; and will pay the following rates for testing: Testing the samples, three cents a test; use of sulphuric acid and maceraine, two cents a test; washing bottles and placing tablets in them, two cents a test.

WILL HOLD FARM AND HERD COMPETITION

At a meeting of the executive of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association held recently in Belleville it was decided to again hold this year a Farm and Herd competition for cheese factory patrons throughout the Central Ontario district. The 1933 competition will be the fourth of the popular farm events, sponsored by the organization. Though the prize money this year will be somewhat lessened, the awards are well worth striving for. They will be divided in four classes with 75% proportioned in each and 75% is set aside for special awards to Hastings County cheese factory patrons. Awards last year totaled $460 while $375 has been subscribed for the competition of 1933, but several pure bred dairy bull calves have also been donated which will be given as special prizes. Announcement regarding these specials will be made later. The competition starts are heretofore on the 1st of May and continues to 31st of October with the awards on butter fat per acre produced. Entry forms are available from dairy instructors throughout the district or from cheesemakers at factories.

Interesting News For Farmers

Blind twine should not be used to tie fleeces. It can be separated from the wool only by carbonizing or burning out.

There does not seem to be any "best" time to sow perennial seeds. If the seeds are obtained in spring they can be sown in May or June, or they can be kept until the fall. Farmer demand for the newest agricultural literature has reached record proportions. This would further indicate that the Ontario farmer is constantly striving to produce even higher quality products, through the combining of his practical experience with the latest in scientific thought.

Better Year Indicated Says Poultry Authority

That Ontario farmers are confident poultry is again to be their best cash crop, is evidenced by the fact that more chicks have been hatched and sold this year than any year to date. From present indications, according to T. A. Benson, Dominion Poultry Branch, this year should be distinctly better than 1932 for those in the poultry business.

Legumes and Non-Legumes
 The difference between non-legumes (cereals, root crops, etc.) and legumes (beans, peas, clovers, vetches, alfalfa, etc.) is that all non-legumes are forced to obtain their nitrogen directly from the soil, while legumes, under certain conditions are able to make use of the nitrogen in the atmosphere. Four-fifths of the air is composed of nitrogen, and legumes, by drawing on this supply which is quite unavailable to other plants, are able to conserve in a large measure the supply of that element in the soil.

Weekly Crop Report

Seeding operations, delayed by cold, wet weather for some time, are now general throughout the province. Fall wheat, alfalfa and clovers continue in excellent condition in most sections, while orchards look promising and spraying is being more carefully undertaken this year than for some years. Strawberries appear to have wintered exceptionally well. Hatcheries report an increased business in baby chicks, and poultry flocks properly handled have been one of the best paying propositions of the past season. Young pigs have been bringing $6.00 per pair on a number of markets.

For the twelve month period ended January 31, 1933, Canadian poultry exported to the United Kingdom amounted to some 1,308,895 pounds. This represents an increase of approximately 1,680 per cent. over the previous twelve months, during which poultry exports to the United Kingdom approximated 73,194 pounds.

Old Time Prices

The report of an auction sale of farm stock and implements in Wellington County states that a huge crowd was in attendance and prices reached old-time levels. Eleven grade cows, two of them heifers freshening for the first time, were sold at an average price of $73.25, while the highest price paid for an exceptionally nice animal was $114.00. The farm of 137 acres had been previously sold for $4,500.

Purchase Certified Seed Now — Demand Greater Than Supply

Based on a recent survey made by the Department, there are approximately 3,500 bags of certified seed potatoes available in Ontario at present.

Growers who delay in obtaining their supplies immediately are almost certain of disappointment, since the amount of certified seed potatoes, available in the Province, is not likely to take care of the demand.

New Bull-Bonus Plan

Millions of dollars will reach the pockets of Ontario farmers, dairymen and livestock breeders under a Federal-Provincial bull-bonus plan, recently announced by Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, who term it the greatest thing that has ever happened to the cattle industry.

The scheme is an attempt in a big way to increase milk and cheese production and to improve the breed of livestock for beef purposes. Approved bulls of purebred strain will be introduced into tested herds and bonuses ranging from $10 to $50, depending upon the age of the animal, will be paid to the purchaser by the two governments. Strict regulations as to inspections of herds and choice of bulls will be required.

In addition to the bull bonus plan which will be under direction of the Department's Livestock Branch, the District Representatives will undertake to educate the industry on proper feeding of stock while a campaign of cow testing will be carried on by the Dairy Branch. Louis O'Neil, Assistant Director Livestock Branch, will be directly in charge of the bonus scheme and applications are to be made to him.

Nursing Sow Rations
 The following mixtures for nursing sows have proven suitable for conditions such as prevail in Eastern and Western Canada: Eastern Canada, bran, 100 pounds; shorts, 200 pounds; ground oats, 200 pounds; ground barley, 100 pounds; linseed oil meal, 20 pounds; tankage, 20 pounds; mineral mixture, 12 pounds. Skim milk, hand fed. If sufficient skim milk, omit linseed oil and tankage. Western Canada, bran, 50 pounds; shorts, 50 pounds; ground oats, 300 pounds; ground barley 100 pounds; ground wheat, 100 pounds; tankage or skim-milk 30 pounds. Mineral mixture, self-fed. Another Western mixture is: bran 50 pounds; ground oats 300 pounds; ground wheat 200 pounds; tankage or skim-milk 30 pounds. Mineral mixture self-fed.

Salt and Sulphate Sheep Lick
 A salt and copper sulphate lick can be made to serve the purpose of an aid in keeping down stomach and intestinal parasites in sheep. This is made as follows: Salt, 100 pounds; copper sulphate finely pulverized, 5 pounds. The finely pulverized copper sulphate is mixed with dry salt. If more than five pounds per hundred is used sheep will not take to the mixture freely. A salt lick containing neither tobacco or copper sulphate, or both these drugs, should be within easy reach of the sheep and lamb every day of the year. All salt boxes in which prepared and medicated salt is used should be provided with a roof board, or cover to keep out rain and snow.

Between the acts Mr. Glen Sayers, of Marmora, provided instrumental and vocal music which was much enjoyed. The players were introduced by Rural Dean A. B. MOUNT PLEASANT

Mrs. Wm. Emmons Sr.

The funeral of the late Minerva Jane Thompson, relict of the late W. Emmons, Sr., of Mount Pleasant, was held in the United Church here on Friday afternoon and a large number of sympathetic friends and relatives gathered to pay their last tribute to the deceased. Her pastor, Rev. F. G. Joblin, officiated and spoke comforting words from the text "Lord to whom shall we go, Thou hast the words of eternal life." Truly we as a people turn to God for worship when trouble comes to our door, when we have a guilty conscience, and also in the hour of death. Just two days previous to the universal celebration of Mother's Day the large number of friends gathered to pay a loving tribute of respect and devotion to an honoured mother who truly loved and honoured her Lord at all times. Her life will remain as a sacred fragrance among those at Mount Pleasant who remember her loving devotion to her home and her church and the writer will always remember her wonderful testimonies in the various fellowship meetings. The pastor also paid tribute to her constant thoughtfulness of others and her patience during her lengthy illness. Throughout the service the congregation sang "Forever with the Lord," "What a Friend we have in Jesus" and the deceased's favourite hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee." The choir under the direction of Miss Olive McConnell rendered an appropriate anthem "Looking this way" and Mrs. Kenneth Weaver sang a beautiful solo, "Jesus will carry me over." Beautiful floral tributes were in evidence consisting of white carnations and waxen white lilies. Sheaf, Mr. Wm. Emmons and family; wreath, the daughters, Zina, Otta and Blanche. The pallbearers were Messrs John Johnston, James Linn, Wm. H. Scott, Manson McConnell, James Sharp and A. H. Bailey. Deceased leaves to mourn one son, William, at home, and three daughters, Otta, Mrs. Perry Teal, and Zina, Mrs. George Teal, of Woodville, and Blanche, Mrs. Charles Butterworth, of Cannington. She also leaves twenty-four grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren. She was the oldest daughter of the late William Thompson and Marie Aigue of Seymour and was born on Christmas Day, 1847. Her death completes the passing of the family circle to that glorious land above. Her husband predeceased her several years ago. After the service the funeral cortege wended its way to Stirling cemetery where interment was made in the family plot. Relatives from a distance who attended were Mr. and Mrs. George Teal, and Ross and Mrs. Perry Teal of Woodville, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Butterworth, Cannington; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Emmons and Gerald of Campbellford, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Switzer, Brighton; Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Emmons and Mr. Will Emmons, Odessa; Mrs. Chris Burkitt, Springbrook; Mr. and Mrs. Archie Haslett, Mr. and Mrs. W. Heath, Mr. and Mrs. B. Heath, Councillor and Mrs. Mark Shortt, Bonarlaw; Mr. Ellis Green, of Frankford; Mrs. H. V. Hoover, Misses Lulu and Leatha Hoover, Wellmans, Mr. and Mrs. C. U. Heath, Bethel, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Johnson, Campbellford.

You have lost her whom you loved Stilled the voice so sweet to hear Now the hands by death are gloved Warned by love for many a year. Rest is hers who never asked, Rest, however she was tasked— Peacefully she sleeps today, She who would not sleep before Those she loved had come to say. They were safely home once more Now she's closed her eyes and takes Rest, no trouble ever breaks. Mourning for her of course you must— Of your eyes will fill with tears, But she taught you how to trust— God throughout the passing years. She who taught you how to pray Had in mind this very day.

W. M. S.

Mount Pleasant Women's Missionary Society met on Thursday, May 11, at the home of Mrs. Percy MacMullen with an attendance of nineteen. Mrs. Ross Hoard opened with prayer and all repeated the 23rd Psalm in unison. After singing "Speed Away"

"--there was BREAD"

Joseph was the first national food administrator. Realizing the nourishment and economy of Bread, he advised the Egyptians to store their grain in times of plenty so that when the "lean years" of famine came, Bread might be their resource and salvation.

As a result, we read that all Egypt was happy and well-fed while other nations starved. What Joseph did for Egypt, Bread will do for the world today.

Bread with its splendid nourishment, supplies energy and builds a reserve of physical health during the lavish years of youth, against the "lean years" when age draws heavily on strength and vitality.

The food-value of Bread is greater than that of any of the foods on the market today, at much higher prices.

Mrs. Arthur Phillips read the Scripture lesson found in the 21st chapter of Luke. Mrs. Roy Thrasher read a splendid paper on "The Ideal Home" defining home as a world of hate shut out and a world of love shut in. The fundamentals of a true home were set forth and over all this love should hover. At the close of her paper the audience sang "Home Sweet Home". The minutes were read and 9 members answered roll call with Missionary information. The Treasurer reported $36.79 for the month of April. Mrs. Edgar McKeown sang a beautiful solo "The Man of Galilee". A season of prayer followed led by Mrs. John Holmes, who graciously asked God's guidance and care over Miss Gladys Joblin, who is recuperating from an operation in Belleville Hospital, and for the bereaved family of the late Mrs. Wm. Emmons Sr. Mrs. Elwood Johnson, with the use of the Blackboard, outlined the sixth chapter of the study book in a very acceptable manner. This chapter deals with the work of the Woman's Missionary Society in the Congregational Church, whose motto was "Whatsoever He Saith unto you do it" and they organized schools, homes and frontier hospitals. The Methodist Church who started rescue homes, work among the Indians and the All People's Mission, their motto being "Not by Might nor by Power, but by My Spirit," said the Lord of Hosts. The first auxiliary was organized in 1880 at Hamilton and their first money was sent to the Indian Girls' Home at Port Simpson, B.C. Branches were organized and they rapidly increased and the safe financial rule was adopted, that is that the necessary money be first in the Treasury before appropriations were made and this plan still prevails in union. The Presbyterian W.M.S. Eastern and Western contributed the first trained nurse, Miss McIntyre, to visit the Protestant sick poor in Montreal. They sent boxes of clothing to the North-West. Established hospitals at Atlin in the mining district at Klondyke, also a hospital at Teulon, Manitoba. They also added Y.W.A.'s, C. G.I.T. Groups and Social Service and their motto was "The World for Christ". In 1925 began the task of uniting these various societies and in October the impressive inaugural meeting was held in Bloor Street United Church, Toronto. The Presidents of all these were in attendance and the union was consecrated with the communion service. In 1926 the various Presbyteries and Branches were organized, the five magazines were united into the "Missionary Monthly" and it began with a circulation of 60,000. The Junior paper, called "Palm Branch", now known as "World Friends" began with 10,000 subscribers. The Home Missions is now carried on through: (1) Community Missions, (2) Oriental Work, (3) Medical Work, (4) Boarding Schools and School Homes, (5) Indian Work, (6) Dept. of Strangers, (7) Supply work, and today we have eleven hospitals, 18 school homes and boarding schools and in 1930 various cars and bundles of clothing and food was sent to the needy in the West. The growth of the W.M.S. since union has been steady and gratifying, as in 1930 we had 5,929 organizations, 156,399 members and contributed $882,143.37. At the August meeting it is hoped to review the whole book and to complete the last chapter "A half-century of Missions".

At the June meeting, which will be held at the church, Mrs. Holmes and Mrs. MacMullen will give their report of Branch Conference and in July the W.M.S. are planning to entertain the Mission Band and the latter will provide the program. Miss Marguerite White sang very sweetly in her rich clear voice "I'll Go With Him". Miss Edna Thrasher read two extracts on Temperance entitled "When I went into business" and Christian Stewardship, "Gold for business, silver for pleasure and copper for the Lord". The offering amounted to four dollars and fifty cents. Closing hymn "The Whole World was lost" and the Mizpah Benediction.

Mother's Day Service

On Sunday evening Mount Pleasant United Church was filled to the doors with interested worshippers, several being visitors, as it was the annual Mother's Day Service. The program was centred around the theme "The Value of Home in the Nation's Life". The altar was beautifully adorned with foliage and flowering plants, which made a pretty setting for the service. The Superintendent, Mr. J. Sharp, very capably presided and the pianist, Miss Edna Thrasher, was in charge of the music.

Service opened with a prelude and call to worship, the invocation by the leader and the worshippers sang "For the Beauty of the Earth." A quintette composed of Faye Andrews, Winnie Phillips, Marie Sharp, Anna Sharp, Marion Phillips, sang "Loving Him who first loved me" Mr. Clifford Holmes read the lesson found in Psalm 33: 1-12. After silent prayer and singing "O Happy Home", Mr. Herbert Smith read a selection "The Ways of Life". Mr. David Bell gave a story "The Building of a Home". Miss Elva Andrews read a selection "The Spirit of the Home". Messrs Lorne White and Norman McConnell gathered the offering which goes to the Ontario Religious Council to provide better Sunday Schools and it amounted to almost six dollars. Mr. John Coggin sang "Mother's Prayers are Answered". The pastor, Rev. F. G. Joblin, gave a splendid address, and said "The National life never rises above, nor sinks below its home life, therefore it behooves the mother, father and each individual child to put forth an effort to make the home an ideal one. He also gave the parable of the Prodigal Father", which is a modern version and shed many truths on the subject. The pastor closed with the challenge "Does Jesus Christ live in our home?" If He does all these problems will be solved. This special meeting closed with "Lord of the Lands" and the Benediction.

Y. P. S.

Mr. Willie Jeffs opened Y.P.S. on Friday evening with "Home Sweet Home" and Mrs. John Reid offered prayer. Mrs. Roy Thrasher gave the Devotional topic based on "The Ideal Home". Mr. David Bell convener of the Missionary Department, then took charge and all sang "From Greenland's Icy Mountains" and the Lord's Prayer in unison. Mr. Harry Campbell read the lesson found in Romans 13: 1-10. Miss Lenora Williams outlined the topic on the subject "A Christian Citizen in a Community". She pointed out that Christ did not live unto Himself but rather he shared with others by attending social functions. Individual goodness counts for very little as we are here on earth to help others. Paul says to obey the Ten Commandments and to love one another. Miss Marguerite White and Mrs. Allan Reid accompanied by Mrs. John Reid, sang "Oh to be kept for Jesus". Misses Elva Andrews and Eileen MacMullen gathered the missionary offering. Miss Edna Thrasher rendered a piano solo "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" with variations. Closing hymn "Oh to be more like Jesus" and a contest, "Bible Characters of the Alphabet". Mr. Clifford Holmes will be in charge of the Y.P.S. next Friday evening.

Mission Band

The Sunbeam Mission Band of Mount Pleasant United Church met at the church on Saturday afternoon with eighteen in attendance. Miss Marguerite White presided with "Jesus Tender Shepherd" as the opening hymn. Miss Elva Andrews read the minutes and the members answered roll call with a verse of Scripture beginning with the letter "M". Miss Eileen MacMullen reported $7.69 for Easter Thankoffering, a total of $8.25 for the month of April. Misses Agnes Sharp and Eileen Phillips were appointed Program Committee for June.

Miss Winnie Phillips read the bible lesson and several sentence prayers were offered, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. Miss Edna Thrasher gave the worship story "The Valley of Friendliness". Miss Gladys Summers sang very sweetly "Jesus Loves Me". Miss Eileen MacMullen read a poem entitled "A Problem". All sang "Whosoever Heareth" and the Watchtower; India, Miss Agnes Sharp; Canada, Miss Elva Andrews; Stewardship, Miss Eileen Phillips; Korea, Miss Helen Hay. Miss Jessie Whitelaw writes from Korea that a number of new churches have been built and paid for there. Most of these churches are equipped with bells as the Koreans do not have clocks. The leader took charge of the study period which dealt with "La Salle and Madeline DeVercheres and James Evans, the maker of the alphabet. She also reviewed the seven C's, "Cabot, Cartier, Champlain, Country, Canada, Church and Christ. Miss Evelyn Melville gathered the collection amounting to forty-two cents. Closing Hymn "Jesus Feels so Sorry when we're doing Wrong."

AWAKENED WOMAN

SYNOPSIS

Synopsis: Joyce Ashton, poor stenographer, suffered loss of memory in a skidding taxicab accident in Chicago. One morning two years later she woke, after a fall from her horse, her memory restored, to find herself the wife of Neil Packard, rich California fruit packer. She determined to tell nobody of her predicament, but set about learning what she could of her life in the interval. From the conversation of her friends and letters in her desk she gathered that she had been a heartless, pleasure-loving young woman. One letter that troubled her was from a woman signing herself "Sophie," blaming Frills for giving a home to a baby. Frills was caring for. Could it be her baby, Frills wondered? She also found herself involved in an affair with a man named Maitland. In San Francisco, where she went while her husband was away on business, she met Robert Almsworth, a poet whose work she had always admired. When Joyce returned home, she decided to be pleasant to Neil than Frills had been. But this line was dangerous, too, for Neil was pathetically anxious to win back Frills' love. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"Can you stand it to have only me for dinner this once?" asked Joyce.

"Whoopee! Just ask me, can I?" he replied. "You know that, Frills, old kid. I'll go up and wash and be right down again."

When Packard came down the stairs Joyce divined his intention to kiss her again, and she moved toward the dining room immediately, saying, "Dickie eats with us. At least he sits at the table and snaps up what favours he can persuade me to give him, don't you darling? He has his regular dinner in the kitchen."

"Where do you want his chair?" inquired Packard politely. "Here you are, boy, get up and let's see how good your table manners are."

They sat down opposite each other at the small round table with Dickie between them. Joyce was struck by the lingering bewilderment on Packard's face. There seemed to be something he couldn't quite understand, but he asked for no explanations.

"Gee! It's good to be home again," he began. "I sure do hate Chicago." She asked politely, "Was the conference a success?"

Packard stared.

Joyce flushed. "Oh, is it something I'm not supposed to ask about?" rushing into the first remark which occurred to her in an effort to cover her embarrassment.

"Good Lord, no!" he exclaimed hastily, "Only... only..." he hesitated, "I'm sorry Frills, I can't keep up with you. You've jumped me so hard about talking shop and said so often you didn't give a damn about what happened so long as you didn't have to hear about it that —

"Well, I don't want to know everything that happened, I just wondered if you had a successful trip in general," said Joyce. She began to wonder if Frills ever had a decent word for anyone.

"Oh, sure, we fixed up what I went for and got the new branch office planned out and ready for business," he said.

"Sam said there was fire at the plant here," remarked Joyce casually, "but almost no damage done. Had you heard about it?"

"Yes, I called up from the city before I came down. But, tell me what you've been doing with yourself, Frills. How's everyone in the gang? Doc been in much?"

"Don't know. I just got home today myself," replied Joyce. "I have not seen anybody I know for nearly two weeks. The first two days after you went they wouldn't let me alone, and I wanted to be quiet, so I walked off and went up to the city alone."

There was an uncomfortable silence. Packard ate for a few moments with his eyes fastened on his food. Joyce understood without doubt she replied, "I'm going for a ride and if you want to come, all right." Secretly she quailed at the idea of going out alone for the first time. Would it be light enough for safety? Could she handle Rosita?

But Packard accepted without further questioning. "I'll tell Sam to saddle up while we get into our things," he said. "Run on in, darling. Let's light out before any of the gang shows up."

"Take Dickie with you and leave him with Sam," said Joyce, and, trembling with excitement, she raced into the house and upstairs to her big closet, where she proceeded to kick off her slippers and pull her dress over her head as rapidly as possible. She was just drawing her boots on when she heard Packard cross the bedroom and go through to his dressing room.

Scarcely five minutes later they were hurrying downstairs and to the stable.

She noticed as they rode off slowly that Neil kept eyeing her in an apprehensive fashion. She decided he must be worrying about the accident she had had and probably wondering that he didn't believe she had spent all that time in San Francisco alone. Why should he? Suddenly she knew that she wanted him to believe it. It was perfectly obvious to her that he loved Frills and that he was a little afraid of her.

"Are you afraid it'll cause a scandal if anyone discovers you've been out with your own wife?"

Joyce wondered with a sudden thump of her heart how he would like a baby around the house. If she could only ask him about that baby in New York.

"I promised Dickie to throw a stick for him," she said, as they left the table, "if you care to join us, come along," and she ran across the terrace and down the wide stone steps to the stretch of lawn at the top of the garden, without waiting for a reply. Packard lit a cigarette and followed her more slowly. By the time he joined them she was racing around with Dickie, having a lively game and secretly amused to wonder what he thought of the unusual sight of Frills enjoying a childish simple pleasure of this kind.

She turned to him and asked very abruptly: "Are you very tired after your trip?"

"Good Lord, no!" he answered, evidently startled, "why?"

"It's going to be glorious moonlight in a few minutes. Let's go for a horseback ride." His look of blank amazement at this suggestion caused her heart to sink for a moment. Suppose he refused! A gust of angry impatience struck her. If they didn't hurry, somebody would come and spoil her plan!

"What's the matter? Afraid it'll cause a scandal if anyone discovers you've been out with your own wife?" she demanded.

"Hell!" grinned Packard, "I should worry about that. But you can't blame me for... for wondering if I'd heard you right. 'You — we haven't spent many evenings together lately.'"

There was something in his voice which hurt Joyce a little. She had not found him exactly interesting so far, but she already liked him enough to be sorry for the way Frills had been treating him. "Well, it's up to you," what mad idea the moonlight would inspire in her tonight. Well, if he were looking for trouble of that kind he would be disappointed.

"Want a cigarette, dear?" he asked once, holding out his case toward her as they rode close together on a short level stretch along the hills. Joyce accepted it but did not dare to try lighting it while they were moving.

"You light it, please," she handed back to him.

"That gives me permission to kiss you," he remarked, smiling as he handed her back the lit cigarette.

"But who wants to kiss his own wife?" retorted Joyce, urging Rosita into a quick trot.

"Here's one man who does," he replied, easily catching up with her. Riding close to her horse he put his arm around her and tried to draw her toward him. Joyce was alarmed, this time not so much at the prospect of being kissed as at the danger of such reckless actions on horseback.

"Oh, please don't!" she exclaimed hastily, "you make me—" she had been about to say, "you make me nervous," when she was struck by the absurdity of Frills Packard saying anything like that.

Packard looked surprised, but he obediently fell away a little. Joyce was undecided whether to be contemptuous of him for his lack of spirit or to conclude that his experience with Frills, when he crossed her, had probably been so unpleasant that he had learned his lesson thoroughly.

Try as she would, Joyce could not keep Robert Almsworth from her thoughts. The beauty of the night brought vividly to mind his delightful personality. It would be so perfect with the right man!

Joyce wondered most of the way back if her silence puzzled Neil very much. She would have chatted willingly enough, but nothing except dangerous remarks seemed to occur to her. Neil was little help for he too rode in silence. What was he thinking? Looking at him she thought with amusement "Prunes!"

"Don't you feel well, Frills? You... you're sort of quiet tonight," said Packard in what Joyce described to herself as a "cautious voice."

"I feel absolutely wonderful!" she retorted with spirit, "can't I enjoy myself just once without shrieking over it?"

"Oh, sure, only it's not exactly like you."

Joyce, torn between impatience and amusement, answered, "Well, whatever I do is me isn't it?"

Packard made no reply to this, but a little later on he said earnestly, "Look here, sweetheart, I stopped to see mother on the way down. She'd like awfully to... to friends with you. Won't you, please? I'd give anything in the world if you'd go to see her and just be nice to her a few minutes. You needn't go often or spend much time there, but if you... she's so anxious to have things friendly. It's tough on her, my being her only son and my wife never going to see her. She's getting old, you know."

Before Neil stopped Joyce felt a lump coming into her throat. His voice was so pleading and so anxious. She remembered the sweet-faced old woman whose picture she had found in his desk drawer, and how she wondered if his mother were still living.

"Well, all right, I'll make a date with you to take me to see her tomorrow. I won't go alone," and was a little pleased with herself for her diplomacy.

Her prompt acceptance surprised him, she saw, but he seized upon it gratefully. "Thanks a lot. We could take a run out before dinner. Could you be ready at about five? Or would that interfere with anything you're doing? We don't have to go tomorrow, you know."

"No, we'll go at five. If you forget or let any business interfere you'll have hard work making any more dates with me — for anything," retorted Joyce.

"I'll be there, I'll tell the world. Gee, Frills, that's sweet of you. You know how much mother means to me."

Joyce rode on in silence thinking fast and furiously. If she could do things like this for Packard surely she needn't feel that all the giving was on his side, even though she refused him herself. She could give him more of her company than Frills had; she could eliminate all cause for jealousy with Maitland; she could make his house more of a real home. Or was it too late to do that? And could she follow out such a plan without misleading him as to her feelings?

Well, she had made enough concessions for such a short time. The future must somehow take care of itself.

As, on foot once more, they approached the house from the terrace side, Joyce heard voices, and when they entered the living room they were immediately surrounded by a welcoming group who had evidently been waiting for their return.

"Well, what do you know? Frills' been riding in the moonlight with her husband! Hot stuff! Somebody telephone the scandal to the papers."

The company consisted of Doc Ellison, Ross and Clarice Emery, Charlie Bates, and Art Belmain. Joyce wondered where the other women were.

"Don't suppose you got any golf while you were East, did you, Neil?" asked Art Belmain.

"Not a round," replied Packard.

The men proceeded to talk golf and business.

As the party broke up, Dr. Ellison said in an aside to Joyce, "Say Frills, you're looking much better than you did two weeks ago. Has your head bothered you any lately?"

HASTINGS MAN DROWNS

Hastings — Plunging from the end of the long pier at Hastings Locks while fishing on Saturday night, John L. Freeman, a resident of this village lost his life in Trent River waters. Leaving his home on Water Street, shortly after supper, he proceeded to the canal banks, where he was last seen about 10 o'clock, by Cyril Blackburn, who was standing on the lower locks. Upon hearing a splash and the victim's shouts for aid, Mr. Blackburn rushed to the street and summoned help. The first clue was the finding of the unfortunate man's hat, which was found at the end of the pier. Lockmaster Hoard brought out the grappling irons and pike poles, and dragging operations were at once started near the shore. Mrs. Hoard brought her car to the water's edge and from the lights on the car a plug was sighted floating on the surface. Neil Scriver pulled on the plug and found that the line was fastened. Otter Scriver in another boat found the body at the end of the line and it was brought to the surface half way between the docks and the end of the pier about eighteen feet out, at eleven o'clock. The line was wrapped around Mr. Freeman's hand. Whether he got tangled up in the line before he fell in or after he touched the water will remain a mystery.

Not being a strong swimmer he was no doubt unable to do anything to save himself owing to being fully clothed and also wearing a pair of hip rubber boots. Coroner Dr. Loucks, of Campbellford was summoned, but on his arrival decided an inquest was unnecessary. The late Mr. Freeman was born in the township of Haldimand, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Freeman; he was forty years of age. The deceased followed this farming occupation for a number of years previous to the Great War. He enlisted in Warkworth with the 130th Battalion and saw over three and a half years' service in the trenches.

Since coming to Hastings he has been a valued employee of the Hastings Tanning Co.

In the Churches

A. Y. P. A.

St. John's A.Y.P.A. met in the vestry on Monday evening. Meeting opened with hymn 20, after which Mr. Byers led in prayer. The minutes were then read and adopted, followed by roll call. An invitation to spend an evening at the home of Mrs. Harry Clarke was extended to the members and it was moved by Reg. Coombes and seconded by Arthur Bateman that the invitation be accepted. The night was set for May twenty-ninth. Mr. Byers then addressed the members for the remainder of the evening on the Thirty-Nine Articles. He dealt with them accordingly and stated their meaning in our Church and faith. It was a heavy subject and he clearly explained it in detail. The prize was donated by Margaret Bateman and won by Mrs. Cranston. The meeting closed with the National Anthem. Next week lantern slides will be shown.

CATHOLIC W. L.

The May meeting of the Stirling Sub-Division of the Catholic Women's League was held at the home of the President, Mrs. J. Clinton McGee, on Thursday afternoon, May 11, and showed a greatly increased attendance. The meeting opened with prayer and the roll call, which were followed by the reading of the Secretary's report. In the absence of the Recording Secretary, Miss Mary Farrell, the duties were temporarily assumed by Miss Patricia Shea, who was elected Corresponding Secretary. A business discussion then ensued and after all important matters had been dealt with, a vote of thanks was tendered to the past-president, Mrs. John Donohue, who during her two-year tenure of that office, has given so unparagonably of her time and efforts. A reading "One Little Thought for a Happy Life" was given by Mrs. James Lagrow and was followed by a vocal solo by Miss Patricia Shea. The meeting was brought to a close with a delightful hour of bridge after which the gracious hostess served afternoon tea to her guests.

ST. ANDREW'S GUILD

Citizenship night at St. Andrew's Guild was thoroughly enjoyed. Mrs. Lewis Rodgers presided over the meeting and Gena Spry read the Scripture Lesson. Mrs. Rollins led the meeting in prayer. Marguerite Rosebush gave the reading "What shall we do?" Charles Allen gave a piano solo, which was very much appreciated. Frank Rodgers gave a reading "My Colours". Rev. J. Koffend and Arthur Duncan sang a duet, "Some Day the Silver Cord will Break". Mrs. C. Paulby gave a splendid talk on "Citizenship in God's Kingdom." By citizenship we mean the relationship of the individual to the country in which we live to which we owe allegiance and loyalty and in return for which we receive protection. If one travels from Canada into United States and there wishes to become a citizen he must first make himself familiar with a great deal of history in order to be able to qualify for citizenship. And so, if we wish to be a citizen of God's Kingdom we must make some preparation and then try by close communion with God to build our character from day to day which will show to the world that we are citizens of that Kingdom. Let us be assured that not one of us will ever see that Home unless we are made ready for it through Jesus. Life is a school; the term-time is shortening every hour. The riches will be the crown if we endure to the end and graduate into glory. What a promotion that will be for hearts that so often ached and for eyes that so often wept and for the faith that so often bled under the blow -- to be lifted into the magnificent inheritance of the saints in light. The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction, after which Gena Spry put on a contest in which all took part.

ST. PAUL'S Y. P. S.

St. Paul's Y.P.S. met on Monday evening under the direction of the citizenship department. Rev. E. W. Rowland was in charge of the devotional period. Miss Mildred White read the Scripture lesson, third chapter of Acts. Miss Marion Jones presided over the remaining program. Miss Helen Jones delighted the audience with a splendid reading entitled "Charity", by Peter Cousland. The topic of the evening was taken by Mrs. Robert Patterson, speaking on the subject "Playing the Game." The speaker started by asking the question: "Does not this subject suggest a quality that is universally admired? We all admire and like people who play fairly. The playground has a tendency to develop a code of ethics, and this is worthy of being carried over into other activities of life. We see sport holding aloft strength and agility, and control of the body. We see it producing keenness of observation and quickness of perception. We see co-operation in real practise and in the team play. We see men obeying and following as well as commanding and leading. Then we see men regardless of fatigue, obstacles, or even pain, continuing with all their might to work toward a desired end. If the end is victory, you find them generous winners or if it is defeat, you find them cheerful losers. When you think of all these features exemplified in the game, what could be more valuable than a training school for the Game of Life? Playing the game should teach a man how to choose his goal and how to organize all the other desires of his life and direct them toward this master purpose. That is real education for life. Play also helps us to become better friends. Playing the game together helps us to develop the finer loyalties to get out of ourselves and to see life from the eyes of another and so become more tolerant, more considerate and more generous. What a difference it would make in world affairs and relations if the sporting spirit of appreciation of others and minimizing of our own triumphs, could displace boasting and contempt? Comparing life to a playground there is a place in it for individual effort and place for team play. Whether in the game or in the game of life each player has his place. A true player is a clean person and adopts a program that holds steadily to the highest ideals. The best proof that this can be done in the game of life is that Jesus did it. Life is a spiritual adventure. We must maintain our faith for God, and our enthusiasm for light, even in the face of apparent defeats. This splendid address, given by Mrs. Patterson will always remain an outstanding one to the Young People's Society. Mrs. F. H. H. sang in good voice, the solo entitled "Mother O'Mine" Mr. Ted Reynolds put on the contest, Blue side gaining the honours. Colour count showed an attendance of 74. The usual Mizpah Benediction closed this splendid meeting.

It was announced to the Scouts that Wm. Simmons, former Patrol leader is to be acting Scoutmaster. Owing to his unavoidable absence from the meeting A.S.M. Kerr was taking over his duties that evening. It is left to S. M. Simmons to arrange details of patrols, etc., so there could be no real Scout work at this meeting. Several games were played and it is to be hoped that Scouting can begin in real earnest next week.

SEEN THROUGH THE OFFICE WINDOW

Even though standing in water up to their knees, these hard-boiled politicians stick to a sinking party ship. Well who wouldn't put up with wet feet for the regular oversize stipend those birds receive?

Anyway, like our good old friend Daniel, Premier Henry has survived the roaring "Lyons".

The only difference housecleaning time makes in a lot of homes is that the man of the house eats his canned beans standing up.

Germany wants to own tanks and other equipment for battle, contrary to the treaty of Versailles — better be careful! That country got itself and everybody else into a bad mess a few years ago. Children should be warned against the use of firearms.

"When It's Springtime in the Rockies" is one song hubby could sing while digging in wife's new-fangled rock garden.

And one way to prevent so much havoc in the flower bed is to simply leave the seeds on top of the earth so that the neighbours' hens won't have to dig so deep to find them.

We have heard of several High School teachers who go into a frenzy when salary reductions are mentioned, on the ground that it cost them four or five thousand dollars for their university education. Pooh! The lowly farmer cannot set himself up in business on a cheap farm for less than double that amount — and the ratepayers of the district do not supply his office either.

Many a married man still secretly entertains the fond hope that sometime his better half will be able to produce a pie "like mother used to make".

Modernism — Inflicting our doctrines on the natives of foreign, heathen lands, and then jailing the same foreigners for trying to preach their ideas to us.

If a lot of these would-be parliamentarians who accuse the present representatives of being robbers and thieves are ever elected, we will still be in favour of keeping the public funds locked up at night.

Gordon Sinclair, a well-known globe-trotter, says a wife costs a lot of money in Borneo. That's no news to a lot of gents who never got very far from the old hometown!

There are no "Bargains" in these clothing shops; nobody gets something for nothing. Few women realize when looking at the price tag of a new summer frock, originally marked $35.00, but "marked down" to $25.00 and later "slashed" for quick sale to $19.99 with a further cash discount "cut" bringing it down to $14.54, that if they paid $11.69 for it they would be paying $23.37 more than it's really worth and $32.56 more than it cost the manufacturer who claims that he is selling the garment at "cost".

Oh, well, in Germany only the Jew is being downtrodden by the Government. Here, we all feel that way.

And while some farmers are hoping it won't rain so that they can get on the land to sow their "tamo" oats, the young hopeful with the balloon trousers hopes it will stay wet so that he can get into town to sow his "wild ones."

Students Hear Temperance Talk

Stirling High School hears Edmund Stewart, Secretary of Temperance Education Association.

On Thursday afternoon at the Community Hall, at three o'clock, the students of the Stirling High School had the privilege of hearing an illustrated scientific temperance lecture, entitled "Effects of Alcohol on the Brain and Nervous System", given by Edmund Stewart, Director of Temperance Education for Ontario. Mr. Stewart illustrated his talk to the students by using thirty beautifully colored lantern slides. The opportunity of a Royal Commission in 1929 by His Majesty, King George, to investigate the whole problem of alcohol, impressed the students with the importance of the question under discussion. The report of these commissioners together with the findings of the British Medical Research Council constituted the basis of Mr. Stewart's remarks. A comparison between water and alcohol was presented and although these two liquids are alike in appearance they are very different in effect. Science says that alcohol is the second most valuable substance known to man. While it has many scientific and industrial uses it is entirely unnecessary to the healthy body. Even in the treatment of diseases many of our most prominent medical men have exchanged it for other more beneficial drugs. We have so many natural and healthy drinks like water, milk, orange and grape juice that there is no necessity to resort to such artificial and poisonous drinks as beer, wine, cocktails and whiskey.

The speaker explained the functions of the brain and illustrated the manner by which the brain through its system of nerves, controls every part of the body. The brain is the instrument of the mind and with it we see, hear, taste, smell, feel, walk, etc. Mr. Stewart graphically explained to the students how alcohol puts this instrument out of tune for a time and occasionally destroys it altogether. It does this by depressing or dulling the messengers of the brain the nerves, so that they cannot respond quickly and accurately to commands from headquarters. Even very moderate quantities of any alcoholic drink will reduce mental efficiency ten to thirty per cent. Scientific experiments in marksmanship, type-writing and motor driving have repeatedly proven the accuracy of this statement.

The brain is defined as the greatest thing in nature and the mind of man the greatest thing in the world. Judgment, reason, self-control and self-criticism are the most important functions of the brain. They are the last to develop but the first to go under the narcotic action of alcohol. It takes twenty-five years for the brain to complete its growth. Sometimes it takes less than that many seconds to destroy both body and brain. Since alcohol does serious harm to every brain function the students were advised to take the common-sense view and leave alcohol alone altogether. By doing so they would become more

25 YEARS' ABSENCE

Mr. Henry Hagerman, of Edmonton, is on a four-months' visit with his nephew, Mr. R. A. Patterson, and his brother, Mr. Wm. Hagerman, of Rawdon, and other relatives in the district. It is twenty-seven years since Mr. Hagerman left this district for the Northwest. He has been employed by the City of Edmonton for the past twenty-five years and has the proud distinction of never losing a day in the entire quarter of a century of service. This is a record that has seldom been equalled, and he still maintains that "Hagerman map". Mr. Hagerman has been superannuated and when he left the service was presented with a purse containing a large sum of money. This is his first visit to Stirling and district in twenty-five years.

Insurance for a happy marriage is now proposed. No doubt sooner or later one of the contracting parties will want to cash in on the policy.

FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Carlisle gathered at their home on Wednesday evening, May 24th, to celebrate the 40th anniversary of their marriage. Just before sitting down to a bountiful dinner, their eldest son, Albert, presented them, on behalf of the children, with an occasional rocking chair and a bouquet. The table was centred with a beautifully decorated cake bearing 40 candles. The parents, though completely taken by surprise thanked the children for the gifts. After dinner a quiet social evening was spent and the family departed, wishing their parents many more years of happy wedded life.

HUNTINGDON MAN SERIOUSLY INJURED

A near fatal accident occurred on the farm of Mr. James McGowan, West Huntingdon, on Tuesday morning, when his son, George, was thrown from a tractor and painfully injured. The mishap occurred when George was driving the machine through a pasture section to a field on the south side of West Huntingdon E.N. R. station. When travelling down a hill the front wheel came off and the machine turned over, throwing the driver with great force about twenty feet from the tractor, and he was badly bruised, although it is thought no bones were broken. Mr. Nathan Clark, who was walking on the railway track, was the first to arrive at the scene of the accident. He later rushed to Mr. Clayton Wright's residence, nearby, and Dr. Demorest, of Stirling, was summoned. The injured man was later taken to Belleville Hospital and will be compelled to remain there owing to the seriousness of his injuries.

A SPECIAL FREE OFFER TO ALL SUBSCRIBERS*IN APPRECIATION OF THEIR LOYALTY

On page three of this issue appears a special announcement which should be most acceptable to all our subscribers, both old and new.

In order to show our appreciation for the loyal support we have been given by our Subscribers through these times of depression, we are adding Three Months Free — to all subscriptions paid in advance by June 17th, 1933. This means the same as if the subscription price were $1.50 per year. However, we wish to emphasize that this offer is good ONLY until 10 p. m. June 17th. Our reason for making the announcement early is to give every subscriber an opportunity to take advantage of it. Subscribers will please note that all arrears will only be credited 12 months, and not 15, unless paid in advance.

Even though old subscribers may have their subscription paid up to August 1st, 1933, the extra three months will be added just the same, advancing the expiring date to November 1st, 1933, without any additional payment. If a subscriber should be paid two years in advance a credit of six months will be given and all subscriptions of three years or over, in advance, will be given nine months free. By taking this method, all subscribers will be treated alike. New Subscribers, that is those who may subscribe from now until June 17th, must pay $2.00 in order to receive the Extra Three Months Free.

Remember, that after June 17th, the subscription price will be $2.00 in Canada, for 12 months, and $2.50 in the United States.

Although this Special Free Offer is made, there will be absolutely no sacrifice of quality. The News-Argus will continue to give a complete coverage of the news of the Village of Stirling, and district, retaining all of its present popular features, such as news from 20 or more correspondents in the rural sections weekly; the editorial page for which the paper is noted, and the news of councils, both town, township and county, churches, lodges, static, etc.

To those who have been subscribers to the paper for many years, and those who have more recently been added to the subscription roll, the publishers extend their sincere thanks, and trust that this Three Months' Free Subscription will meet with their approval.

HOME OWNERS WILL GET TAX RELIEF

Ontario homeowners of relief were on Tuesday brought within the field of "shelter" assistance.

An order-in-Council passed by the Henry Government arranged assistance to the extent of meeting taxes owing up to December 31, 1932, on a payment basis of one-twelfth per month of the total annual tax bill. For example, if a man is in arrears of taxes for 1932, and his tax bill is $96, he will under the scheme be paid by the Government, a sum of $8 per month for 12 months. If he is in arrears for 1931, as well, the monthly aid now provided will still be $8 per month. Those who are in arrears of taxes for the current year can expect no assistance until 1934, and then only provided the policy is extended.

All such "shelter" payments will be made direct to the home-owner by cheque, and the home-owner will then endorse the cheque over to the municipality in which he resides. Strictly speaking it is "up" to the municipality to see that the recipient does not use it for any other purpose than the taxes pay-off for which it is being provided.

The new policy comes into operation on June 1. Thousands of homeowners who have been facing possible eviction from their homes, will benefit by it. Calculated on a yearly basis, the extra relief expenditure it entails will run over $1,000,000. While no agreement has been entered into with the Dominion Government regarding the scheme, Queen's Park expects that the same basis of contribution toward the payments, a three-way split between the Federal Government, the province, and the municipalities—will prevail.

The actual wording of the order-in-Council, or relief regulation as it will be designated, is as follows: "Where a person who is on relief owns a house in which he resides, on which at least one year's taxes are owing as of December 31, 1932, an allowance may be made under the heading of shelter, not exceeding monthly one-twelfth of the total tax bill, to which the annual tax bill as the premises amounts, but no allowance may be made for water and light."

NOTICE

As I am going out of business, I wish all accounts to be settled by 1st of June. If not, same will be placed in hands of Collector.

HONOURED ON BIRTHDAY

A very pleasant day was spent on Sunday last at the home of Mrs. Cynthia Rodgers, when her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Arthur Rodgers, and daughter, Mrs. A. Gordanier, planned a surprise for her by inviting the members of her family and near friends to have dinner with her, the occasion being her 81st birthday. The guests had gathered while Mrs. Rodgers was at church and it surely was a surprise as she came in to find some thirty guests. After the usual greetings the company was invited to the table. As the dinner drew to a close, Mrs. Gordanier came forward with a large birthday cake, on which 81 candles were lighted. Mrs. Rodgers received many beautiful gifts. The youngest member was the four-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rodgers, and the eldest Mr. John Rodgers, who is 95 years of age. After dinner pictures were taken and all expressed the feeling that they had spent a pleasant day.

Double Drowning in Trent River Near Frankford

Residents of this community were greatly shocked this morning when they learned that Mr. and Mrs. Fred Spencer, of Frankford, were drowned last night in the Trent River, just below No. 5 dam, between Frankford and Glen Miller. It is reported they were returning by motor from visiting their daughter at Grafton, and it is thought Mr. Spencer, who was driving, suffered a stroke, and before Mrs. Spencer realized what had occurred, the car had left the road and tumbled down the steep embankment into the raceway. Mr. Spencer had suffered a previous stroke about two months ago. The fatality occurred near the steps leading down the embankment to the raceway, from the power house, just below Frankford. When the bodies were removed life was extinct. It is reported that a small child, standing in front of one of the houses on the opposite side of the road noticed that the car had disappeared suddenly. He reported the disappearance to his mother, who upon investigation found the car had run over the embankment, the lights still burning under the surface of the water. An inquest will be held. Mr. Spencer was a prominent business man of Frankford, and was a first cousin of Mrs. B. R. Wright. News of this double drowning has cast a gloom over the entire district.

NEW NEWS BUDGET

This news will include items of interest between West Huntingdon and Ivanhoe, and in the district of the W. H. Presbyterian Church, and although it may contain items of W. H. we have headed the news as above to distinguish it from the budget sent in by our West Huntingdon correspondent.

This again demonstrates that the News-Argus is endeavouring to give its subscribers all the news of the district and we feel sure the readers in the Centre Huntingdon section will appreciate the news of their community published each week.

SOME FISHERMAN!

For some time past, Mr. Wm. Simpson, the popular shoemaker in F. N. McKee's store, has been boasting to this paper his prowess as a fisherman. As we had never inspected any of his catch, and being "from Missouri", we always classed his tales as fish stories—but we are now convinced that he is a fisherman. Yesterday, along with Mr. Henry Tulloch, Mr. Simpson left on a fishing trip to Hastings and Healey Falls and returned with nine pickersel, weighing about two pounds each—they were "beauties." Yes, we saw them, and not only that, but Mr. Simpson presented the Editor with three of the largest finned creatures. Thanks, Bill! They were delicious.

In the opening games on Tuesday night Glen Ross defeated Bethel by the score of 6 to 5; Springbrook won from Mount Pleasant by a 20 to 8 score and Hoards defeated Bonarlaw, by a score of 21-16. "Colonel's Maid"
Well Presented

Staged by Wallbridge W. I. Talent in Local Theatre, on Tuesday night — Auspices of Stirling W. I.

The three-act comedy, "The Colonel's Maid", presented by Wallbridge talent, under the auspices of the local Women's Institute, in the Community Hall on Tuesday evening, merited a much larger audience than that which greeted the players. However, those present enjoyed the comedy and the visiting actors and actresses did full justice to their individual roles.

A family feud which brought about complications throughout the entire story, was engaged in by the older members of the cast, Col. Rudd, (Bill Stone) and Colonel Byrd, (G. Reid). These two old gentlemen were from North and South Carolina respectively, and every time North mentioned South, or vice versa, it was done in unkind words. To make matters worse between the two older gentlemen, Byrd's daughter and Rudd's son were very much in love with each other and had to devise a scheme to gain the consent of their parents. Bob Rudd had learned that his father needed a maid and therefore Marjorie Byrd (Luella Holmes) decided to act in that capacity under the name of Hannah Katzenjammer. Col. Rudd was very pleased with his new maid and made plans for adoption, at the same time disowning, reclaiming, dismissing, recalling his son, much to the amusement of the audience. Ching Ah Ling, the Chinese Cook (T. Jury) was a great help to the lovers, but a terrible source of worry to Col. Rudd, who although he felt he could not get along without his Chinese servant, knew perfectly well he could not get along with him. Emmaline Carroll, (M. Bristol) was the stately dignified lady of the South who was certain that Col. Rudd needed a woman around the house to manage things and keep order. Julia, Who was the Colonel's choice for his son, (Mildred Phillips) was in love with Ned Graydon, a gentleman with an exceedingly poor memory (Everett Phillips) and had not intentions of marrying Bob. These love affairs were interwoven with the plot in a very clever manner, and it happened that Emmaline had been an old sweetheart of Col. Byrd. Finally, after accusing Col. Rudd of kidnapping his daughter, and making himself an unwanted "guest" at the Rudd home, Col. Byrd decides that he has been in the wrong and a friendship between Col. Rudd and Col. Byrd arises. Finally everyone became either engaged or married except Ching Ah Ling and Col. Rudd, and everything went happily ever after. The story was interesting and the players carried their parts well throughout.

Between acts Miss Bernice Arbuckle, of Belleville, entertained the audience with splendid readings, and responded to well-merited encores.

CURRENT COMMENT

Did you ever notice that Truth goes in a walk, while a lie gallops all over town. It just bears out the old proverb "Slow and steady wins the race."

It seems as if liquor cannot be kept out of politics.
—no we didn't say politicians. We believe political leaders are endeavouring to keep liquor out of politics, but the Distillery interests seem determined to keep it in — we mean politics.

Yesterday was Victoria Day and as usual passed over very quietly in Stirling. There were a few flags flying to mark this event. Canadians would do well to copy some of the enthusiasm in flag-display as shown by our United States neighbours.

The summer season is near at hand and, unfortunately, drowning accidents are already occupying a prominent place in the newspapers. Parents should see that the children are taught how to swim, and warned of the treachery of deep water.

If Adolf Hitler's word can be accepted as to reliability there will not be war with Germany this year. But a state of mind is being developed there which, if not unchecked, will surely lead to another world struggle as soon as that country is ready.

There was quite a war scare for a couple of days last week over the disarmament controversy by European countries. However the war clouds have passed over and now the world's leaders can get back to the plan of laying the foundation for a successful world economic conference.

Now that the "open nights" season has arrived it is to be hoped the Village Council will take some definitive action at its next regular meeting to have a strong light installed in the centre, above the four corners—it no doubt will be appreciated by night shoppers, as well as vehicle drivers.

It is tulip time in Stirling. There are several beds of this outstanding flower throughout the village. Why not make a tour of inspection and see just how pretty our village looks when dressed up with its flowers. Much credit for the developing of this beauty is due to members of the Horticultural Society.

The question of "titles" seems to be taking up a great deal of time in the Federal House. Maybe they will be alright, and perhaps some of the members need some sort of a title to make them appear dignified. However, if the "titles" style is approved it will not effect the standing of the many "Sir Gallahads" in this vicinity.

A reduction of 20 per cent. in the fees of crown attorneys, sheriffs, clerks of the peace and all jail officers in the administration of justice in Ontario was announced recently by the attorney-general. We wonder if fines will also be reduced, or will the poor man still have to "pay through the nose".

We were pleased to note on Saturday night that practically all motorists observed the stop sign on North Street and that they proceeded past the danger corners, from all directions, carefully and cautiously. However, there were a couple of seemingly "nitwits" who couldn't resist stepping on the accelerator with force, while passing this zone.

It looks as if Hepburn, the advertised Liberal leader, and Nixon, the head-man of the Progressives, were great friends. Mr. Hepburn has stated that he wants Mr. Nixon as a member of his cabinet when he resigns his Federal seat and is elected head of the provincial legislature. Well "Heppy" cannot be accused of party partisanship in this, anyway.

Toronto has ever been boasting or trying to "put it over" the people outside its borders, that it is "Toronto the Good". Maybe so, but the present investigation into the activities of her police force shows that some of her law enforcers have been naughty — and after our visiting this supposedly unclerk city a couple of weeks ago, we have concluded that its goodness must be kept under cover.

Barrie Examiner — A lawyer, on behalf of some clients, asked to see the assessment roll of Renfrew and was refused by the town clerk. He then appealed to the Mayor who after securing legal opinion, advised him that anyone could see it within reasonable hours. The collector's roll is on a different basis, however, he said, as there is no provision in the Municipal Act for allowing it to be shown.

Motorists are warned that Highway Traffic Officers have been ordered to check up on motorists who drive at night with only one headlight gleaming on the petrol wagon; also for defective brakes. Horse-drawn vehicles and bicycles will also be watched closely to see that they carry the necessary lights. Anyone found guilty of any of these offences will be fined — No warning will be given for a first offense.

Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy have joined hands in a plan to maintain European peace for ten years.
This will no doubt be good news to Canadians and other countries of the world, particularly after the scare of a couple of weeks ago when Hitler, the Hun, intimated that Germany would become "armed to the teeth" and so on.
Guess Adolf is beginning to realize that he may be able to bluff his fellow countrymen with his egoism, but outside of his own country his remarks were received as prattle.

One thing that disgusts us is to see a youth walking on the street, dragging his heels on the sidewalk. We do not know whether it is a case of laziness or an "I don't care" attitude. We have a feeling some think it mainly, but it is disgraceful. Lately we have noticed several young men and even some of our school students, walking in a slov-ely manner. It is just as easy to "pick 'em up" and to walk erectly, than to poke along in a hunched position and dragging the feet. So boys, pick up your feet, stick out your chest and carry yourself with an easy erectness when you are walking — you will look as if you were awake, and besides it is healthier.

Russian generals seem to be determined to see enemies on the horizon, or to make their people believe that such enemies exist. One of them, General Bleucher, came out the other day with a sword-shaking speech in which he said that the Red Army was ready to fight anyone who tried to take away any of Russia's territory. So far as we have been able to find, no one seems particularly desirous of invading Russia. Other nations are quite content to leave Russia entirely to herself, to work out its own destiny in pain and suffering. General Bleucher was simply setting up a straw man to knock him down again, for the sake of making the impression he desired upon his hearers. But it does make the rest of the world smile to note the efforts being made by Russia's leaders to make their people believe that the rest of the world is making ready for war with them.

Woman's Beauty To-Day and in Biblical Times

We read a report recently of a convention of beauty shop people held a few weeks ago. According to this report the most interesting things in the exhibits were removable lips, demountable eyelashes, devices to change the shape of the nose, apparatus to hold the ears back, artificial eye-sparkle and little pictures for fingernail decoration.

We began to wonder how women could be so foolish as to think that such artificialities make them attractive to men. But before we had got to the point of raising an outcry against this degenerate modern age we happened to think that we had read something of the sort before.

We looked it up and found it, written more than two thousand years ago by a prophet named Isaiah.

"The daughters of Zion are haughty, and walk with stretched forth necks and wanton eyes, walking and mincing as they go and making a tinkling with their feet. . . .
In that day the Lord will take away the bravery of their tinkling ornaments about their feet, and their cauls, and their round tires like the moon, the chains and the bracelets, and the muffers, the bonnets and the ornaments of the legs, and the headbands, and the tablets, and the earrings, the ring and nose jewels, the changeable suits of apparel, and the mantles, and the wimples and the crimping pins, the glasses and fine linen, and the hoods and the veils."

Perhaps it wouldn't be any use for us to try to talk the girls out of their finery. Apparently Isaiah's threats didn't change feminine nature, which seems to be about the same now as it was in Old Testament days. But we have an idea that the girls of Isaiah's time, like those of today, didn't put on their dew-dads so much to make themselves interesting to men as to make other women envious. That, however, is a more man's point of view.

mainly buncombe. There was, of course, some sense in it, but not very much. The psychological data upon which it was based were absurd, and the miracles that it was supposed to achieve were imaginary. Children came out of the new pedagogical Taj Mahal no better prepared for life than their parents had come out of the little red schoolhouse, and the new Model A pedagogues, with his polychrome graphs and bold hypotheses, turned out to be scarcely as competent as the Model T ma'am of the last generation, with her dog-eared speller and her ready rattan.

"Some of the more advanced ped-agogues began to think of themselves not only as scientists of a novel and subtle sort, but also as prophets. The chief prophets of the movement went to great lengths. They built larger and larger schoolhouses, with fewer and fewer classrooms and more and more gymnasiums, laboratories, ateliers, and shops. They invented multitudinous new species of 'experts' and put them gloriously to work. They sweated the poor school-ma'ams during the hot summers with interminable courses in 'quick sciences'.

"They called for larger and larger contributions from the taxpayer, and damned him boldly whenever he cried for quarter. And in their topmost ranks they dreamed voluptuously of adding a secretary of education to the cabinet.

"All this went on until the depression struck the country, and budgets began to go unbalanced. There ensued a somewhat pious inquiry into the whole pedagogical hocus-pecus.
It was found that the brethren were getting away with nearly three billions annually (or maybe even four billions), and that they were planning to demand much more.

"It was found that the cost of 'educating' a pupil a year which had been $15.00 in 1880, had soared to nearly $100, and that it was still going up.
It was found that this vast outpouring of money had already reduced hundreds of American counties and towns to bankruptcy, and was seriously imperilling the solvency of whole

FORMER RESIDENT PASSES

At Bay City, Michigan, on May 8, Mrs. B. J. Price (nee Blanche Seeley) passed away after a short illness. Besides her husband and one daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Davids, of Sterling, Mich., Mrs. Price leaves to mourn her loss two sisters, Mrs. R.
H. Thompson, Radisson, Sask., and Mrs. E. L. Bowers, Streamstown, Alberta; also two brothers, Albert H.
Seeley, Maritimo, Sask., and Geo. W.
Seeley, Flat Valley, Sask. Mrs.
Price was in her 46th year. The deceased is a former resident of Stirling and was well-known throughout this district.

Campbellford — Striking a fence near Dam 9 at Campbellford on Wednesday afternoon, last week, lightning struck 12-year-old Robert Parcels, who was attempting to climb it cut of the way of the storm, throwing him back onto the ground. So severe was the shock that it took over one-half hour before the boy could be brought round, and then he was in such a dazed condition that he had to be removed to his home. A son of James Parcels of Campbell-ford, Robert was fishing from the dam when a severe electric storm struck the district. Rushing for the fence he threw over his fishing pole and had one hand laid on the fence to climb over it when the lightning struck.

CHEAPENING MONEY IN CANADA

(Financial Post)

The Treasury Board at Ottawa has reduced the rate on general advances to banks under the Finance Act from 3½ to 2½ per cent. This is the lowest rate on record. The rate for the special advances of $35,000,000 made on Nov. 1, 1932, has not been changed from three per cent.

The change in the Finance Act was made effective from May 1st, coinciding with the reduction of the rate on savings deposits to 2½ per cent. Undoubtedly it represents another phase of the movement towards cheapening credit in Canada.

While there is considerable uncertainty as to the probable effects of these reductions in interest rates, many Kingsville merchants can duplicate for less money and then save enough to help local institutions and the poor.

In this year of close times, why not stick to the standardized, established merchants whom you can trust to give you a square deal? Try Kingsville merchants for satisfaction before purchasing merchandise from the out-of-town door bell ringers.

WHY LET ANYONE COMMERCIAL- IZE YOUR THRESHOLD?

(Kingsville Reporter)

The door bell rings and you are confronted by the person who states:
"We don't sell through the stores!"
No, and don't pay taxes, insurance, rent, interest on borrowed money, wages to clerks or cash to anyone in the community, but does a thriving business on the doorsteps of the town, has an article for sale which they at least lay the foundation for lower long term interest. Economists are agreed that cheap money for short and long term are among the price requisites for recovery. They are not in complete agreement as to how the demand for such cheap money is to be stimulated. But it is de-scribable that it be available for good borrowers when they require it. It is difficult to start building a new house with confidence, unless the de-scribable materials are sure to be available at favourable prices.

THE COSTS OF EDUCATION

(Peterboro Examiner)

Should taxes be lowered at the expense of many of the so-called "frills" of education? Both sides of this popular question are brought to light in a debate which appears in the current Rotarian Magazine, between H.
L. Mencken, editor of "The American Mercury", and John Dewey, professor of philosophy at Columbia University.

The Mencken arguments are interesting. "There can be no doubt that educational reforms of recent years were urged in perfect good faith, and that they were all worth while. Unfortunately, some evils came in with these goods as apparently inevitable in human affairs.

"The New Pedagogy, in fact, was

For example: if an OLD Subscription is paid to October 1st, 1933, by the addition of the FREE Three Months, it will extend it to January 1st, 1934. All NEW Subscriptions must be for one Year — that is, if a person subscribes for the paper on or before June 17th, 1933, by paying $2.00 he will be given the paper for 15 months in place of 12. With these Three Months given away FREE it means that the subscription rate is the same as $1.50 for one year.

We have several subscribers who are now paid up more than one year in advance — in that case they will be given three months' credit for each year they are paid in advance — if it does not exceed three years, as follows:

- 1 Year in Advance — 3 Months Free.
- 2 Years in Advance — 6 Months Free.
- 3 Years in Advance — 9 Months Free.

This Offer is ONLY good until 10 p.m.
Sat., June 17, 1933

AFTER THAT DATE THE SUBSCRIPTION WILL BE
$2.00 IN CANADA AND $2.50 IN THE UNITED STATES FOR 12 MONTHS ONLY

We are giving All Subscribers Sufficient
Time to Take Advantage of this offer.

This Special Offer is made in keeping with the decreased purchasing power of the majority of our Subscribers and people in general, particularly those engaged in the agricultural industry, and also to correspond with the lower prices now obtained for nearly all lines of goods, not excluding some newspapers and periodicals. This is an opportunity for all Subscribers — both those paid in advance and in arrears, to save money.

Although this Special Offer is made, there will be absolutely no sacrifice in quality. The News-Argus will continue to give a complete coverage of the news of the Village of Stirling and the surrounding district, retaining all of its present popular features, such as the news from our many rural correspondents; the editorial page, for which the paper is noted, and the news of Councils, both village, township and county, church organizations, lodges, sporting organizations, etc.

To those who have been subscribers to the paper for many years, or who have more recently been added to the subscription lists, the publishers extend their sincere thanks, and trust that this Special FREE OFFER price will meet with their approval. It will be our constant aim to give the people a first-class paper.

SPECIAL TO OLD SUBSCRIBERS — As long as your Subscription is paid in advance by June 17th, 1933, even if it is only until August 1st, 1933, you will be given the Three Months' Credit. It is to you who have stood by us that we really want to show our appreciation. We want to emphasize that OLD Subscribers do not have to have their subscription paid in advance for a full year. Any portion is all that is necessary to get the Three Months added Free; But New Subscribers who may be added to our lists between now and June 17th — Must pay $2.00 before they get the Three Months Free.

MARMORA MAN WILL FACE TRIAL IN JUNE

Charged with a serious offence, which is alleged by the police and the Children's Aid Society, to have been committed against his own sister-in-law, a young girl under 16 years of age, Bruce Cooney was committed for trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction by Magistrate Casement in the County Police Court held at Marmora on Friday. Cooney's case was opened in Belleville on Thursday, but after hearing some of the evidence the case was enlarged and taken to the home of Mr. George Davidson near Marmora, as evidence relating to the case had to be given by Mrs. Davidson, who is at present confined to her bed through illness. The alleged assaulted girl was in the employ of the Davidson's prior to the alleged assault. The charge against Cooney was laid by Inspector Ruston of the local Children's Aid Society of whom the alleged assaulted girl was a ward. The girl took the stand on Thursday and testified that Cooney had taken her away from the Davidson home under the pretext that her sister, Cooney's wife, was seriously ill in the Belleville General Hospital. After persuading the young girl to accompany him, Cooney is alleged to have later driven up a side road in his truck, with the young girl, and committed the assault. Cooney's wife testified against him. Following the commitment it was announced that Cooney would face trial at the June Assizes of the Supreme Court, held in Belleville.

Interesting News For Farmers

Fairs Provide Own Judges

For many years "Government Judges" have been available to Agricultural Societies at a very nominal charge. For reasons of economy this service has been withdrawn for this year at least, according to J. A. Carroll, Superintendent of Agricultural Societies. Assistance will be given to some fairs in the north, but no judges will be provided in old Ontario. As there are capable and experienced judges in almost every community, this should not prove a hardship. It might be considered wise to select judges from a neighboring county in most cases.

Keep Orchards Clean

Orchard surveys have been made throughout the apple growing sections of Ontario and other provinces in order that information regarding apple maggot infestations will be readily available at the time of packing apples for export. The law is that no apples may be exported from Canada from infested districts, and efforts are being made to keep the orchards 100 per cent. clean during the coming season of growth.

Classes Well Filled

An impressive feature of the final examination results at O.A.C. is the way in which the numbers of students keep up. In spite of the depression, there were 151 in the degree and diploma classes of the first year, 150 in the second year, 58 in the intermediate, and 103 in the third year. This is a sign that the urge to accumulate knowledge overcomes many obstacles. At Kemptville Agricultural School, the classes also keep well. In the senior year 28 tried the examinations and a very high average proficiency was shown. Some 37 students completed the junior year.

Beef From Western Canada Selling On Toronto Market

Within the past two or three weeks several carloads of graded beef carcasses from Winnipeg have reached Toronto. From the ready sale with which this Western beef met, according to the Federal Government beef grades at the Union Stock Yards, the amount of Ontario beef offered, of suitable weight and finish for grading, is considerably less than the demand.

In addition, the best price on the Toronto live cattle market, this week, was that brought by a load of western-bred yearlings suitable for branding.

Canadian Fruit Only

The City of Hamilton announces as a result of circular letter from the Ontario Marketing Board to all provincial welfare agencies, that in future all grocery orders for food for relief will specify Canadian fruit only to be purchased.

A Honey Booklet

"Use More Ontario Honey" is the title of an exceedingly informative and useful brochure from the pen of Mary M. Darby, B.H.Sc., Department of Home Economics, MacDonald Institute, and published by the Department of Agriculture and the O.A.C. Describing the value of honey as a food, the booklet goes on to tell how honey may best be used. It also furnishes a considerable number of recipes in which honey plays a prominent part. Every housewife will value this publication.

Farm Prices Improve

Substantial improvement in the agricultural situation is indicated by recent price advantages in a large range of farm products. In some cases the increase was slight, but in others it was noteworthy. Hogs advanced 52 per cent., cattle were up 40 per cent. and wheat 82 per cent. at the end of April. Other products with good gains included butter, poultry, cats, flax, honey, corn, potatoes and beans. For Ontario's output, the increase in prices amounted to a total of $34,183,000, or 15 per cent. of the total agricultural revenue in 1932. This Department has been giving much attention to the development of export markets and large increases in exports to Great Britain have occurred in the past twelve months, thus having a favourable effect upon prices, as a result of the upward turn the divergence between prices of farm goods and manufactured articles is lessened and farmers will be relieved of the burden under which they have been labouring, and urban residents too will benefit from increasing employment.

CONTROL OF THE GLADIOLUS THrips

Peel all the corms, put them in loosely woven burlap sacks and immerse these completely for three hours in a solution of corrosive sublimate of the strength of 1 ounce in 6 gallons of water. The temperature of the water should be about 70 degrees F. Corrosive sublimate corrodes metals and therefore should be used only in wooden, glass or earthenware vessels. In making the solution, put the ounce of corrosive sublimate into a wooden pail or an earthenware crock, pour a little hot water on it, stir until all is wet and any lumps broken up; then add about half a gallon more of hot water, stir until all is dissolved and pour the liquid into a barrel or large wooden tub, adding enough water to make 6 gallons. If the temperature of the water used is below 70 degrees F., add enough hot water to bring it up to 70 degrees F. The corrosive sublimate kills all stages of the insect, including the eggs.

MOUNT PLEASANT

Always Shining

Never once since the world began has the sun ever stopped shining. His face very often we could not see, as we grumbled at his inconsistency; but the clouds were really to blame, not he. For behind them he was shining. And so behind life's darkest clouds, God's love is always shining. We veil it at times with our faithless fears, And darken our sight with our foolish tears; But in time the atmosphere always clears, For His Love is always shining.

—John Oxenham

Might

Father (after reading report)—"What does this mean?" Boy—"I don't know father. Do you think it might be a forgery?" Here is a little story sent by a reader of this column.

A Scotchman and his sweetheart made up their minds to get married, so off they went to the minister and took the vows. After the ceremony was over Sandy asked the minister how much the charge would be. The minister said, "Oh, just whatever you think she is worth." Sandy gave him a quarter. The minister looked at the coin, then at Sandy, and then at the girl, then he put his hand in his pocket and gave Sandy back ten cents change.

GYPSIES STOPPED BY LOCAL CONSTABLE

Trenton—Mary Demitro pleaded guilty to stealing five dollars from Thomas Smith, local grocer, before Justice of the Peace T. Jarrett, in Trenton on Friday. On making restitution the accused was allowed to go on two years suspended sentence. It all happened in the same old way. Mary was the gypsy girl telling fortunes. Thos. Smith was having his ailments defined by Mary's touch. The touch turned out to be a five spot. The Trenton police were notified and after coming to Stirling found the band of four adults and fourteen children travelling in two cars, and held by Constable Harry Wickett, who had received word from the Trenton Chief of Police that the tribe was headed this way. After her trial the band continued on their journey.

SYNOPSIS

Synopsis: Joyce Ashton, poor stenographer, suffered loss of memory in a skidding taxi accident in Chicago. One morning two years later she woke, after a fall from her horse, her memory restored, to find herself the wife of Nell Packard, rich California fruit packer. She determined to tell nobody of her predicament, but set about learning what she could of her life in the interval. From the conversation of her friends and letters in her desk she gathered that she had been a heartless, pleasure-loving young woman. One letter that troubled her was from a woman signing herself Sophie, blaming Frills for not giving a home to a baby. Sophie was caring for. Could it be her baby, Frills wondered? She also found herself involved in an affair with a man named Maitland. In San Francisco, where she went while her husband was away on business, she met Robert Ainsworth, a poet whose work she had always admired. When Joyce returned home, she decided to be pleasant to Nell than Frills had been. But this line was dangerous, too, for Nell was pathetically anxious to win back Frills' love. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

At last they were all gone, and Packard, closing the front door, came back to the living room and began to put out the light. He yawned widely. "Gee, I'm sleepy. Got to get up early tomorrow, too. Going to bed now, Frills?" he asked, pausing with his hand at the last light.

"Yes, I am," replied Joyce. She couldn't get the words out which she meant to say casually. Turning, she went upstairs, closely followed by Packard, who switched on the bedroom light for her.

"I sure have missed that sleeping porch. Seems as if I never had any real air in those hotel rooms," remarked Packard when they were in the bedroom. "Once you get used to sleeping out anything else seems stuffy."

This hardly seemed an appropriate time to announce that she had decided to sleep in the house hereafter and Joyce, in an agony of embarrassment and indecision wavered over to her dressing table where she sat down and lighted another cigarette.

If he would only go to his own rooms and let her alone! But Packard lingered taking off his tie and unbuttoning his shirt while he talked. Nell was now taking off his shirt, and Joyce, catching sight in her mirror of the white top of his sleeveless underwear felt a wave of colour burn her face and she sat rooted to the spot. To her great relief, however, he went off to finish his undressing elsewhere and she jumped up and hurried to the closet. Just as she had stripped her last garment off and was reaching for a kimono, she heard him again in the bathroom. She had left the door of the closet just a trifle ajar so that she could keep track of his movements, and the bathroom door stood wide open.

"Shall I run a hot bath for you?" called Packard, "or are you going to take a shower?"

Joyce hastily called out, "No tub, thanks. I'll take a shower when you get through."

"You needn't wait. I'm not using the shower. I want a real soak after being on the train two nights!"

She sat huddled on a chair in the closet and listened tensely to the process of his bath. He splashed and whistled and to poor Joyce it seemed as if he would never finish.

Suddenly the whistle stopped abruptly and she heard him ejaculate, "Damn! There goes the soap!" "Say, Frills, be a good kid and get me the soap, will you? I dropped it out and it skidded way over into the bedroom!"

Joyce was petrified by this simple request. She was so startled that she even failed to take refuge in what had been her salvation in other awkward moments, the conveniently she could not evade.

"Oh, say, sweetheart," he protested, "not my first night home, Frills? I've been so ... so lonesome for you dear."

Packard bent his head quickly and kissed her eagerly, not once, but several times, then drew her closer still and kissed the hollow of her neck, several times. "Oh, sweetheart, won't you love me a little?" he whispered, his cheek laid against hers. "Won't you love me? Somehow to night you were so sweet, going out with me alone that way and I got to hoping you might — Oh, Frills, what can I do to make you come back to me?"

"Oh, let's not talk tonight," she exclaimed impatiently. "I'm dead tired, I tell you." To her relief he did not follow her, but she heard his deep sigh as she went on into the other room and shut the door, her knees trembling a little.

Once in bed with the door locked, she lay and thought over what had happened. This victory was hers, but she did not feel quite the satisfaction in that she had felt in circumventing Maitland.

Waking the next morning at her temperamental disposition of Frills.

"Well, wait a minute, I'll ... I'll get it," she returned, and holding her silk coat tightly about her she emerged from the closet, found the cake of soap innocently lying on the blue carpet, picked it up, and entering the bathroom, hastily thrust it into Packard's wet outstretched hand. Then she turned hurriedly and left the room in a turmoil of emotions.

"I wish he'd hurry," she fumed, with a sigh of relief that that awkward moment was over, though her heart still thumped violently. "I'm tired. If that shower didn't have a glass door I'd go and take a bath now. I simply can't do it though." She sat down again and listened anxiously.

Presently she heard him rubbing himself vigorously and a few minutes later he appeared in the bedroom in blue pajamas and slippers. His hair sticking up in damp rumpled confusion. How funny a man looked without a collar, she thought, and the pajamas seemed to be loose and baggy! Lowering her eyes she went past him into the bathroom. She shut the door after her and very quietly and carefully turned the little catch that locked it.

When she opened the door again she found the bedroom empty, but from the porch Packard implored her, "Say Frills, bring me a glass of water, like an angel, will you?" "Like an angel, will you?"

Joyce wanted to retort crossly, but her naturally obliging disposition automatically asserted itself and getting the water she went to the sleeping porch which lay in the shadow. The moon made it light enough, however, to see Packard's face vaguely. He sat up in bed and took the glass which she handed him. As he did so she said hastily, "Good night! I'm ... I'm going to sleep inside for a while." She turned away as she spoke, but she scarcely finished the sentence before Packard put down the glass and jumped out of bed. He stopped her at the door and drew her into his arms, not roughly, but with a gently firm movement which usual hour of seven o'clock she heard Packard whistling as he dressed and she debated whether to get up and have breakfast with him or to let him go away without seeing her.

She got out of bed and listened. It was so quiet that she concluded Nell had gone downstairs. She had just taken a dress from a hangar and had come out to put it on in front of the long mirror, when she was startled by Packard appearing. "Good morning wife!" he exclaimed, "how's the world?"

"Oh! ... Good morning," she responded, hastily pulling the dress on and watching him apprehensively in the mirror as she fastened her collar and tie.

"Gee, this is great. Are you going to eat breakfast this morning?" he asked, leaning against the foot of the bed.

"We'll give Roxie a surprise, eating breakfast together," she remarked, as they entered the dining room. "Good morning, Roxie, where's my blessed Dickie?"

"Out with Sam," responded Roxie. She too smiled, but there was a puzzled look about her face as she did so.

"Oh, then I'm going out to get him," exclaimed Joyce. "You start eating, I'll be right back," and she dashed out through the kitchen and called to Dickie, whom she saw lying with a bored expression outside the stable door.

"I wonder if he'd get too tired to go along with me if I go out to ride on Rosita. What do you think?" asked Joyce as she began her breakfast. "Well, I wouldn't take him if you're going more than a short ride. I doubt if he is used to long runs."

"By the way I heard that Maitland has a new horse," remarked Packard toward the end of the meal. "What sort of a cayuse is it? Did he get it from MasBready?" Joyce's heart thumped. Now was her chance, and she determined to take it. She spoke casually, though the knowledge that she was changing colour disconcerted her slightly. "I'm sure I don't know" she remarked.

ed. "I haven't seen Malt for nearly two weeks."

When she raised her eyes from her plate she encountered a look on Packard's face which filled her with sudden anger. It had always infuriated Joyce to realize that her word was doubted.

Suddenly her pleasure in the day was spoiled. A hurt feeling of resentment against him for ruining her happy mood seized her. She forgot his side of the affair and the things which Frills had done to make this reaction so natural.

She said nothing until they had left the table and were in the living room. Then suddenly she faced him and with flaming face said, "Look here, I want you to know that I wasn't lying just now when I said I hadn't seen Malt for two weeks."

Packard stared at her. He looked bewildered. An expression of eager hopefulness dawned on his face, but it was the cautious hope of one who has been hurt and disappointed too many times.

After fully five seconds' silence Packard said dully, "God knows I want to believe you, Frills, but after ... that New Year's thing ..." He hesitated as if he were referring to some painful incident he could scarcely bear to mention.

Joyce was quivering all over. It seemed to her that nothing was more important than to make him believe her. She groped desperately for the right words to convince him. "But, I'm telling the truth," she insisted, "you can ask Clarice ... or ask Malt himself if you won't believe me."

Nell still looked as if he dared not believe and Joyce, exasperated at his obviously unconvinced manner, exclaimed, "Perhaps I was mistaken, perhaps you ... you don't really care what I do—"

But at this Packard suddenly woke up. His face went white under the tan and taking a step forward he gripped her shoulders with his hands and said, with an intensity of restrained force that frightened her, "By God, Frills, I won't stand for that! When have you ever cared what I thought? When have you ever done anything but give me the most careless sort of response? You've lied to me before. You know it. How can I help doubting you? I've done everything I could to try to make you happy. I've given you every bit of freedom and fun I could just so you might have a good time. I've protected you more than you knew against open scandal. I've stood so damn' much from you that I sometimes wonder what kind of a weak fool I am. But I can't help loving you in spite of it all. I've stood for this business with Maitland ... I've stood, for all sorts of things — for your sake, and partly for my mother's. And when ... when you've been a little bit nice to me, what has it ever meant? Some devilish scheme of yours to put something over on me. I don't know what your game is now, but even you can't tell me I don't really care what you do."

Joyce, listening fascinated to this explosion, recalled the words in "Jerry's" letter: "Just remember that a man like Nell won't stand pushing too far."

Reputation in No Danger
Sandy McPherson was travelling to Glasgow when he felt thirsty so he took out a bottle and drew the cork. Just as he was about to take a drink a fellow passenger in clerical garb addressed him.

"Excuse me, sir, but I have never tasted a drop of whiskey."

"Donna worry yersel," said Sandy, "yer no gointa start now."

They're telling one about a grateful lad, who after his recent wedding ceremony, handed a little loose change, all the money he had in the world, to the clergyman, with the remark, "I have."

"But," he added optimistically, "if we have any children we'll send them to your Sunday School."

To Please a Woman

If you want to please a woman, Here is one sure way:

Tell her that she grows more charming.

Every day.

Tell her that her eyes are bluer, And her smile more sweet.

Tell her there is elfin music In her feet.

Do not tell her she is brilliant, Good, dependable or true;

And she'll take hook, line and sinker Every time.

A certain woman who keeps boarders says: "Lord deliver me from female boarders. I don't mind the men. If things don't suit them they ain't got the nerve to complain."

Some people cannot understand how a girl expects to keep her friends if she is never ready when they call for her. But she expects to keep them just the same — she expects to keep them waiting.

Campbellford's tax rate for 1933 is 47 mills, 2 mills lower than last year.

In the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada, there are 67,308 members with 608 preaching places.

Thieves some time on Thursday night broke into the Norwood Creamery and carried away over 300 lbs. of butter. The butter was done up in pound prints and packed in 45-lb. containers ready for shipment. The thieves gained access to the building by cutting a hole through a glass in the engine room door, enabling them to reach a Yale lock and an extra fastener on the inside. To gain entrance to the refrigerator, a heavy staple was drawn, but at this point the robbers were apparently held up for a time by a mechanical contrivance on the latch which was finally overcome by the use of chisels.

Toronto—Another King's Plate has been run, to be exact the 74th renewal and out of the record field of 23 starters came another triumph for the famous black and yellow ash colts for the Seagram Stable at Waterlool. It was King O'Connor, the four-year-old gelding by Winter King-Doreen O'Connor by Othello, who captured the richest prize, monetary and otherwise, of the Ontario Jockey Club Spring meeting which opened in the rain on Saturday at the Woodbine. H. C. Hatch's Easter Hatter was second three lengths back and then came Mrs. R. E. Webster's Synago and Conny Smythe's Court Butterfly, while many of the others reported late.

Laura Broadworth, of North Hampton, Mass., and a former resident of Marmora Township, was instantly killed near Farnham Centre, Quebec, on Friday, May 12th, when the car she was driving crashed through the railing of a bridge to drop into the creek below. The deceased and her sister, Bernice had been visiting a cousin, Mrs. G. H. Slater, who with Mr. Slater was in the car when the accident occurred, but escaped without serious injury. The late Miss Broadworth, who was 31 years of age after her mother's death, resided for a while with her cousin, Mrs. J. W. Richardson, of Marmora Township, from where the funeral was held on Wednesday last week to Beaver Creek cemetery.

Trenton — F. J. Pierce, a Trenton bailiff, was convicted on a charge of indecent assault and fined $50.00 when he appeared before His Honour Judge Madden in the County Criminal Court held in Belleville, on Monday. Pierce was charged with the assault of Mrs. Annie Rutan, the proprietor of a restaurant in Trenton, the assault being committed on the afternoon of February 24th last. The offence it was charged took place while the accused was working in the capacity of his official duties as bailiff when he went to Mrs. Rutan's restaurant to seize chattels for the payment of a debt amounting to $30.70 owed to a Trenton firm.

Hastings — Mystery shrouds the death of John J. Armstrong, local business man, whose body was found half submerged in the mud and water of a small creek near Front Street in an unfrequented section of the village. Earl Emery was making a short cut over the tannery hill on his way home at noon on Monday and in passing the creek noticed a man's body lying half-concealed in the bed of the creek. Mr. Emery immediately summoned Constable William Killengreen, who dragged the body from its resting place amid the mud and reeds of the creek. There is only a thin trickle of water in the creek, it being not more than two or three inches deep at that spot. The unfortunate man's head and shoulders were found to be buried deep in the mud and water of the creek. An inquest was found necessary by the coroner, who stated that death was due from accidental drowning.

Thomasburg — One of the worst thunder storms that has been known in some time passed over the village early Wednesday evening, last week, accompanied by hail. A short distance west of the village, and also south, no rain fell at all. A bolt of lightning struck the east chimney on Mr. William E. Kerr's house and passing over the steel roof came down the water pipe on the west side of the house, ripping several of the boards in the siding. A blaze started but was soon overcome by the men of the village. The glass in several of the windows was broken and considerable damage was done inside. Mr. Kerr has been confined to his bed for some time with heart trouble, but appears to have not minded the shock.

Campbellford — Pleading guilty to a charge of fraudulently obtaining board and lodging and surreptitiously leaving the premises without paying for the same, the amount owing being nine dollars and the lady laying the complaint being Mrs. Robert Linn, of Campbellford, Magistrate J. M. Bygott, in the Campbellford police court meted out fifteen days in Co-burg gaol to T. H. Clements, 27, Toronto, last Thursday. Clements was in charge of a selling crew for a Toronto silk firm and made arrangements for lodging for himself and three men selling under him. He left before the men, however, his business taking him to Trenton. Magistrate Bygott held however, that despite the fact that his board bill was nearly all paid, he made arrangements for the four men and assumed the responsibility for their bills. The offence was committed on March 23.

Marmora Herald — Last Thursday Mrs. D. L. Curtiss was called to her home in Seaford owing to the serious illness of her father, Mr. William G. L. Edwards, Dr. and Mrs. Curtiss and Billy left that night to make the trip by auto. Mr. Edmunds passed away Friday night after a long illness. He had appeared to be making favourable progress and was able to be out a week ago, when complications set in. He was in his sixty-second year, and for many years was superintendent in the Canadian Furniture Manufacturer's plant at Seaford. He was a prominent member of the First Presbyterian Church, a Past Grand of the I.O.O.F. and Past Chief Ranger of the Canadian Order of Foresters. Edmunds, of Mitchell, Dr. J. Reid, of Brantford, and Arthur, of the Dominion Bank Staff, Seaford. The funeral was held on Monday afternoon.

Lakefield — As a public expression of their appreciation of his vision, initiative and sustained effort in persuading the Government of Ontario to establish the County Crown Game Preserve, the Kawartha Fish and Game Protective Association of this village and district were grateful hosts to T. P. Lancaster, M.P.P., at a dinner in Lakefield Inn last Thursday night, the tributary significance of which was further accentuated by the presence of the Hon. George H. Charles, Minister of Game and Fisheries and the Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Minister of Highways. The company of one hundred and twenty-five sportsmen included virtually all the members of the Kawartha Association and also many of the members of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, together with other men from the city and county who are interested in the conservation of wild life in this district, and who admire Mr. Lancaster's genuine attachment to this ancestral resource and heritage and the successful accomplishment of this timely and important enterprise of his in the public service as the member for Peterborough county.

21st Battalion (C.E.F.) were Sunday laid to rest in the Frankford cemetery. The remains, which had been resting at the Thomas C. Thompson son Funeral Parlour, 288 Front St., Belleville, were conveyed to this village, accompanied by a number of 21st Battalion men, veterans of the Great War and members of Belleville Lodge No. 81 I.O.O.F. The funeral was under I.O.O.F. auspices with officers of Frankford Lodge No. 382 in charge. This village has never seen a larger funeral than that accorded the late Fred W. Smith. He had been most respected here, where he had made his home for the past 20 years and been employed as a foreman in the paper mills. The entire populace of the village was in attendance, while from throughout the district returned men came to Frankford to acknowledge respect to a departed comrade. From Belleville, Trenton, Carrying Place, Brighton and other points 21st Battalion comrades and veterans came and Stirling Post of the Canadian Legion attended in a body and its president, E. Dainard had charge of the veteran's part in the parade. Mr. Gerald Johnston of the local lodge was responsible for the fraternal arrangements.

Double Drowning in Moira Lake

Madoc—The bodies of Robert Whytock, 18, younger son of Reeve Walter Whytock, of Madoc, who is also Warden of Hastings County, and McKenzie Clarke, 25, were recovered from Moira Lake at 2.30 Monday afternoon. The elder of the two men, a non-swimmer, had his arms entwined about his younger companion.

First evidence of the tragedy came to light at 4 o'clock Monday morning, when their unoccupied motor boat was found floating amid the bullrushes in a bay on the upper part of Moira Lake.

All night the two had been missing from their homes. On the finding of the boat and their deserted motor car near the landing, a posse of searchers started out to find them. Gaily the young men started out about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon for their first fishing expedition of the season. They motored to the landing on the lake about three miles from Madoc and then set forth in the motor boat for the fishing grounds.

A high wind whipped up the lake on Sunday evening, but it is thought that it was not sufficient to upset their boat. In fact the boat did not upset. When the craft was found it was floating upright and there was not a drop of water in it. However, a spark plug from the engine indicated the young men had experienced some engine trouble. Their fishing tackle and several fish were lying in the bottom of the boat.

The theory is advanced that after vainly endeavoring to repair their engine trouble, the young men decided to get over the side of the useless boat and swim to shore. During the swim, it is thought, they were drowned.

Robert Whytock was an expert swimmer, but McKenzie Clarke could not swim. The former was a student at High School, while Clarke is a clerk in Reid's Hardware Store. He is married and has an infant child.

HYDRO PLAN IS FORWARD STEP

Chairman J. R. Cooke Cites Benefits of Hot Water Heating by Electric Energy

With public interest focussed on the Hydro plan to equip Hydro homes in Ontario with electric water heaters at no installation cost, the statement of J. R. Cooke, Chairman of the Ontario Hydro, comes at a timely moment.

Quered on the Hydro plan, Mr. Cooke said that it was already exercising a stimulating and beneficial influence on industrial and domestic life in the province.

"Most of us know," Mr. Cooke went on, "that metal-working and electrical trades in the province have directly benefited by the work involved in the extensive manufacture of heaters, heater parts and accessories to the specifications of the Hydro Commission. Employment has been given many Ontario citizens at a time when it was sorely needed, and the consequent flow of wages has favourably affected retail and other commercial activities not directly associated with the plan."

"Naturally the increased activity and consequent employment are desirable results of the Hydro Commission's decision to go ahead with the plan. But I think that the direct benefit in service to householders deserves special emphasis."

"Here is a plan that permits tenants and owners of Hydro homes to enjoy the recognized benefits of electric water heating service without a cent of installation cost. There are thousands of residents in Ontario who appreciate what electricity means in added cleanliness, convenience and economy. But many have considered the cost of installing water heating equipment a handicap in these times. It is to these people, particularly, that the Hydro plan of free water heater installation will appeal, as well as to thousands of others who have merely postponed investing in installation from time to time. The large number of applications for free installation already received indicates that practically every class of tenant and owner is fully alive to the merits of the plan."

"The domestic heating of water electrically in most municipalities is cheaper and more convenient than by any other method. It is entirely without the disadvantages of other systems of water heating. For instance, some householders heat water by means of rings in their furnaces. A recent investigation by heating engineers has disclosed the fact that the use of water heater rings in furnaces (and they operate only intermittently during the winter months) consumes enough additional coal in winter to pay the cost of the electric power necessary to heat all water required by the user for an entire year. "Coal-jacket heaters are also used by many yet this type of heater requires constant daily attention and consumes more coal than would pay for the cost of current for an electric heater. Gas heaters, where they are thermostatically controlled and where rates are equal to or greater than rates charged in Toronto, cost much more than electric heaters and give less satisfactory service."

"These facts lead me to believe that there is a wide market for electric water heaters in Ontario. That installation of such heaters is entirely free, and that Ontario domestic power rates are among the lowest in the world, means that thousands of people throughout the entire province will avail themselves of the Hydro power. Already many applications have been received for free installations of flat rate electric water heaters and they indicate the trend of public sentiment towards the Hydro plan."

"The additional outlets for power which this wide public acceptance of free heater installation makes possible will, I am sure, enable the Hydro Commission to effect economies in unit costs of power delivered. At any rate the Hydro plan is one that benefits all parties and injures none. It certainly involves a heavy initial investment by the Commission, but I confidently expect to see the entire investment repaid by revenue inside plan will literally pay for itself. The first twelve months so that the Hydro plan is a genuinely constructive undertaking. I think it shows that the Ontario Hydro Commission is doing its part to promote the interests of consumers and maintain the activity of one of Canada's greatest industries — the power industry — which has set to work in Canada an invested capital of $1,056,000,000."

ST. PAUL'S Y. P. S.

The closing exercises of St. Paul's Y.P.S. was held on Monday evening, in the church parlours, which looked very pretty, decorated with lilacs, tulips and lily of the valley. This meeting took the form of a social evening and the program was under the direction of the Literary department, with the President, Mr. Harry Hullin, in the chair. The meeting opened by the singing of "Stand up for Jesus", followed with prayer by Rev. E. W. Rowland. W. Rowland. Maurice Bell and part of his guitar class, namely Margaret Wright, Ruby Stapley, Pearl Stapley, Charlie Irvin, Harry Vandervoort, accompanied by Mrs. E. W. Rowland, rendered a classic number entitled, "Mañana". The Sunday School orchestra, with Miss Jean McCubbin at the piano, gave a selection entitled "On the Hike". Bright community singing led by Dorcy Clute enlivened the large audience, everyone entering heartily into the singing of the popular airs. The Count showed an attendance of 150. The Khaki side was victorious this year, gaining by 47 points. A very faintly lunch was served by the members of the Society, and the social hour closed by singing the National Anthem, all repeating the Mizpah benediction. The Young People's Society will not open until September.

The regular meeting of the Guild was held on Monday evening under the direction of Arthur Duncan. Mr. H. Lovibond gave a most instructive address on "Comparative Religions". Two religions, Confucianism and Hinduism were contrasted with our Christian religion. Confucius was born about 1512 B.C., and in his early years he was not outstanding or exceptional with his ability, but rather quite average. He was in his youth very diligent, however. At the age of twenty-four his mother died and a deep shadow was cast over his life. For three years he went into seclusion, where he did much thinking. Parents were greatly respected in those days, hence Confucius paid great respect to the death of his mother. At the end of three years he came out to the world as a great teacher, with great Truths or Maxims. Confucius took everything for granted. He never questioned the origin of anything, but he had a contemporary who from his poetry revealed that he had a clear conception of God as the Maker and Creator of all things. Confucius held rigidly to his maxims which stressed conformity, rectitude and sincerity. He lacked the idea of God and so his religion is not vital or pulsating. There is nothing of joy in his religion and he missed the medium of Jesus Christ. As the Proverbs are to the New Testament, so is Confucianism to our Christian religion.

Hinduism believed in reincarnation. If we live good lives we will transigrate into some other form, some thing higher and better. If not good, then we might change into a mosquito or some of the smaller insects. This is a very depressing religion. Dr. Stanley Jones wanted to find if anyone ever reached their objective with this religion so he went to the Himalayas, but he could discover no one. Three names were submitted to him of men who had in the past ages had their souls merged with the Universal or in other words they had reached their objective. No proof of the real existence of such men was to be found however. Dr. Jones asked "What were three among so many millions? Our religion is personal and vital and missionary, while theirs is cold and dead and selfish. Mrs. (Rev.) Koffend played a piano solo which everyone appreciated. Ray Williams played a guitar solo. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction. Next Monday's meeting is to be a Social evening to which all are invited.

Rev. A. E. McCutcheon, Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, was the special preacher at St. Paul's United Church, Stirling (his home church), on Sunday. This was Mr. McCutcheon's farewell sermon to his old friends in this district before he leaves for North Battleford, Sask.

VICTORIA DAY SPIRIT?

The celebration of Queen Victoria's birthday passed over very quietly and peacefully in Stirling yesterday. The rain in the morning — although the weatherman had prophesied that the sun would shine all day — did not effect any "doings" here. After realizing the way this day was celebrated we have concluded that the 24th of May is not what it used to be. It is still a holiday, but it has travelled far from the days when the school children used to sing,

"The 24th of May,
The Queen's birthday,
If we don't get a holiday,
We'll all run away."

These were the days when the 24th of May was the occasion of patriotic celebration, in honour of the birthday of Queen Victoria the Good, who was born on May 24th, 1819. After her death, the holiday remained, in remembrance of her epoch-making reign. But the real significance of the day is fast disappearing. The spirit which used to prevail on Victoria Day is now best seen in the observance in the schools of Ontario on Empire Day, May 23, when patriotic songs and exercises form a pre-holiday program. Victoria Day, however, has now become the opening day of summer. Gardeners look on it as the date on which it is safe to start planting out their tender plants. People with summer cottages look upon it as the day for opening up the summer home, and putting it in shape for the season. And sports followers of all kinds find it an opportunity for indulging in their favourite games. That is Victoria Day, as it is now. And it can by no stretch of the imagination be considered as typical of the spirit of patriotic fervor in which the holiday was created.
